PRO-BILBO FILIBUSTER THREATENS

New Congress May Give Tax Bill No. 1 Spot

Measure Would Reduce Personal Income Levies 20 Per Cent

WILL BE INTRODUCED AT "HIGH NOON" TODAY

Republicans Back In Saddle For First Time In 15 Years

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The nation's lawmakers rallied tonight for the advent of a new era—the first session of the 80th Congress tomorrow—amid predictions that a 20 per cent cut in personal income taxes will be the first bill introduced

On the eve of the momentous session, Chairman-to-be Knutson (R-Minn.), of the House Ways and Means Committee, announced that legislation proposing the 20 per cent reduction will be brought up for top priority consideration.

The measure would cut $3,500,000,000 from personal income taxes "across the board" in 1947.

Knutson voiced confidence the measure will be passed, despite previous opposition in both Democratic and Republican ranks. He said the bill "will be introduced at high noon" tomorrow.

Bilbo Fight Holds Attention

Besides taxes, the nation's attention was focussed on the dramatic fight to bar Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo (D-Miss.) from taking his seat as Congress prepared to convene under Republican domination for the first time in 15 years.

In an eleventh-hour action intensifying the anti-Bilbo movement, the Senate Republican Steering Committee today recommended that the Mississippi Senator be halted at the Senate door when he attempts to take the oath tomorrow.

The committee's proposed strategy, if acted upon, would prevent Bilbo from staging one of his famous filibusters in his own defense.

Back in the saddle for the first time since the Hoover regime, the Republicans dissolved their differences over the key post of floor leader in the GOP - dominated House. The choice went to Rep. Charles A. Halleck, of Indiana, who, in that role, will quarterback the Republican team in the House.

Halleck's selection was assured when Reps. Everett M. Dirksen, of Illinois, and Thomas Jenkins, of Ohio, withdrew from the race. Earlier, Rep. Clarence J. Brown, of Ohio, had also withdrawn.

Barkley Leads Senate Democrats

In the Senate, the Democratic minority elected Sen. Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, as their floor leader and named Sen. Lucas, of Illinois, as "whip"—the man who rounds up straying party members when their votes are needed at a critical juncture.

Republican senators had previously chosen Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, as presiding officer in the GOP-controlled Senate, with Sen. Wallace White, of Maine, as Republican floor leader and Sen. Kenneth Wherry, of Nebraska, as GOP whip.

As the day of fast-moving preliminaries ended, the House Democrats adopted a resolution commending President Truman and expressing confidence that:

"Under his leadership the United States will continue its forward march to continued and increasing prosperity and to enduring and lasting peace and comity in our relations with all nations of the world."

With party harmony already achieved among the Republicans, after weeks of intra-mural squabbling over leadership posts, the Democrats also closed ranks with the unanimous selection of 64-year-old Rep. Sam Rayburn, of Texas, as his party's floor leader in the House. In that role, Rayburn will spearhead Democratic action in the GOP-controlled House.

Lane Is Elected Interim Governor By Legislature; Will Assume Office Today

O'Conor Submits Resignation; 50 Measures Are Introduced

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 2. (AP)—In a precedent-making 14-minute joint session, Maryland's General Assembly today elected William Preston Lane, Jr., as governor to serve an interim five days before his regular term begins.

The 56-year-old Governor-elect will assume office at noon tomorrow, with the only ceremony the actual taking of the oath. His inauguration will be January 8.

Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor handed the President of the Senate and Speaker of the House identical letters of resignation, in which he said:

"I beg to submit herewith my resignation as Governor of Maryland, the said resignation to be effective as of noon and Friday, January 3, 1947."

O'Conor will go to Washington tomorrow to become a senator.

GOP Offers No Candidate

Democrats of House and Senate held a joint caucus to make Lane's nomination formal. The joint session began at 2:22 p. m. and was ended by 2:36 p. m.

Sen. L. Harold Sothoron (D-Prince George's), majority floor leader, nominated Lane. The nomination was seconded by Sen. Edward D. Storm (D-Frederick) and Delegate John Clark (D-Harford). Sen. David K. McLaughlin (R-Washington) then moved to close the nominations.

The Republican minority did not offer any candidate for the five-day term, although it could have done so if the members wished.

In contrast to yesterday's dreary hours of waiting while Lane and his advisors threshed out organizational matters, the Assembly moved with dispatch in getting today's work done. Adjournment was taken before 3 p. m. until 11 a. m. tomorrow.

After the new Governor takes office, the two houses are expected to wind up a little routine and quit for the weekend.

Legislative business got off to a good start with introduction of 50 bills prepared by the Legislative Council. President Joseph R. Byrnes introduced 25 of them in the Senate and Speaker C. Ferdinand Sybert the other 25 in the House.

No Majority Floor Leader

The new measures included six of those prepared by the Commission on Distribution of Tax Revenues headed by Judge Joseph Sherbow, of Baltimore. O'Conor, in his final message, gave unqualified approval to the Sherbow report.

The Sherbow bills included: To amend the distribution of income tax payments to counties and cities; to provide for the return of 90 per cent of admission taxes to the locality in which they were collected and authorize municipalities to levy extra admission taxes; to provide for the payment of the recordation tax to counties, or Baltimore City; to amend the school fund law to

House Committee Opposes "Cheap" Army And Navy

Naval Group Declares U. S. Should Retain Pacific Islands

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — In an apparent effort to block an economy drive at the expense of the armed forces, the House Naval Committee cautioned Congress today that "the most expensive thing in the world is a cheap Army and Navy."

The assertion was incorporated in a lengthy report which endorsed a subcommittee's recommendation for American retention of Pacific island security bases and which urged preservation of a "healthy" aircraft industry.

A-Bomb Contention Challenged

The full committee acknowledged that "scientific research will shape the navy of tomorrow," but, in effect, challenged the contention advanced in some quarters that the atom bomb has made this nation's Navy obsolete.

Basing its findings upon the first hand observations of five of its members, the committee said that the bomb "is not most effective against fleets, but rather it is most potent against large land installations and concentrations of troops."

In dealing with the nation's plans for the Pacific, the committee stamped its okay upon a series of recommendations previously made public by a special subcommittee which made an on-the-spot survey of this country's defensive requirements there.

Subcommittee Recommendations

Chief of these recommendations were:

1. "At least" dominating control by the United States over the former Japanese mandated islands, and over the outlying Japanese islands of the Izus, Bonins and Ruykyus.

2. "Specific and substantial rights" for the United States to sites where American bases were constructed on Allied territory.

3. Full title to the United States to Manus, Nonmea, Espiritu Santo, Guadalcanal and other sites of American bases on islands "mandated to, or claimed by, other nations."

MOTHER SEES QUADS—Mrs. Charles Henn, Jr., mother of Baltimore's quadruplets, yesterday saw her children for the first time since December 22 when they were born. Wearing the official hospital mask and gown, the British war bride was taken down to the premature nursery in a wheelchair for a proper introduction to Thomas, Donald, Bruce and Joan.

U. S. Government Seeks To Enter Portal Pay Case

CIO-UAW Presents Bill For $507,000,000 To Ford, GM, Chrysler

[By The Associated Press]

The CIO United Auto Workers Union presented a half billion dollar portal-to-portal bill to the "Big Three" of the motorcar industry Thursday, pushing such claims sought by unions from employers throughout the country past the two and a quarter billion mark.

The CIO-UAW filed suits in Michigan for claims and damages of $410,000,000 from the Ford Motor Company, General Motors Corporation, and Chrysler Corporation. The new claims brought to $507,000,000 the total sought from the three firms. In addition, the union said suits totaling $32,210,000 were being filed against Ford outside of Michigan.

$270,000,000 Sought From Ford

The newest suit against Ford asked a total of $190,110,000. Previous claims against Ford brought the total to $270,000,000—the largest sought to date from any single employer.

Meanwhile, the Justice Department sought federal court permission to enter the portal-to-portal controversy and a Pittsburgh firm announced it was planning counteraction to a portal-to-portal suit in which a union would be asked to pay damages for an alleged slow down.

Attorney General Tom Clark said the Justice Department wants to file a brief in the Mt. Clemens Pottery Company case, which touched off the flood of portal suits. Two of his assistants, Clark said, had applied to Federal Judge Frank A. Picard, of Detroit, for permission to file a brief as a "friend of the court."

High Court Upheld Judge

A Justice Department spokesman said the department was not entering the case on either side.

In his original ruling, Judge Picard held the Mt. Clemens pottery workers were entitled to back

Military Installations Attacked With Flame Throwers, Grenades; Tel Aviv Blacked Out

JERUSALEM, Friday, Jan. 3 (AP)—Jewish underground fighters launched a series of wide-spread attacks on British military installations in Palestine last night and early today, striking in Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, Tiberias, Hedera and Kiryat Haim near Haifa.

In Tiberias, on the Sea of Galilee 75 miles northeast of Jerusalem, the attackers used home-made flame throwers before they were beaten off. The assault there was directed at a military car park.

The outbreaks ended a lull in the Holy Land which had continued since December 5. They also came after the recent World Zionist Congress at Basel, Switzerland, had condemned the use of violence in strong terms.

Situation Tense

(Earlier a British government source in London had declared that the situation in Palestine was such now that one more incident "might blow the lid off.")

Observers said it was possible that these blows would be followed by further "operations" in the next few days since the Jewish underground organization, Irgun Zvai Leumi, had distributed pamphlets in several Jewish towns announcing further day and night attacks on British military objectives. The leaflets also alleged that "Great Britain was maintaining military bases in Palestine against all international legislation."

Tel Aviv Electric Wires Cut

Heavy shooting broke out in the center of Jerusalem presumably between police and military units and the attackers who earlier threw three grenades at British army quarters in the "Syrian Orphanage" vicinity. This Jewish quarter is in the western part of the city.

An official said the grenades caused no casualties and no damage.

British military headquarters in Citrus House in Tel Aviv also was placed under fire. During the heavy exchange which followed the electric wires apparently were cut throwing the entire city in darkness for a time.

British reinforcements were sent to Tel Aviv and troops subsequently cordoned off the area around Citrus House.

Senate Leaders Of GOP Accused Of Favoritism

Manipulation Of Committee Assignments Is Charged By Reed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Sen. Clyde M. Reed, of Kansas, accused fellow Republicans today of manipulating committee assignments to play favorites.

He further said that Republican Leader Wallace White, of Maine, paid "an almost complete lack of attention to his committee duties."

"It would have been better party policy to distribute the posts of distinction more widely than has been done," he said in a statement.

Reed criticized an arrangement to allow White to serve both as the Senate Republican leader and chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee. Reed has been trying to win the committee chairmanship.

In his statement, handed to reporters outside the Republican conference room, Reed said that White, while serving as Republican leader during the last session, had attended only four of the 67 sessions held by the Interstate Commerce Committee.

"I am not suggesting any lack of diligence on the part of Sen. White in his attention to Senate duties," Reed's statement said. "I am pointing out an almost complete lack of attention to his committee duties."

Reed said that as leader of the Republican majority White would have even less time for work on the committee he is slated to head and "important work of the Senate will suffer through inability of any one man to handle these great responsibilities."

"I also challenge manipulation of seniority by the committee (which made assignments) to favor some senators," Reed continued. x x x

Nine Escape Jail; Manhunt Begins

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Nine prisoners sawed their way out of Brooklyn's Raymond street jail today and New York police began a manhunt intensified by a warning from Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander to "be quick on the trigger."

Wallander broadcast an alert to patrolmen, detectives and squad cars, describing the escapees as dangerous and ordering officers to be ready to "shoot to kill."

The escape occurred between 1:15 and 1:45 p. m. District Attorney Miles F. MacDonald expressed the belief the break was aided by "either inside or outside help."

MacDonald and Commissioner of Correction Albert O. Williams gave this version of the escape:

The nine prisoners were returning from a prison medical examination. They departed from the customary route and passed an open door leading into a cell facing the courtyard.

One of the men climbed up to the cell window and, using a hacksaw, cut through the bar and squeezed through the 10-inch opening. His companions followed, sliding down to a repair platform under the window.

John Winant Resigns United Nations Post

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The White House today announced the resignation of John G. Winant as United States representative on the United Nations Economic and Social Council.

From State Department sources, it was learned that retiring Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, probably will succeed Winant on the council.

Winant, former American ambassador to London, is leaving his United Nations post on January 10.

In his letter of resignation, Winant said that the work of organization and co-ordination of the council was almost completed and that he desired to return to private pursuits.

Lynching Probe Witness Beaten

ATLANTA, Jan. 2 (AP)—A 19-year-old Walton county negro, his face bruised and battered, said tonight he was beaten by two white men who attempted to force from him his testimony before a federal grand jury investigating the lynching of four negroes there last summer.

The youth, who gave his name as Lamar Howard, an employe of an ice house at Monroe, was brought here by several Atlanta negro leaders for medical treatment and to relate the incident to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The grand jury reported on December 19 it had been unable to ascertain the identity of any members of the armed mob which shot the four negroes to death last July 25. United States District Judge T. Hoyt Davis held the grand jury in session for consideration of any further evidence which might be uncovered.

In an interview, Howard told his story of how the two men approached him at the iceplant yesterday, took him to the rear at the point of a pistol and beat him about the face and head for "10 or 15 minutes" with their fists and the gun.

Deputy Sheriff Louis Howard, of Walton county, reached by telephone at Monroe, said he was called to the hospital last night to see the negro.

"He said he didn't want to prosecute anybody," Howard said. "I don't know anything else about the case."

Inverchapel Sympathizes But Can't Use Loan To Improve N. Y. Subways

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — Lord Inverchapel, the British ambassador, says his sympathy for harassed New York subway riders is boundless but he legally cannot part with a farthing of the American loan to Britain to make their lot a happier one.

His sentiments were contained in a letter to Tom McConnon, a New York subway rider, after McConnon vainly sought a slice of the American loan for "these millions of displaced persons of Greater New York" who ride the subways.

"It may not go down in history as the McConnon-Inverchapel correspondence," said McConnon, a Civil Service employe, in releasing copies of the letters today. "But if it does the least bit toward cleaning up those subways it won't have been in vain."

In a letter of December 15, McConnon pleaded with Inverchapel:

"Out of the $1,000,000,000 which this wealthiest country gave to your noble England, loan to us New Yorkers one-eightieth of that amount—$50,000,000—so that some merciful steps can be taken right now to procure a few trains, lengthen a few station platforms, install some sanitary toilets, scatter some disease-repellant properties in these torturesome dungeons of the underworld."

Said Inverchapel sympathetically in reply:

"I can well imagine how unpleasant it must be to travel every day in an overcrowded underground. x x x"

But he pointed out tactfully to McConnon in the best language of British diplomacy that he did not have the power to return to this country any of the credit extended Britain, "nor if I did, could I presume to suggest either to your government or to your city how it should be spent."

Coed, Ex-Con Reportedly In Cleveland

Objects Of Nationwide Search Said To Be Returning To Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 2 (AP) —The 20-year-old daughter of an Ohio State University professor and Robert H. Hemming, 42-year-old former convict with whom she disappeared Wednesday evening, left Cleveland tonight to return to Columbus, Hemming's daughter said Cleveland relatives had advised her tonight.

Hemming's daughter, Sarah, a friend of the missing girl, Mary Virginia Kimberly, said a cousin in Cleveland telephoned to her that Hemming and the pretty red-haired Ohio State University senior left there about 5:45 p. m. after hearing a radio news broadcast that they were the object of a nationwide search.

Started Back To Columbus

They started back to Columbus, the cousin told her, Miss Hemming said.

Upper Arlington police said they had not been advised of the call from Cleveland, and Prof E. E. Kimberly, father of the girl, could not be reached immediately. His family reported that he had left the house to swear out an affidavit against Hemming, but insisted that neither the Hemmings nor the police had told them that Mary Virginia was reported to have been in Cleveland tonight.

Sarah Hemming, however, claimed that "police heard all of the conversation from Cleveland." The cousin there, she said, told her that Hemming and Miss Kimberly "got scared and left" shortly after hearing the news broadcast.

Lured From Home, Professor Says

Kimberly told police that his daughter was lured from her home on the pretext she was being driven to the house of a friend.

The man who called for her, Kimberly said, was Robert Haine Hemming who, police records show, has served terms in California, Georgia and Texas.

Kimberly said Hemming picked up his daughter and asserted he was taking the red-haired Ohio State senior to a party at the home of his daughter, Sarah Hemming, a friend of Miss Kimberly.

There was no party, he said a check disclosed later.

Subversive Agent "Purge" Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities urged tonight that patriotic Americans everywhere "purge" Un-American agents from organizations and activities with which they are in contact.

For its part, the committee recommended 11 legislative steps to combat subversive elements, including a requirement that only American citizens be allowed to hold office "in any labor unions subject to federal laws." Federal employment also should be limited to citizens, the committee said.

It filed the legislative proposals with the House as part of a final report on its work during the past year. Rep. Wood (D-Ga), retiring chairman, said he felt that "we have done great work for the American people."

But the report said neither the committee nor the FBI by themselves can prevent growth of un-Americanism in this country. It said active co-operation of the people is necessary.

Five U. S. Airmen Bail Out After Becoming Lost

LERWICK, Shetland Islands, Friday, Jan. 3 (AP) — Five United States Army airmen, lost while making a flight from Iceland to Scotland in a B-17 Flying Fortress, parachuted out of the plane today and four of them reached this largest town in the Shetland islands an hour after touching ground.

Coast guard patrols were searching the moors for the fifth crew member whose open parachute was found on the ground.

Truman-Farley Ticket Endorsed By Woodring

TOPEKA, Kas., Jan. 2 (AP)—Former Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring said today he had "aided" a movement to boom James A. Farley as a running mate for President Truman in 1948.

Woodring, former Governor of Kansas and Secretary of War in the early part of President Roosevelt's administration, expressed belief that a Truman-Farley ticket would be the strongest the Democrats could offer.

His disclosure that he had "aided" a movement for the former Postmaster General followed a New York Daily News story that a Truman-Farley boom would be "openly launched" at the Jefferson Day dinner in New York some time in April.

Bell Succeeds Martin

State's Rights Issue, Asserts Sen. Maybank

Southern Democrats Are Prepared To "Debate A Week Or Longer"

GOP WILL TRY TO HALT MISSISSIPPIAN AT DOOR

Republicans And Democrats Are Unable To Agree On Procedure

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — A filibuster in behalf of Sen. Bilbo (D-Miss) threatened tonight after Senate Republicans formally directed their steering committee to try to halt him at the Senate's threshold, tomorrow.

Sen. Maybank (D-SC) told a reporter that he and certain other Southern Democrats were prepared to "debate a week or longer." He said that if necessary, he would read every line of the voluminous record of a Senate investigation into Bilbo's re-election.

This could prevent all senators elected in 1946 from taking their seats and snarl up organization of the Senate.

Asserting that action against Bilbo should wait until any charges of "mis-doing are "proved," Maybank said:

"The Constitution of the the United States gives states the right to send two senaors here.

"We are determined to see that no Republican is seated tomorrow unless Bilbo takes his seat. This is no demagogue issue. It's a state's rights issue and an issue of the Constitution of the United States."

Other Developments

There were these other developments in the case of Sen. Bilbo, who is accused of intimidating negroes from voting and of violating the law in his dealings with war contractors:

1. Sen. Bridges (R-NH) informed newsmen 48 Senate Republicans attending a conference voted unanimously in favor of a plan to challenge Bilbo at the door.

2. A Senate Democratic official, who declined to be quoted by name, told a reporter he believed Republicans "have the votes" to keep Bilbo from taking his seat and to refer muster charges against him to the new rules committee, headed by Sen. Brooks (R-Ill). This official said enough Democrats would vote with the Republicans to attain this result. However, a filibuster could delay a vote indefinitely.

3. Sen. Hoey (D-NC) declared to reporters that "failure to seat Sen. Bilbo would be like sentencing a man without a fair trial."

4. Sen. Millikin (R-Colo), chairman of the Senate Republican conference, said he wanted to make it very clear that "there can be nothing come up tomorrow that will finally decide the Senate's action in the Bilbo case". The only question to be decided, he said is whether Bilbo shall be allowed to take the oath—"The decision on the merits will come up later."

No Agreement Reached

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter after a conference with Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) that no agreement had been reached on procedure in the Bilbo case. He added, however:

"We have the votes to keep Bilbo from taking his seat. I am certain of that."

When the Senate convenes tomorrow, Leslie L. Biffle, a Democrat and its secretary, will be presiding. At that time, there would be 30 Democrats and 29 Republicans as holdovers eligible to vote on a challenge to Bilbo.

Republicans reportedly have drafted a resolution which would deny Bilbo's right to take his seat immediately and refer to Brooks' committee charges that Bilbo profited from dealings with war contractors and that he violated federal laws in preventing negroes from voting.

It was understool this resolution would call for a report from the Brooks committee to the Senate not later than January 18, when the

Supplement To Arguments Against Seating O'Conor Filed By Markey

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — D. John Markey, unsuccessful Republican candidate for the United States Senate seat Gov. O'Conor is scheduled to assume tomorrow, filed an eleventh-hour supplement today to his arguments against the seating of his rival.

Renewing his charges of campaign and election irregularities, Markey filed a formal petition for an election recount with the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee in which he said 50 voting machines in Baltimore had been improperly sealed during the November 5 balloting.

These machines, he said, were found "in such a condition that there is no assurance that such machines had not been tampered with and unlawful votes registered after the election."

The Senate committee has not yet made a report, but some time ago its chairman, Sen. Ellender, of Louisiana, said he knew of no reason why the Maryland Chief Executive should not be seated.

Similarly, Republican members of the committee said they would not oppose the seating of O'Conor tomorrow.

In today's petition, Markey reiterated a score of irregularity charges first presented in his notice of contest filed with the Senate committee on December 10.

He emphasized that boards of election supervisors in Maryland consisted of two Democrats and "one Republican likewise acceptable to O'Conor" and that "partisan control of the election machinery coupled with chicanery of a small number of election judges in a close election could change the result."

A-Bomb Contention Challenged

The full committee acknowledged that "scientific research will shape the navy of tomorrow," but, in effect, challenged the contention advanced in some quarters that the atom bomb has made this nation's Navy obsolete.

Basing its findings upon the first hand observations of five of its members, the committee said that the bomb "is not most effective against fleets, but rather it is most potent against large land installations and concentrations of troops."

In dealing with the nation's plans for the Pacific, the committee stamped its okay upon a series of recommendations previously made public by a special subcommittee which made an on-the-spot survey of this country's defensive requirements there.

Subcommittee Recommendations

Chief of these recommendations were:

1. "At least" dominating control by the United States over the former Japanese mandated islands, and over the outlying Japanese islands of the Izus, Bonins and Ruykyus.

2. "Specific and substantial rights" for the United States to sites where American bases were constructed on Allied territory.

3. Full title to the United States to Manus, Nonmea, Espiritu Santo, Guadalcanal and other sites of American bases on islands "mandated to, or claimed by, other nations."

Nine Escape Jail; Manhunt Begins

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Nine prisoners sawed their way out of Brooklyn's Raymond street jail today and New York police began a manhunt intensified by a warning from Police Commissioner Arthur W. Wallander to "be quick on the trigger."

Wallander broadcast an alert to patrolmen, detectives and squad cars, describing the escapees as dangerous and ordering officers to be ready to "shoot to kill."

The escape occurred between 1:15 and 1:45 p. m. District Attorney Miles F. MacDonald expressed the belief the break was aided by "either inside or outside help."

MacDonald and Commissioner of Correction Albert O. Williams gave this version of the escape:

The nine prisoners were returning from a prison medical examination. They departed from the customary route and passed an open door leading into a cell facing the courtyard.

One of the men climbed up to the cell window and, using a hacksaw, cut through the bar and squeezed through the 10-inch opening. His companions followed, sliding down to a repair platform under the window.

U. S. Government Seeks To Enter Portal Pay Case

[By The Associated Press]

The CIO United Auto Workers Union presented a half billion dollar portal-to-portal bill to the "Big Three" of the motorcar industry Thursday, pushing such claims sought by unions from employers throughout the country past the two and a quarter billion mark.

The CIO-UAW filed suits in Michigan for claims and damages of $410,000,000 from the Ford Motor Company, General Motors Corporation, and Chrysler Corporation. The new claims brought to $507,000,000 the total sought from the three firms. In addition, the union said suits totaling $32,210,000 were being filed against Ford outside of Michigan.

$270,000,000 Sought From Ford

The newest suit against Ford asked a total of $190,110,000. Previous claims against Ford brought the total to $270,000,000—the largest sought to date from any single employer.

Meanwhile, the Justice Department sought federal court permission to enter the portal-to-portal controversy and a Pittsburgh firm announced it was planning counteraction to a portal-to-portal suit in which a union would be asked to pay damages for an alleged slow down.

Attorney General Tom Clark said the Justice Department wants to file a brief in the Mt. Clemens Pottery Company case, which touched off the flood of portal suits. Two of his assistants, Clark said, had applied to Federal Judge Frank A. Picard, of Detroit, for permission to file a brief as a "friend of the court."

High Court Upheld Judge

A Justice Department spokesman said the department was not entering the case on either side.

In his original ruling, Judge Picard held the Mt. Clemens pottery workers were entitled to back

Military Installations Attacked With Flame Throwers, Grenades; Tel Aviv Blacked Out

JERUSALEM, Friday, Jan. 3 (AP)—Jewish underground fighters launched a series of wide-spread attacks on British military installations in Palestine last night and early today, striking in Jerusalem, Tel Aviv, Tiberias, Hedera and Kiryat Haim near Haifa.

In Tiberias, on the Sea of Galilee 75 miles northeast of Jerusalem, the attackers used home-made flame throwers before they were beaten off. The assault there was directed at a military car park.

The outbreaks ended a lull in the Holy Land which had continued since December 5. They also came after the recent World Zionist Congress at Basel, Switzerland, had condemned the use of violence in strong terms.

Situation Tense

(Earlier a British government source in London had declared that the situation in Palestine was such now that one more incident "might blow the lid off.")

Observers said it was possible that these blows would be followed by further "operations" in the next few days since the Jewish underground organization, Irgun Zvai Leumi, had distributed pamphlets in several Jewish towns announcing further day and night attacks on British military objectives. The leaflets also alleged that "Great Britain was maintaining military bases in Palestine against all international legislation."

Tel Aviv Electric Wires Cut

Heavy shooting broke out in the center of Jerusalem presumably between police and military units and the attackers who earlier threw three grenades at British army quarters in the "Syrian Orphanage" vicinity. This Jewish quarter is in the western part of the city.

An official said the grenades caused no casualties and no damage.

British military headquarters in Citrus House in Tel Aviv also was placed under fire. During the heavy exchange which followed the electric wires apparently were cut throwing the entire city in darkness for a time.

British reinforcements were sent to Tel Aviv and troops subsequently cordoned off the area around Citrus House.

Senate Leaders Of GOP Accused Of Favoritism

Manipulation Of Committee Assignments Is Charged By Reed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—Sen. Clyde M. Reed, of Kansas, accused fellow Republicans today of manipulating committee assignments to play favorites.

He further said that Republican Leader Wallace White, of Maine, paid "an almost complete lack of attention to his committee duties."

"It would have been better party policy to distribute the posts of distinction more widely than has been done," he said in a statement.

Reed criticised an arrangement to allow White to serve both as the Senate Republican leader and chairman of the Interstate Commerce Committee. Reed has been trying to win the committee chairmanship.

In his statement, handed to reporters outside the Republican conference room, Reed said that White, while serving as Republican leader during the last session, had attended only four of the 67 sessions held by the Interstate Commerce Committee.

"I am not suggesting any lack of diligence on the part of Sen. White in his attention to Senate duties," Reed's statement said. "I am pointing out an almost complete lack of attention to his committee duties."

Reed said that as leader of the Republican majority White would have even less time for work on the committee he is slated to head and "important work of the Senate will suffer through inability of any one man to handle these great responsibilities."

"I also challenge manipulation of seniority by the committee (which made assignments) to favor some senators," Reed continued. x x x

Truman-Farley Ticket Endorsed By Woodring

TOPEKA, Kas., Jan. 2 (AP)—Former Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring said today he had "aided" a movement to boom James A. Farley as a running mate for President Truman in 1948.

Woodring, former Governor of Kansas and Secretary of War in the early part of President Roosevelt's administration, expressed belief that a Truman-Farley ticket would be the strongest the Democrats could offer.

His disclosure that he had "aided" a movement for the former Postmaster General followed a New York Daily News story that a Truman-Farley boom would be "openly launched" at the Jefferson Day dinner in New York some time in April.

Bell Succeeds Martin

Objects Of Nationwide Search Said To Be Returning To Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 2 (AP) —The 20-year-old daughter of an Ohio State University professor and Robert H. Hemming, 42-year-old former convict with whom she disappeared Wednesday evening, left Cleveland tonight to return to Columbus, Hemming's daughter said Cleveland relatives had advised her tonight.

Hemming's daughter, Sarah, a friend of the missing girl, Mary Virginia Kimberly, said a cousin in Cleveland telephoned to her that Hemming and the pretty red-haired Ohio State University senior left there about 5:45 p. m. after hearing a radio news broadcast that they were the object of a nationwide search.

Started Back To Columbus

They started back to Columbus, the cousin told her, Miss Hemming said.

Upper Arlington police said they had not been advised of the call from Cleveland, and Prof E. E. Kimberly, father of the girl, could not be reached immediately. His family reported that he had left the house to swear out an affidavit against Hemming, but insisted that neither the Hemmings nor the police had told them that Mary Virginia was reported to have been in Cleveland tonight.

Sarah Hemming, however, claimed that "police heard all of the conversation from Cleveland." The cousin there, she said, told her that Hemming and Miss Kimberly "got scared and left" shortly after hearing the news broadcast.

Lured From Home, Professor Says

Kimberly told police that his daughter was lured from her home on the pretext she was being driven to the house of a friend.

The man who called for her, Kimberly said, was Robert Haine Hemming who, police records show, has served terms in California, Georgia and Texas.

Kimberly said Hemming picked up his daughter and asserted he was taking the red-haired Ohio State senior to a party at the home of his daughter, Sarah Hemming, a friend of Miss Kimberly.

There was no party, he said a check disclosed later.

Subversive Agent "Purge" Is Urged

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP)—The House Committee on Un-American Activities urged tonight that patriotic Americans everywhere "purge" Un-American agents from organizations and activities with which they are in contact.

For its part, the committee recommended 11 legislative steps to combat subversive elements, including a requirement that only American citizens be allowed to hold office "in any labor unions subject to federal laws." Federal employment also should be limited to citizens, the committee said.

It filed the legislative proposals with the House as part of a final report on its work during the past year. Rep. Wood (D-Ga), retiring chairman, said he felt that "we have done great work for the American people."

But the report said neither the committee nor the FBI by themselves can prevent growth of un-Americanism in this country. It said active co-operation of the people is necessary.

Five U. S. Airmen Bail Out After Becoming Lost

LERWICK, Shetland Islands, Friday, Jan. 3 (AP) — Five United States Army airmen, lost while making a flight from Iceland to Scotland in a B-17 Flying Fortress, parachuted out of the plane today and four of them reached this largest town in the Shetland islands an hour after touching ground.

Coast guard patrols were searching the moors for the fifth crew member whose open parachute was found on the ground.

State's Rights Issue, Asserts Sen. Maybank

Southern Democrats Are Prepared To "Debate A Week Or Longer"

GOP WILL TRY TO HALT MISSISSIPPIAN AT DOOR

Republicans And Democrats Are Unable To Agree On Procedure

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — A filibuster in behalf of Sen. Bilbo (D-Miss) threatened tonight after Senate Republicans formally directed their steering committee to try to halt him at the Senate's threshold, tomorrow.

Sen. Maybank (D-SC) told a reporter that he and certain other Southern Democrats were prepared to "debate a week or longer." He said that if necessary, he would read every line of the voluminous record of a Senate investigation into Bilbo's re-election.

This could prevent all senators elected in 1946 from taking their seats and snarl up organization of the Senate.

Asserting that action against Bilbo should wait until any charges of "mis-doing are "proved," Maybank said:

"The Constitution of the the United States gives states the right to send two senaors here.

"We are determined to see that no Republican is seated tomorrow unless Bilbo takes his seat. This is no demagogue issue. It's a state's rights issue and an issue of the Constitution of the United States."

Other Developments

There were these other developments in the case of Sen. Bilbo, who is accused of intimidating negroes from voting and of violating the law in his dealings with war contractors:

1. Sen. Bridges (R-NH) informed newsmen 46 Senate Republicans attending a conference voted unanimously in favor of a plan to challenge Bilbo at the door.

2. A Senate Democratic official, who declined to be quoted by name, told a reporter he believed Republicans "have the votes" to keep Bilbo from taking his seat and to refer muster charges against him to the new rules' committee, headed by Sen. Brooks (R-Ill). This official said enough Democrats would vote with the Republicans to attain this result. However, a filibuster could delay a vote indefinitely.

3. Sen. Hoey (D-NC) declared to reporters that "failure to seat Sen. Bilbo would be like sentencing a man without a fair trial."

4. Sen. Millikin (R-Colo), chairman of the Senate Republican conference, said he wanted to make it very clear that "there can be nothing come up tomorrow that will finally decide the Senate's action in the Bilbo case". The only question to be decided, he said is whether Bilbo shall be allowed to take the oath—"The decision on the merits will come up later."

No Agreement Reached

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) told a reporter after a conference with Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) that no agreement had been reached on procedure in the Bilbo case. He added, however:

"We have the votes to keep Bilbo from taking his seat. I am certain of that."

When the Senate convenes tomorrow, Leslie L. Biffle, a Democrat and its secretary, will be presiding. At that time, there would be 30 Democrats and 29 Republicans as holdovers eligible to vote on a challenge to Bilbo.

Republicans reportedly have drafted a resolution which would deny Bilbo's right to take his seat immediately and refer to Brooks' committee charges that Bilbo profited from dealings with war contractors and that he violated federal laws in preventing negroes from voting.

It was understool this resolution would call for a report from the Brooks committee to the Senate not later than January 18, when the

Inverchapel Sympathizes But Can't Use Loan To Improve N. Y. Subways

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — Lord Inverchapel, the British ambassador, says his sympathy for harassed New York subway riders is boundless but he legally cannot part with a farthing of the American loan to Britain to make their lot a happier one.

His sentiments were contained in a letter to Tom McConnon, a New York subway rider, after McConnon vainly sought a slice of the American loan for "these millions of displaced persons of Greater New York" who ride the subways.

"It may not go down in history as the McConnon-Inverchapel correspondence," said McConnon, a Civil Service employe, in releasing copies of the letters today. "But if it does the least bit toward cleaning up those subways it won't have been in vain."

In a letter of December 15, McConnon pleaded with Inverchapel:

"Out of the $1,000,000,000 which this wealthiest country gave to your noble England, loan to us New Yorkers one-eightieth of that amount—$50,000,000—so that some merciful steps can be taken right now to procure a few trains, lengthen a few station platforms, install some sanitary toilets, scatter some disease-repellant properties in these torture-some dungeons of the underworld."

Said Inverchapel sympathetically in reply:

"I can well imagine how unpleasant it must be to travel every day in an overcrowded underground. x x x"

But he pointed out tactfully to McConnon in the best language of British diplomacy that he did not have the power to return to this country any of the credit extended Britain, "nor if I did, could I presume to suggest either to your government or to your city how it should be spent."

John Winant Resigns United Nations Post

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — The White House today announced the resignation of John G. Winant as United States representative on the United Nations Economic and Social Council.

From State Department sources, it was learned that retiring Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, of Wisconsin, probably will succeed Winant on the council.

Winant, former American ambassador to London, is leaving his United Nations post on January 10.

In his letter of resignation, Winant said that the work of organization and co-ordination of the council was almost completed and that he desired to return to private pursuits.

Lynching Probe Witness Beaten

ATLANTA, Jan. 2 (AP)—A 19-year-old Walton county negro, his face bruised and battered, said tonight he was beaten by two white men who attempted to force from him his testimony before a federal grand jury investigating the lynching of four negroes there last summer.

The youth, who gave his name as Lamar Howard, an employe of an ice house at Monroe, was brought here by several Atlanta negro leaders for medical treatment and to relate the incident to the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

The grand jury reported on December 19 it had been unable to ascertain the identity of any members of the armed mob which shot the four negroes to death last July 25. United States District Judge T. Hoyt Davis held the grand jury in session for consideration of any further evidence which might be uncovered.

In an interview, Howard told his story of how the two men approached him at the iceplant yesterday, took him to the rear at the point of a pistol and beat him about the face and head for "10 or 15 minutes" with their fists and the gun.

Deputy Sheriff Louis Howard, of Walton county, reached by telephone at Monroe, said he was called to the hospital last night to see the negro.

"He said he didn't want to prosecute anybody," Howard said. "I don't know anything else about the case."

Supplement To Arguments Against Seating O'Conor Filed By Markey

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 (AP) — D. John Markey, unsuccesful Republican candidate for the United States Senate seat Gov. O'Conor is scheduled to assume tomorrow, filed an eleventh-hour supplement today to his arguments against the seating of his rival.

Renewing his charges of campaign and election irregularities, Markey filed a formal petition for an election recount with the Senate Campaign Investigating Committee in which he said 50 voting machines in Baltimore had been improperly sealed during the November 5 balloting.

These machines, he said, were found "in such a condition that there is no assurance that such machines had not been tampered with and unlawful votes registered after the election."

The Senate committee has not yet made a report, but some time ago its chairman, Sen. Ellender, of Louisiana, said he knew of no reason why the Maryland Chief Executive should not be seated.

Similarly, Republican members of the committee said they would not oppose the seating of O'Conor tomorrow.

In today's petition, Markey reiterated a score of irregularity charges first presented in his notice of contest filed with the Senate committee on December 10.

He emphasized that boards of election supervisors in Maryland consisted of two Democrats and "one Republican likewise acceptable to O'Conor" and that "partisan control of the election machinery coupled with chicanery of a small number of election judges in a close election could change the result."

The official count showed O'Conor polled 237,232 votes to Markey's 235,000 — a 2,232 margin.

The second day of the 1947 session ended without any decision on who would be Democratic majority floor leader of the House, an important position in steering legislation.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

OLD JUDGE: "Jerry, the folks up at the hospital asked me to come down and talk to you about heading up the hospital drive. How about it?"

JERRY: "I feel honored, Judge. But there's one thing I'd like to see done."

OLD JUDGE: "What's that, Jerry?"

JERRY: "When they build the new addition I'd like to see them include a clinic for the treatment of chronic alcoholics. The time has come, Judge, when every enlightened community should realize that alcoholism is evidence of a disease that's just as real as any other. Scientists have proved by research it must be treated professionally. You've got to get at the underlying causes of the alcoholic's abnormal behaviour."

OLD JUDGE: "Don't worry about the clinic, Jerry. The plans are all prepared and the Board has already talked to a young, up-and-coming doctor who has studied alcoholism at one of the big universities. As soon as the clinic is ready, he'll come here and take charge."

JERRY: "That's fine, Judge. You can count on me now that we're going at this thing sensibly and scientifically."

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

OLD JUDGE: "Jerry, the folks up at the hospital asked me to come down and talk to you about heading up the hospital drive. How about it?"

JERRY: "I feel honored, Judge. But there's one thing I'd like to see done."

OLD JUDGE: "What's that, Jerry?"

JERRY: "When they build the new addition I'd like to see them include a clinic for the treatment of chronic alcoholics. The time has come, Judge, when every enlightened community should realize that alcoholism is evidence of a disease that's just as real as any other. Scientists have proved by research it must be treated professionally. You've got to get at the underlying causes of the alcoholic's abnormal behaviour."

OLD JUDGE: "Don't worry about the clinic, Jerry. The plans are all prepared and the Board has already talked to a young, up-and-coming doctor who has studied alcoholism at one of the big universities. As soon as the clinic is ready, he'll come here and take charge."

JERRY: "That's fine, Judge. You can count on me now that we're going at this thing sensibly and scientifically."

Americans Spending Money At Record-Breaking Pace

Americans have been spending their money at a record-breaking pace, according to Department of Commerce figures, even if allowance is made for the fact that their dollars will no longer buy what they did in 1941. Last year their outlay for goods and services rose nearly 20 percent, shooting up from $16,000,000,000 in 1945 to $127,000,000,000 while increases in prices are estimated at 10 percent.

These statistics indicate that the year just ended has been the most prosperous in the nation's history judged by the criterion of actual goods and services exchanged. Since there is no better yardstick for taking the economic measure of the country, it must be concluded that more people enjoyed high standard of material well-being last year than ever before.

If so, it follows that the changeover from a war to a peace economy has been managed with a large degree of success, all things considered. There is no denying that many shortages still exist. It is also true that the record would have been far better if the makers of government policy and labor leaders had been wiser than they were. Yet the achievement is all the more remarkable considering the unnecessary difficulties created by the strike epidemic.

Certainly the 1946 picture encourages the hope that longer strides in the direction of a high-level peacetime economy can be made this year. The only question is whether the country has learned the lesson that production is the only real answer to the maladjustments left by war.

Production records are not an elusive goal. The country broke them with clock-like regularity at several periods in the past. And in those times it had neither the machinery nor the markets that are available today. More people working more efficiently can break many production records this year.

A Billion Dollars Saved American Taxpayers

The virtual demise of OPA is saving the American taxpayer over $1,000,000,000 a year. That billion is the money that used to be paid out to producers as subsidies in the days of all-inclusive price control.

The subsidy was a means of providing the consumer something at less than its going market value —and then collecting the difference from him at the end of the year by adding it to his tax bill. For the last fiscal year, Congress appropriated $700,000,000 for meat subsidies, $560,000,000 for dairy products, and $215,000,000 for flour.

The elimination of OPA resulted in immediate price rises to offset the discontinued subsidies—the consumer again paid the full cost of what he purchased at the time of purchase. That was responsible for most of the price increases that followed decontrol.

The end of these subsidies is a healthy sign. The subsidy principle may be justified as an emergency measure—and in some special instances it may have to be used in normal times to encourage the production of high-cost products desired by the government. But to subsidize part of the cost of producing and selling common commodities, such as foods, is to distort the price picture and to place the economy on a false and shifting foundation. We are attaining a more stabilized price structure now, based upon today's cost of doing business. Elimination of the subsidy, like the elimination of price control itself, was an unavoidable first step in revitalizing the machinery of supply and demand.

Scuttling Lend-Lease

President Truman's latest quarterly report on the functioning of lend-lease comes as a reminder that this wartime program is still in existence. The books are yet to be closed even though it is now a year and a half since hostilities ended.

As a matter of fact, it looks as though the series reports that began on March 31, 1941, and has now reached the impressive total of 23, will grow considerably longer. Lend-lease is being liquidated but the process is slow. Though the President says that 70 percent of the aid given other nations under this program has been market paid, that means that 30 percent of the total remains to be settled.

Several of the accounts are no longer current. Final settlements have been negotiated with Britain, France, India, Australia, New Zealand, Belgium and Turkey. Canada's is "considered closed" because the Dominion paid for all supplies and materials obtained from this country. Negotiations are now "actively in progress" with South Africa, Norway, Greece and the Netherlands. With few exceptions, only minor questions are still to be disposed of in the case of Latin American countries.

No progress whatever has been made toward getting settlements with certain countries. It has so far proved impossible, according to the report, to start negotiations with Poland, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. Russia has been "invited" to talk the matter over but nothing has come of it.

The indifference shown by the Moscow reds, and other governments under their influence, contrasts sharply with the attitude taken by most of the countries that benefited from lend-lease. Regardless of the reasons for it, the Kremlin should know that it makes a bad impression on the American people.

Whooping Cough

Medical authorities are sounding a timely alarm over whooping cough. This disease too often is regarded lightly and given little attention. It is alarming to know, and should be taken as a warning, that whooping cough kills more children than polio and scarlet fever combined. In 1944 there were 1,878 deaths from the disease in the United States, while victims of polio numbered 1,381 and deaths from scarlet fever totaled 422.

Health department officials attribute this large number of deaths to ignorance and carelessness of the general public concerning whooping cough. Children afflicted are permitted to associate with other children, go to school before the disease has been diagnosed, and in other ways spread infection until an entire community has been exposed.

Many serious complications may follow whooping cough. Above everything, the patient should be kept away from other children, and every precaution should be taken to protect the neighborhood and the community. Whooping cough is not merely a childish disease. It is a menace which must be faced promptly and effectively.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

HIDEBOUND SKIN

THERE are many peculiar disorders caused by circulatory troubles. Arteriosclerosis, high blood pressure, Buerger's disease, and Raynaud's disease are some of the common types. Others are seldom encountered and little is known of their origin, let alone cure.

Among the stumpers is scleroderma. The majority of victims scarcely realize when the disturbance began but, as time goes by, the skin appears to be getting thicker and losing its natural color. This is exactly what is happening. The deeper layers are hardening because fibrous tissue is replacing the normal cells and pliable structures.

As a rule, the malady starts over a small area and spreads gradually. One or two fingers may be involved at first, then the hand and elbow. Now and then the process is noticed on the face or upper chest but, regardless of the starting point, it is likely to attack a large portion of the body.

The boardlike epidermis gives the impression of being stretched or hidebound. It cannot be folded or picked up between the fingers and wrinkling is impossible. At first the skin fairly glistens with an ivory-white sheen. Later it darkens because of the overabundance of pigmentation. When the face is affected the sufferer has a masklike appearance because of the tautness and density of the region. Facial movements become difficult. The eyes and mouth seem narrower than usual and talking, chewing, and swallowing are interfered with.

Neck involvement hinders head motions and the patient may be unable to turn to the right or left. The effect is more pronounced on the extremities as the tightness prohibits free exercise of the fingers, wrist, elbows, ankles, and knees. This in itself is a major disability.

Painful ulcers sometimes develop on the tips of the fingers or toes and the individual can hardly touch an object without wincing. In others, deposits of calcium collect in the elbows, knees, or ankles; as they work their way out thru the surface, discomfort ensues. The ailment is often associated with Raynaud's disease so that on exposure to cold, the fingers, hands, or face become white and numb.

But the skin is not the only part to become afflicted. In a number of victims the tube leading from the mouth to the stomach (esophagus) is assailed also, producing distress on swallowing. Abdominal manifestations are not uncommon as even the intestines can be involved. Constipation or irritability are the usual symptoms.

Numerous attempts have been made to rectify the situation. Occasionally dramatic relief follows the administration of one product or another but when tried on a similar case the same response is not always obtained. Various glandular extracts have been tried, with questionable benefit. The prolonged use of mecholyl iontophoresis has been helpful in a certain percentage. The most recent medication is dihydrotachysterol, a potent form of vitamin D. The substance has been employed in a few cases with encouraging results but the outcome is hardly definite enough to come to any conclusion.

SENSITIVE TO COPPER

S. H. writes: I have an allergy to copper. I try to avoid it but I am constantly in contact with it in the form of money, keys, etc. Is there anything known to science to counteract this condition?

REPLY

Your problem is a stumper. To my knowledge, one cannot be desensitized to this metal and consequently you will have to minimize your contacts as much as possible.

NOT ALL

B. N. writes: Does the electrocardiograph diagnose every type of heart disease?

REPLY

No. It gives information on the rhythm and the condition of the heart muscle, thus providing a valuable adjunct in diagnosis.

CONFLICT

Mrs. M. writes: My daughter's teacher tells her that pasteurized milk should be boiled for five minutes before giving it to a baby. I have seven healthy children and always just brought the milk to a boil. Am I right or is teacher?

REPLY

According to the best authorities, teacher is correct. It is not so much a matter of killing bacteria but boiling alters the curd so that it is digested more easily.

HEART AND HEREDITY

Mrs. T. writes: My husband and his father suffer from heart trouble. If we have any children, will they have it too?

REPLY

There are many different kinds of heart disease, some of which are hereditary. The answer would depend on the type present. For example the tendency toward high blood pressure is inherited; this abnormalty often affects the heart. If infection is responsible, as in the rheumatic fever form, the chances are that the condition would not be passed on to the next generation.

HARSH BREATHING

Mrs. T. R. writes: Will congenital stridor be outgrown in time?

REPLY

Yes. This harsh, grating noise usually disappears about the second year, as the larynx develops.

URINARY TRACT INFECTION

H. H. G. writes: What is the cause of inflammation of the bladder and kidneys?

REPLY

Invasion by bacteria is the usual cause. The germs may ascend into the bladder via the opening leading from the outside and travel up to the kidneys, or are carried to the kidneys in the blood stream and descend into the bladder.

WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Republicans Have Chance To Houseclean Pocketbook Congressmen; Taft Steam-Roller Squelches Opposition; GOP Bolters Are Whipped Into Line By Senator Taft

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—One big thing the new Republican majority can do for Congress is to revive old-fashioned standards of morality when it comes to pocketbook Congressmen.

A pocketbook Congressman is one who thinks more of his pocketbook interest than the public interest, and in recent years there have been far too many of same.

Here is how it works. When Senator Elmer Thomas, Democrat, of Oklahoma, was making speeches against any curbs on cotton speculation at the very same time his wife was speculating on the cotton market, Thomas was not working for the public interest. He was working for his pocketbook interest.

And when Congressman Frank Keefe, Republican, of Wisconsin, led the fight to ban national cemeteries for war heroes, putting across a profitable plan for private cemeteries at the very same time he was president of the private Lakeview Memorial Cemetery at Oshkosh, he was working not for the public interest but for his own pocketbook interest.

Both the Justice Department and Congress itself have been lethargic regarding pocketbook Congressmen. When Rep. Gene Cox of Georgia, Demorcat, was found to have taken a lobbying fee (less polite people called it a bribe), the Justice Department looked the other way.

Last spring when this column exposed the cotton speculations of the Thomas and Bankhead families, a copy of the exposure was sent to every member of the U. S. Senate by this writer asking for opinion on whether the Senate should be used as a medium for influencing cotton speculation. Several Senators expressed themselves vigorously though privately, but only two—Glen Taylor of Idaho, a Democrat, and Wayne Morse of Oregon, a Republican—were willing to do anything publicly.

Today, however, the shocking war-contract scandals of Senator Bilbo of Mississippi and Rep. May of Kentucky, have given Republican leaders a real chance to apply the new broom. They can require every member of Congress to register his private stock-market operations, his fees received by law firms, and the financial interest he holds in various companies.

The Case Bill would have required labor unions to register salaries, income and expenditure—all for public inspection. This should be done. But what's sauce for the labor goose is also sauce for the Congressional gander.

GOP Senators Snarl

Senate Republicans started off with a certain amount of angry snarling at their first caucus this week, but were finally whipped into line by Senator Bob Taft's steam-roller methods. He cracked the lash over the secret caucus like a circus ring-master, as the three insurgents — Tobey of New Hampshire, Wilson of Iowa, and Reed of Kansas—will testify.

After it was all over, most Senators issued harmony statements, but the Senator from New Hampshire let the cat out of the bag when half humorously, half plaintively, he admitted:

"Shots were fired, but when they hit the old armor plate they just richocheted."

Real fact is that it was young Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts who saved the day for the Taft majority by diplomatically stepping aside when Senator Tobey proposed a resolution restoring Lodge's seniority lost during war service.

"If we take this action," proposed the New Hampshire Senator, "the Senate will do honor to itself. It will also give encouragement to every war veteran and increase public confidence in the Senate."

Tobey then quoted the Selective Service Act stating that war veterans in government and other jobs should not lose their seniority.

"We ourselves should live up to what we enacted for others," Tobey continued, "by not depriving any Senator who served his country his rightful seniority."

This plea, however, fell on unresponsive ears. There was a dead and embarrassing silence—so embarrassing that young Lodge rose to his feet and said:

"I want to thank my colleague from New Hampshire for the compliment he has paid me. However, I don't think it would be fair for me to accept seniority for the three years I was in the war, when I was only doing my duty like millions of others. I therefore would be grateful if the Senator would withdraw his resolution."

Tobey did so amid applause.

Taft Pontificates

Previously, Tobey had a run-in with Taft when he tried to postpone committee assignments until after Congress actually had convened.

Tobey pointed out that the Republicans had adopted organization rules several years back specifically requiring that committee selections be made after a new Congress convenes, and he demanded that his party live up to them.

"I see no asterisk at the bottom of these rules we adopted stating that the rules don't mean what they say."

However, he was overruled.

Iowa's Wilson and Kansas' Reed also tangled unsuccessfully with Taft over determining committee chairmanships by seniority.

Reed was trying to take the Interstate Commerce Committee Chairmanship away from Senator Wallace White of Maine on the ground that White, the majority leader, should not be given two top jobs. This was a ticklish subject for Taft, who wants to keep two top jobs himself—Chairman of the important Steering Committee and the Labor Committee.

"On what basis will the Committee on Committees determine seniority for committee assignments and chairmanships?" Reed demanded to know.

"Well, there are all kinds of seniority," retorted Taft cheerily. "There's seniority in the Senate itself, committee seniority and geographical seniority. It starts when an individual Senator wants a certain committee assignment. If another Senator wants the same assignment, the question of seniority arises."

Taft went from there into a grandiose dissertation on whether ability should be the determining factor in committee appointments, finally concluding that ability should come after seniorty.

Millikin Helps Steam-Roll

There was one other slap-down during the caucus, when Wilson objected to voting on sudden notice for Edward McGinnis, Chicago war vet, as Sergeant-At-Arms.

"It is unfair to the majority of Republicans to expect us to vote on a candidate we know nothing about," he protested. "We should have been given the names of men to be nominated a few days in advance."

"Do you have a candidate?" an unidentified voice asked tauntingly of Wilson.

"No, I do not," replied Wilson.

Senator Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, a strong Taft supporter, who was then presiding, relayed this same question to the assembled caucus. No one else had a candidate, and that seemed to settle the matter. It also settled Wilson, who gave up in disgust.

However, if Senator Taft and his topkicks think they can continue to run "The Most Exclusive Gentlemen's Club In The World" in this high-handed fashion, they will be in for plenty of headaches before the 80th Congress is over.

Strikes Are Too Costly To Too Many People

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Strikes are getting too costly to too many people. We have got to find a more civilized way to settle disputes.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics shows 5,292,000 out on strikes and 124,830,000 lost man-days of work from September 1, 1945 to September 30, 1946. Giving eight hours a day and $1.00 an hour as the average wage, the direct wage loss was $998,640,000. Add to that the indirect loss in goods not produced, wages lost by neutral workingmen, the loss to employees, the lost taxes to government, and our loss in international prestige.

The General Motors strike last winter involved 151,809 members of the union. It also affected 75,000 other G. M. workers who did not belong to the union. The wages lost were $131,035,235. Add an equal amount lost in wages in other plants which the strike shut down.

$133,000,000 In Sales Lost

Westinghouse lost $133,000,000 in sales because of the strike in that industry. It shut down 80 percent of the nation's electrical machinery for industrial use.

The steel strike last winter involved 750,000 strikers in 1200 plants in 407 communities and 29 states. The strike was settled at 3½ cents over the pre-strike offer. It will be three years before the 3½ cents makes up for the losses to the strikers. The public finally paid $5.00 per ton more for coal. The steel strike in conjunction with the coal strike caused a loss of 12,000,000 tons of steel, enough to make 900,000 automobiles, 70,000 farm tractors, 570,000 washing machines, 1,144,000 kitchen stoves, 1,416,000 refrigerators, plus 7 billion tin cans, and there would still remain 9,000,000 tons of steel for other purposes!

The coal strike last spring resulted in a price increase of between 35 to 50 cents a ton. The Bituminous Coal Institute estimates a loss of $144,540,000 in wages.

The farm equipment manufacturers strike resulted in the loss of tens of thousands of threshers, binders, mowing machines, etc.

A strike of 15 drivers in a bakery caused 1,000 other to be idle, and closed 63 retail stores.

A strike of 113 Briggs truck drivers in the Briggs Manufacturing Company, threw out of jobs 12,000 other men. Another strike by 1200 Briggs workers threw 40,000 out of work in Chrysler, Packard and Burkhart.

A strike in a coal company by 7 assistant foremen threw 450 out of work.

A.G.M. strike by 2,200 war-veteran employes caused 3 plants to close and forced 20,000 other employees out of work.

Who Gets Struck By Strike

A strike of 175 machinists caused 2,000 workers to remain idle.

A strike of 90 supervisors in a coal and coke company forced 2,500 to be idle.

In 28 such strikes, 19,240 workers on a strike threw out of work 182,920 other workingmen.

Studebaker estimates its own men, who did not strike, have lost $20,000,000 in wages because of other men on strike.

U. S. Insistence For Safeguards In Treaty On Atomic Bomb Justified

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2 — Most amazing of recent developments is the deliberate attempt of a group of Americans to give to Russia the secret of the atomic bomb without adequate protection against misuse of the weapon in attacks on the people of the United States. Sometimes the attempt is insidious, and sometimes it comes out into the open. But it does not deceive the Senate of the United States.

Because Bernard M. Baruch, American representative in the discussions of the atomic bomb control at the U. N., stands firm for the safety of the American people, he is being called "arbitrary" and "stubborn" by those elements in this country which think the atomic bomb issue is one that permits of compromise or appeasement.

When Mr. Baruch says that there can be no right of veto by any nation where punishment for misuse of the bomb is involved and that no treaty will be ratified by the U. S. Senate unless it contains such a provision, Mr. Gromyko, the Russian representative, calls such statements "light-minded."

Does Not Know U. S. Senate

Mr. Gromyko doesn't know the U. S. Senate. He doesn't know how nationalistic it can become on provocation. He doesn't know that in America any members of the U. S. Senate who accepted the Russian proposals and thereupon voted to surrender the atomic bomb would be vetoed at the polls.

The choice is between no system of control or a system that permits of constant international inspection. Any system of inspection by international authority must be supreme, so that no one nation can set itself up as judge of its own acts.

If Mr. Gromyko thinks he has been engaged in a lively debate about control of the atomic bomb, he has a surprise in store for him when he watches the debate that will ensue if any American representative ventures to sign a treaty that does not provide adequate safeguards. Ratification requires a two-thirds vote of the Senate and a treaty has to be explicit and clear and in the interests of the United States beyond peradventure of a doubt before it has a chance for adoption.

Even if Mr. Baruch compromised on the issue—which is unthinkable —it would not bind the U. S. Senate. It is because Mr. Baruch is a good American, who knows his own system of government, that he is trying now to get the treaty worded in such a way that it will command senate acceptance. If Mr. Baruch is compelled to "compromise", the Senate will take that as a signal for opposition. If he is satisfied with the treaty and there is no doubt about his enthusiasm, the treaty then has a basic chance to be ratified. For, to a remarkable degree, Mr. Baruch has the confidence of both Republicans and Democrats in the Senate and it will take a sizable vote anyhow from both sides of the political aisle to secure ratification.

Russia desperately wants the atomic bomb. Eventually she will sign any treaty the United States insists upon. But it is natural for the Russian representatives to try to whittle down the restrictions of such a treaty in advance, knowing that there exists in the United States not only a pro-Communist bloc but certain non-Communist but misguided "liberals" whose major premise on nearly every foreign policy question is that their President and Secretary of State couldn't possibly be right. Mr. Truman and Mr. Byrnes are both backing Mr. Baruch 100 per cent.

Suspicion Is Natural

Where control of the atomic bomb is concerned — particularly with a totalitarian government which denies freedom of speech and of the press and freedom of worship and persecutes those citizens who seek individual liberty—suspicion is natural. This suspicion arises especially out of the long series of broken pledges which have come from Russian spokesmen. This suspicion has not been allayed by the contradiction in the statements made by Stalin in the first instance that he would agree to international inspection and the repudiation now of that pledge by Gromyko in refusing to agree to a really international control of the use of the bomb.

What Mr. Gromyko probably doesn't realize is that, ironically enough, a vast number of Americans are perhaps grateful to him for his obstruction, because it postpones settlement of the issue to a later day when possibly the Russian people will be in control of their own government and when there will not be the slightest hesitation to give up the atomic secret to a free Russia.

A fellow tried to sell me a helicopter the other day. He told me I could hop from the roof of the Ziegfeld to my lawn in Mt. Kisco in 20 minutes. He said it was as easy to drive as a car. I told him I wasn't interested because I couldn't drive a car.

I wasn't kidding. I'm a pretty good man with a can opener, but that's the extent of my mechanical know-how. Ask me to change a fuse, and I'm likely to plunge the whole block into darkness. I have ten thumbs for fingers, and they're all made of butter when they go up against a hunk of machinery.

Billy Rose

Last summer my wife said, "every time you want a paper, somebody's got to leave what he's doing and chauffeur you into the village. Stop playing big shot and learn how to drive. A child can do it in half an hour."

So I decided to master the gas buggy. Eleanor, who looks as natural behind a wheel as she does in a bathing suit, played teacher. "Just turn this jigger over," she began, "push in this dingus, pull out this doohickey, step on this wingdoodle, press down on this thingamabob, and you're all set to go."

"What's this gizmo?" I asked.

"The hand brake," she said. "You throw it on quickly in case of emergency."

"Something like a kimono," I remarked amiably. "What happens if the brakes don't work?"

"Hit something cheap," advised my spouse.

A moment later the car went hiccuping down the road. Then for about a mile it went smooth as you please. A feeling of confidence came over me, the same feeling all bum drivers get just before the lights go out. I pressed down hard on the gas.

"The pistons seem to be knocking," I said professionally

"Pistons nothing," cracked Eleanor "Those are my knees"

We passed a lineman shinnying up a telephone pole. "He must have known you were coming," said my helpmate

"I think that little mirror is set wrong," I complained "I can't see anything in it but the car behind me"

Everything went fine until we got to the traffic light in the village. I forgot to press the hickeymadoodle on the gilhooley, and stalled. The lights changed from green to red, and from red back to green. A very tall cop came over.

"What's the matter?" he barked. "Haven't we got any colors you like?"

After turning the radio on and off, I suddenly pressed the right thing. In the order of the way it happened, I grazed the cop, skidded through the safety zone, clipped the mudguard on a bus, and came to rest with my bumper against a fire plug. The cop stalked over. He took a handkerchief out of his pocket and dropped it in front of the car. "Lookit, Gene Autry," he said. "I wanna see you do that all over again, and this time pick up the handkerchief with your teeth."

Eleanor gave him the smile that used to make the front cover of "Life." "He's just learning how to drive," she said.

"You're kidding!" said the cop. "How long is this class going to last? There's a couple of hundred other drivers who'd like to use this road when Sonny Boy gets through with it."

"Please tell me what I did wrong," I said to the Law.

"Didn't you hear my whistle? Didn't you see my signal?" he demanded.

I shook my head.

The cop sighed. "I'd better go home," he said. "I don't seem to be doing much good around here."

I threw it in reverse and backed away from the fire plug. "If you're going to drive much," yelled the cop, "I'd have the car painted red on one side and blue on the other, so the witnesses will contradict each other.'

I had only one more mishap getting home. I scraped a guy's fender. "It's my fault," he said. "I saw you coming. I should have driven into that field and avoided you."

There are two stone posts flanking the drive that leads up to our home. I got past them without a scratch—also without my right rear wheel. That did it.

The automobile is a wonderful thing. They tell me with knee-action wheels you hardly feel it when you run over a pedestrian. I understand the '48 models will backfire with an English accent, and run on tires filled with air imported from Switzerland. But Little Willie ain't putting on the goggles and the linen duster until they come up with the speedometer which hands you a rabbit's foot at 50, and at 60 starts calling for Dr. Kildare.

These days when we go out driving, I sit there quietly reading the Burma Shave signs. I've made one concession to the Automotive Age. I've learned how to fold a road map.

W. C. FIELDS

Christmas Day, 1946, W. C. Fields went on for the last time. He died with no pretentions and no fanfare, the way he performed.

I think that the best tribute we can pay Bill is to repeat one of the innumerable stories for which he was fabulous.

During World War One, when Bill was playing in the Ziegfeld Follies, he was in his dressing room and received a visit from Will Rogers, who was in the same show. Rogers strolled in to say hello and asked W. C. if he had any new jokes. Rogers was due on stage in a few minutes and needed a fresh gag. Fields proceeded to tell him the one about the new German gun that was so good it shot seventy-five miles and took prisoners. Rogers liked it and asked permission to use it in his act. W. C. smiled grandly and said "Use it with my blessings."

Later, back in the dressing room when Fields asked how the audience liked the joke, Rogers replied. "I thought it was very funny, but the audience obviously didn't—not a single laugh."

"I can't understand that," said Fields, "I killed them with it just ahead of you."

I'm positive that W. C. is the number one comic up there just as he was down here.

Americans Spending Money At Record-Breaking Pace

Americans have been spending their money at a record-breaking pace, according to Department of Commerce figures, even if allowance is made for the fact that their dollars will no longer buy what they did in 1941. Last year their outlay for goods and services rose nearly 20 percent, shooting up from $16,000,000,000 in 1945 to $127,000,000,000 while increases in prices are estimated at 10 percent.

These statistics indicate that the year just ended has been the most prosperous in the nation's history judged by the criterion of actual goods and services exchanged. Since there is no better yardstick for taking the economic measure of the country, it must be concluded that more people enjoyed high standard of material well-being last year than ever before.

If so, it follows that the changeover from a war to a peace economy has been managed with a large degree of success, all things considered. There is no denying that many shortages still exist. It is also true that the record would have been far better if the makers of government policy and labor leaders had been wiser than they were. Yet the achievement is all the more remarkable considering the unnecessary difficulties created by the strike epidemic.

Certainly the 1946 picture encourages the hope that longer strides in the direction of a high-level peacetime economy can be made this year. The only question is whether the country has learned the lesson that production is the only real answer to the maladjustments left by war.

Production records are not an elusive goal. The country broke them with clock-like regularity at several periods in the past. And in those times it had neither the machinery nor the markets that are available today. More people working more efficiently can break many production records this year.

A Billion Dollars Saved American Taxpayers

The virtual demise of OPA is saving the American taxpayer over $1,000,000,000 a year. That billion is the money that used to be paid out to producers as subsidies in the days of all-inclusive price control.

The subsidy was a means of providing the consumer something at less than its going market value—and then collecting the difference from him at the end of the year by adding it to his tax bill. For the last fiscal year, Congress appropriated $700,000,000 for meat subsidies, $560,000,000 for dairy products, and $215,000,000 for flour.

The elimination of OPA resulted in immediate price rises to offset the discontinued subsidies—the consumer again paid the full cost of what he purchased at the time of purchase. That was responsible for most of the price increases that followed decontrol.

The end of these subsidies is a healthy sign. The subsidy principle may be justified as an emergency measure—and in some special instances it may have to be used in normal times to encourage the production of high-cost products desired by the government. But to subsidize part of the cost of producing and selling common commodities, such as foods, is to distort the price picture and to place the economy on a false and shifting foundation. We are attaining a more stabilized price structure now, based upon today's cost of doing business. Elimination of the subsidy, like the elimination of price control itself, was an unavoidable first step in revitalizing the machinery of supply and demand.

Scuttling Lend-Lease

President Truman's latest quarterly report on the functioning of lend-lease comes as a reminder that this wartime program is still in existence. The books are yet to be closed even though it is now a year and a half since hostilities ended.

As a matter of fact, it looks as though the series reports that began on March 31, 1941, and has now reached the impressive total of 23, will grow considerably longer. Lend-lease is being liquidated but the process is slow. Though the President says that 70 percent of the aid given other nations under this program has been market paid, that means that 30 percent of the total remains to be settled.

Several of the accounts are no longer current. Final settlements have been negotiated with Britain, France, India, Australia, New Zealand, Belgium and Turkey. Canada's is "considered closed" because the Dominion paid for all supplies and materials obtained from this country. Negotiations are now "actively in progress" with South Africa, Norway, Greece and the Netherlands. With few exceptions, only minor questions are still to be disposed of in the case of Latin American countries.

No progress whatever has been made toward getting settlements with certain countries. It has so far proved impossible, according to the report, to start negotiations with Poland, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia. Russia has been "invited" to talk the matter over but nothing has come of it.

The indifference shown by the Moscow reds, and other governments under their influence, contrasts sharply with the attitude taken by most of the countries that benefited from lend-lease. Regardless of the reasons for it, the Kremlin should know that it makes a bad impression on the American people.

Whooping Cough

Medical authorities are sounding a timely alarm over whooping cough. This disease too often is regarded lightly and given little attention. It is alarming to know, and should be taken as a warning, that whooping cough kills more children than polio and scarlet fever combined. In 1944 there were 1,878 deaths from the disease in the United States, while victims of polio numbered 1,381 and deaths from scarlet fever totaled 422.

Health department officials attribute this large number of deaths to ignorance and carelessness of the general public concerning whooping cough. Children afflicted are permitted to associate with other children, go to school before the disease has been diagnosed, and in other ways spread infection until an entire community has been exposed.

Many serious complications may follow whooping cough. Above everything, the patient should be kept away from other children, and every precaution should be taken to protect the neighborhood and the community. Whooping cough is not merely a childish disease. It is a menace which must be faced promptly and effectively.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

HIDEBOUND SKIN

THERE are many peculiar disorders caused by circulatory troubles. Arteriosclerosis, high blood pressure, Buerger's disease, and Raynaud's disease are some of the common types. Others are seldom encountered and little is known of their origin, let alone cure.

Among the stumpers is scleroderma. The majority of victims scarcely realize when the disturbance began but, as time goes by, the skin appears to be getting thicker and losing its natural color. This is exactly what is happening. The deeper layers are hardening because fibrous tissue is replacing the normal cells and pliable structures.

As a rule, the malady starts over a small area and spreads gradually. One or two fingers may be involved at first, then the hand and elbow. Now and then the process is noticed on the face or upper chest but, regardless of the starting point, it is likely to attack a large portion of the body.

The boardlike epidermis gives the impression of being stretched or hidebound. It cannot be folded or picked up between the fingers and wrinkling is impossible. At first the skin fairly glistens with an ivory-white sheen. Later it darkens because of the overabundance of pigmentation. When the face is affected the sufferer has a masklike appearance because of the tautness and density of the region. Facial movements become difficult. The eyes and mouth seem narrower than usual and talking, chewing, and swallowing are interfered with.

Neck involvement hinders head motions and the patient may be unable to turn to the right or left. The effect is more pronounced on the extremities as the tightness prohibits free exercise of the fingers, wrist, elbows, ankles, and knees. This in itself is a major disability.

Painful ulcers sometimes develop on the tips of the fingers or toes and the individual can hardly touch an object without wincing. In others, deposits of calcium collect in the elbows, knees, or ankles; as they work their way out thru the surface, discomfort ensues. The ailment is often associated with Raynaud's disease so that on exposure to cold, the fingers, hands, or face become white and numb.

But the skin is not the only part to become afflicted. In a number of victims the tube leading from the mouth to the stomach (esophagus) is assailed also, producing distress on swallowing. Abdominal manifestations are not uncommon as even the intestines can be involved. Constipation or irritability are the usual symptoms.

Numerous attempts have been made to rectify the situation. Occasionally dramatic relief follows the administration of one product or another but when tried on a similar case the same response is not always obtained. Various glandular extracts have been tried, with questionable benefit. The prolonged use of mecholyl iontophoresis has been helpful in a certain percentage. The most recent medication is dihydrotachysterol, a potent form of vitamin D. The substance has been employed in a few cases with encouraging results but the outcome is hardly definite enough to come to any conclusion.

SENSITIVE TO COPPER

S. H. writes: I have an allergy to copper. I try to avoid it but I am constantly in contact with it in the form of money, keys, etc. Is there anything known to science to counteract this condition?

REPLY

Your problem is a stumper. To my knowledge, one cannot be desensitized to this metal and consequently you will have to minimise your contacts as much as possible.

NOT ALL

B. N. writes: Does the electrocardiograph diagnose every type of heart disease?

REPLY

No. It gives information on the rhythm and the condition of the heart muscle, thus providing a valuable adjunct in diagnosis.

CONFLICT

Mrs. M. writes: My daughter's teacher tells her that pasteurized milk should be boiled for five minutes before giving it to a baby. I have seven healthy children and always just brought the milk to a boil. Am I right or is teacher?

REPLY

According to the best authorities, teacher is correct. It is not so much a matter of killing bacteria but boiling alters the curd so that it is digested more easily.

HEART AND HEREDITY

Mrs. T. writes: My husband and his father suffer from heart trouble. If we have any children, will they have it too?

REPLY

There are many different kinds of heart disease, some of which are hereditary. The answer would depend on the type present. For example the tendency toward high blood pressure is inherited; this abnormality often affects the heart. If infection is responsible, as in the rheumatic fever form, the chances are that the condition would not be passed on to the next generation.

HARSH BREATHING

Mrs. T. R. writes: Will congenital stridor be outgrown in time?

REPLY

Yes. This harsh, grating noise usually disappears about the second year, as the larynx develops.

URINARY TRACT INFECTION

H. H. G. writes: What is the cause of inflammation of the bladder and kidneys?

REPLY

Invasion by bacteria is the usual cause. The germs may ascend into the bladder via the opening leading from the outside and travel up to the kidneys, or are carried to the kidneys in the blood stream and descend into the bladder.

Ratification requires a two-thirds vote of the Senate and a treaty has to be explicit and clear and in the interests of the United States beyond peradventure of a doubt before it has a chance for adoption.

Even if Mr. Baruch compromised on the issue—which is unthinkable—it would not bind the U. S. Senate. It is because Mr. Baruch is a good American, who knows his own system of government, that he is trying now to get the treaty worded in such a way that it will command senate acceptance. If Mr. Baruch is compelled to "compromise", the Senate will take that as a signal for opposition. If he is satisfied with the treaty and there is no doubt about his enthusiasm, the treaty then has a basic chance to be ratified. For, to a remarkable degree, Mr. Baruch has the confidence of both Republicans and Democrats in the Senate and it will take a sizable vote anyhow from both sides of the political aisle to secure ratification.

Russia desperately wants the atomic bomb. Eventually she will sign any treaty the United States insists upon. But it is natural for the Russian representatives to try to whittle down the restrictions of such a treaty in advance, knowing that there exists in the United States not only a pro-Communist bloc but certain non-Communist but misguided "liberals" whose major premise on nearly every foreign policy question is that their President and Secretary of State couldn't possibly be right. Mr. Truman and Mr. Byrnes are both backing Mr. Baruch 100 per cent.

Suspicion Is Natural

Where control of the atomic bomb is concerned — particularly with a totalitarian government which denies freedom of speech and of the press and freedom of worship and persecutes those citizens who seek individual liberty—suspicion is natural. This suspicion arises especially out of the long series of broken pledges which have come from Russian spokesmen. This suspicion has not been allayed by the contradiction in the statements made by Stalin in the first instance that he would agree to international inspection and the repudiation now of that pledge by Gromyko in refusing to agree to a really international control of the use of the bomb.

What Mr. Gromyko probably doesn't realize is that, ironically enough, a vast number of Americans are perhaps grateful to him for his obstruction, because it postpones settlement of the issue to a later day when possibly the Russian people will be in control of their own government and when there will not be the slightest hesitation to give up the atomic secret to a free Russia.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—One big thing the new Republican majority can do for Congress is to revive old-fashioned standards of morality when it comes to pocketbook Congressmen.

A pocketbook Congressman is one who thinks more of his pocketbook interest than the public interest, and in recent years there have been far too many of same.

Here is how it works. When Senator Elmer Thomas, Democrat, of Oklahoma, was making speeches against any curbs on cotton speculation at the very same time his wife was speculating on the cotton market, Thomas was not working for the public interest. He was working for his pocketbook interest.

And when Congressman Frank Keefe, Republican, of Wisconsin, led the fight to ban national cemeteries for war heroes, putting across a profitable plan for private cemeteries at the very same time he was president of the private Lakeview Memorial Cemetery at Oshkosh, he was working not for the public interest but for his own pocketbook interest.

Both the Justice Department and Congress itself have been lethargic regarding pocketbook Congressmen. When Rep. Gene Cox of Georgia, Democrat, was found to have taken a lobbying fee (less polite people called it a bribe), the Justice Department looked the other way.

Last spring when this column exposed the cotton speculations of the Thomas and Bankhead families, a copy of the exposure was sent to every member of the U. S. Senate by this writer asking for opinion on whether the Senate should be used as a medium for influencing cotton speculation. Several Senators expressed themselves vigorously though privately, but only two—Glen Taylor of Idaho, a Democrat, and Wayne Morse of Oregon, a Republican—were willing to do anything publicly.

Today, however, the shocking war-contract scandals of Senator Bilbo of Mississippi and Rep. May of Kentucky, have given Republican leaders a real chance to apply the new broom. They can require every member of Congress to register his private stock-market operations, his fees received by law firms, and the financial interest he holds in various companies.

The Case Bill would have required labor unions to register salaries, income and expenditure—all for public inspection. This should be done. But what's sauce for the labor goose is also sauce for the Congressional gander.

GOP Senators Snarl

Senate Republicans started off with a certain amount of angry snarling at their first caucus this week, but were finally whipped into line by Senator Bob Taft's steam-roller methods. He cracked the lash over the secret caucus like a circus ring-master, as the three insurgents — Tobey of New Hampshire, Wilson of Iowa, and Reed of Kansas—will testify.

After it was all over, most Senators issued harmony statements, but the Senator from New Hampshire let the cat out of the bag when half humorously, half plaintively, he admitted:

"Shots were fired, but when they hit the old armor plate they just ricocheted."

Real fact is that it was young Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts who saved the day for the Taft majority by diplomatically stepping aside when Senator Tobey proposed a resolution restoring Lodge's seniority lost during war service.

"If we take this action," proposed the New Hampshire Senator, "the Senate will do honor to itself. It will also give encouragement to every war veteran and increase public confidence in the Senate."

Tobey then quoted the Selective Service Act stating that war veterans in government and other jobs should not lose their seniority.

"We ourselves should live up to what we enacted for others," Tobey continued, "by not depriving any Senator who served his country his rightful seniority."

This plea, however, fell on unresponsive ears. There was a dead and embarrassing silence—so embarrassing that young Lodge rose to his feet and said:

"I want to thank my colleague from New Hampshire for the compliment he has paid me. However, I don't think it would be fair for me to accept seniority for the three years I was in the war, when I was only doing my duty like millions of others. I therefore would be grateful if the Senator would withdraw his resolution."

Tobey did so amid applause.

Taft Pontificates

Previously, Tobey had a run-in with Taft when he tried to postpone committee assignments until after Congress actually had convened.

Tobey pointed out that the Republicans had adopted organization rules several years back specifically requiring that committee selections be made after a new Congress convenes, and he demanded that his party live up to them.

"I see no asterisk at the bottom of these rules we adopted stating that the rules don't mean what they say."

However, he was overruled.

Iowa's Wilson and Kansas' Reed also tangled unsuccessfully with Taft over determining committee chairmanships by seniority.

Reed was trying to take the Interstate Commerce Committee Chairmanship away from Senator Wallace White of Maine on the ground that White, the majority leader, should not be given two top jobs. This was a ticklish subject for Taft, who wants to keep two top jobs himself—Chairman of the important Steering Committee and the Labor Committee.

"On what basis will the Committee on Committees determine seniority for committee assignments and chairmanships?" Reed demanded to know.

"Well, there are all kinds of seniority," retorted Taft cheerily. "There's seniority in the Senate itself, committee seniority and geographical seniority. It starts when an individual Senator wants a certain committee assignment. If another Senator wants the same assignment, the question of seniority arises."

Taft went from there into a grandiose dissertation on whether ability should be the determining factor in committee appointments, finally concluding that ability should come after seniority.

Millikin Helps Steam-Roll

There was one other slap-down during the caucus, when Wilson objected to voting on sudden notice for Edward McGinnis, Chicago war vet, as Sergeant-At-Arms.

"It is unfair to the majority of Republicans to expect us to vote on a candidate we know nothing about," he protested. "We should have been given the names of men to be nominated a few days in advance."

"Do you have a candidate?" an unidentified voice asked tauntingly of Wilson.

"No, I do not," replied Wilson.

Senator Eugene D. Millikin of Colorado, a strong Taft supporter, who was then presiding, relayed this same question to the assembled caucus. No one else had a candidate, and that seemed to settle the matter. It also settled Wilson, who gave up in disgust.

However, if Senator Taft and his topkicks think they can continue to run "The Most Exclusive Gentlemen's Club In The World" in this high-handed fashion, they will be in for plenty of headaches before the 80th Congress is over.

Strikes Are Too Costly To Too Many People

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Strikes are getting too costly to too many people. We have got to find a more civilized way to settle disputes.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics shows 5,292,000 out on strikes and 124,830,000 lost man-days of work from September 1, 1945 to September 30, 1946. Giving eight hours a day and $1.00 an hour as the average wage, the direct wage loss was $998,640,000. Add to that the indirect loss in goods not produced, wages lost by neutral workingmen, the loss to employees, the lost taxes to government, and our loss in international prestige.

The General Motors strike last winter involved 151,809 members of the union. It also affected 75,000 other G. M. workers who did not belong to the union. The wages lost were $131,035,235. Add an equal amount lost in wages in other plants which the strike shut down.

$133,000,000 In Sales Lost

Westinghouse lost $133,000,000 in sales because of the strike in that industry. It shut down 80 percent of the nation's electrical machinery for industrial use.

The steel strike last winter involved 750,000 strikers in 1200 plants in 407 communities and 29 states. The strike was settled at 3½ cents over the pre-strike offer. It will be three years before the 3½ cents makes up for the losses to the strikers. The public finally paid $5.00 per ton more for coal. The steel strike in conjunction with the coal strike caused a loss of 12,000,000 tons of steel, enough to make 900,000 automobiles, 70,000 farm tractors, 570,000 washing machines, 1,144,000 kitchen stoves, 1,416,000 refrigerators, plus 7 billion tin cans, and there would still remain 9,000,000 tons of steel for other purposes!

The coal strike last spring resulted in a price increase of between 35 to 50 cents a ton. The Bituminous Coal Institute estimates a loss of $144,540,000 in wages.

The farm equipment manufacturers strike resulted in the loss of tens of thousands of threshers, binders, mowing machines, etc.

Then add the neutral bystanders and figure their losses.

A strike of 15 drivers in a bakery caused 1,000 other to be idle, and closed 63 retail stores.

A strike of 113 Briggs truck drivers in the Briggs Manufacturing Company, threw out of jobs 12,000 other men. Another strike by 1200 Briggs workers threw 40,000 out of work in Chrysler, Packard and Burkhart.

A strike in a coal company by 7 assistant foremen threw 450 out of work.

A.G.M. strike by 2,200 war-veteran employes caused 3 plants to close and forced 20,000 other employees out of work.

Who Gets Struck By Strike

A strike of 37 inspectors at Hudson Motor Car threw 12,000 production workers out of work.

A strike of 175 machinists caused 2,000 workers to remain idle.

A strike of 90 supervisors in a coal and coke company forced 2,500 to be idle.

In 28 such strikes, 19,240 workers on a strike threw out of work 182,920 other workingmen.

Studebaker estimates its own men, who did not strike, have lost $20,000,000 in wages because of other men on strike.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

A fellow tried to sell me a helicopter the other day. He told me I could hop from the roof of the Ziegfeld to my lawn in Mt. Kisco in 20 minutes. He said it was as easy to drive as a car. I told him I wasn't interested because I couldn't drive a car.

I wasn't kidding. I'm a pretty good man with a can opener, but that's the extent of my mechanical know-how. Ask me to change a fuse, and I'm likely to plunge the whole block into darkness. I have ten thumbs for fingers, and they're all made of butter when they go up against a hunk of machinery.

Billy Rose

Last summer my wife said, "every time you want a paper, somebody's got to leave what he's doing and chauffeur you into the village. Stop playing big shot and learn how to drive. A child can do it in half an hour."

So I decided to master the gas buggy. Eleanor, who looks as natural behind a wheel as she does in a bathing suit, played teacher. "Just turn this jigger over," she began, "push in this dingus, pull out this doohickey, step on this wingdoodle, press down on this thingamabob, and you're all set to go."

"What's this gizmo?" I asked.

"The hand brake," she said. "You throw it on quickly in case of emergency."

"Something like a kimono," I remarked amiably. "What happens if the brakes don't work?"

"Hit something cheap," advised my spouse.

A moment later the car went hiccuping down the road. Then for about a mile it went smooth as you please. A feeling of confidence came over me, the same feeling all bum drivers get just before the lights go out. I pressed down hard on the gas.

"The pistons seem to be knocking," I said professionally

"Pistons nothing," cracked Eleanor "Those are my knees"

We passed a lineman shinnying up a telephone pole. "He must have known you were coming," said my helpmate

"I think that little mirror is set wrong," I complained "I can't see anything in it but the car behind me"

Everything went fine until we got to the traffic light in the village. I forgot to press the hickeymadoodle on the gilhooley, and stalled. The lights changed from green to red, and from red back to green. A very tall cop came over.

"What's the matter?" he barked. "Haven't we got any colors you like?"

After turning the radio on and off, I suddenly pressed the right thing. In the order of the way it happened, I grazed the cop, skidded through the safety zone, clipped the mudguard on a bus, and came to rest with my bumper against a fire plug. The cop stalked over. He took a handkerchief out of his pocket and dropped it in front of the car. "Lookit, Gene Autry," he said. "I wanna see you do that all over again, and this time pick up the handkerchief with your teeth."

Eleanor gave him the smile that used to make the front cover of "Life." "He's just learning how to drive," she said.

"You're kidding!" said the cop. "How long is this class going to last? There's a couple of hundred other drivers who'd like to use this road when Sonny Boy gets through with it."

"Please tell me what I did wrong," I said to the Law.

"Didn't you hear my whistle? Didn't you see my signal?" he demanded.

I shook my head.

The cop sighed. "I'd better go home," he said. "I don't seem to be doing much good around here."

I threw it in reverse and backed away from the fire plug. "If you're going to drive much," yelled the cop, "I'd have the car painted red on one side and blue on the other, so the witnesses will contradict each other.'

I had only one more mishap getting home. I scraped a guy's fender. "It's my fault," he said. "I saw you coming. I should have driven into that field and avoided you."

There are two stone posts flanking the drive that leads up to our home. I got past them without a scratch—also without my right rear wheel. That did it.

The automobile is a wonderful thing. They tell me with knee-action wheels you hardly feel it when you run over a pedestrian. I understand the '48 models will backfire with an English accent, and run on tires filled with air imported from Switzerland. But Little Willie ain't putting on the goggles and the linen duster until they come up with the speedometer which hands you a rabbit's foot at 50, and at 60 starts calling for Dr. Kildare.

These days when we go out driving, I sit there quietly reading the Burma Shave signs. I've made one concession to the Automotive Age. I've learned how to fold a road map.

W. C. FIELDS

Christmas Day, 1946, W. C. Fields went on for the last time. He died with no pretentions and no fanfare, the way he performed.

I think that the best tribute we can pay Bill is to repeat one of the innumerable stories for which he was fabulous.

During World War One, when Bill was playing in the Ziegfeld Follies, he was in his dressing room and received a visit from Will Rogers, who was in the same show. Rogers strolled in to say hello and asked W. C. if he had any new jokes. Rogers was due on stage in a few minutes and needed a fresh gag. Fields proceeded to tell him the one about the new German gun that was so good it shot seventy-five miles and took prisoners. Rogers liked it and asked permission to use it in his act. W. C. smiled grandly and said "Use it with my blessings."

Later, back in the dressing room when Fields asked how the audience liked the joke, Rogers replied, "I thought it was very funny, but the audience obviously didn't—not a single laugh."

"I can't understand that," said Fields, "I killed them with it just ahead of you."

I'm positive that W. C. is the number one comic up there just as he was down here.

The Low Days

I don't know why any of us should expect that all of our days should be clear, sunny, and devoid of difficulties. Depression of spirit is never permanent. Into our lives, as well as into our days some rain must fall.

Nature faces the same as we do. The summer, sunny day, is full of song and growth. But there come the cold and stormy days when even the sparrow huddles in his bush or tree, awaiting a better day. To keep an even keel, through all the vicissitudes of life is the important thing. Never to lose hope, always to bear in mind that better days are ahead, and that our experience is the experience of all, can keep this spirit of ours alive and seasoned with courage.

The low days always pass. Sorrow, disappointment, and every discouragement, have their brief hour, in time mellowed and smoothed over. We must school ourselves to look up, not down, forward, not backward. There are far more good days than bad days.

The late Damon Runyon came to a time when he thought he was through, finished, a has been. He had devoted most of his life, up to that time, to being a sporting writer. But an idea came to him. He wrote a story, from his vast accumulation of observation and thinking. He sent it to a friend—and it was immediately accepted. A big check accompanied that acceptance—and a new career opened up, suddenly, like the breaking of sunlight into an otherwise dark day. From that time on he took his place among the finest of all story tellers.

The low days are usually the incubating days. Days of "growing pains." There was a time when Abraham Lincoln, also, thought he was through. He even contemplated suicide, so it has been recorded. He thought he was a failure. Then, suddenly, he was nominated for President of the United States! Those low days of his undoubtedly added to his humility, his patience, and his magnanimity, in the dark days of the Union that followed.

If we can face our low days, patiently, and without loss of faith, we can dismiss all fear of the days ahead. They will already have been arranged for us.

Advice To The Lovelorn

16-Year-Old Boy Lies Himself Into Unpopularity; What Can He Do?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

Inferiority complexes sometimes hide under strange disguises. Here's a letter that unconsciously reveals one of the many forms this crippling handicap can assume.

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"I know it must be very seldom you get a letter from a fellow. But it seems you're the only one I won't be ashamed of writing to.

"I am 16 years old, and go to high school. I have only one friend. I know many boys, but it seems we have nothing in common. I try to make friends, but it just seems I can't. I have gone out with girls, but after about two dates I usually never see the girl again. When I do go out, somehow I never have anything to say, and I usually come out with a lie. I have earned quite a reputation as a liar, and no one wants to have anything to do with me.

"I'm very bored with life, and I know it's no attitude to take. I would like to know what I can do to become popular again and have friends and dates as other fellows do.

"LONELY"

Now, "Lonely" doesn't say what sort of lies he tells. But if he tells them because he can't think of anything to say when he's out on a date, the chances are that they're tall tales about himself that he dreams up in order to make himself appear more interesting to other people. He's tongue-tied, for some reason, in the give-and-take of small talk that make up most of the interchange between boys and girls, and so, in order to make others open their eyes in admiration over his exploits instead of closing them to shut out the sight of the dumb bunny he actually thinks he is, he lets his imagination go and builds up an image of himself that he thinks will make these others sit up and take notice. Isn't that the way it is, "Lonely?"

However, the trouble is that, instead of believing and admiring, the boys and girls disbelieve and jeer; then shun the teller of the tall tales as a someone not worth wasting time over. How about it, "Lonely?"

But there's a far better way to go about winning friends than by trying to make yourself out a different type of person than you really are. That is, by making yourself the very best person of your type you possible can.

You're perfectly aware of your liabilities as a person. You feel you're unpopular; that young people your age don't like you. You don't know how to enjoy yourself or make yourself interesting to others when in their company, and you make up stories to try to offset that defect.

But how about the qualities you have that can be made assets? Possibilities latent in yourself that could be developed to make you attractive to others? Are you unselfish and thoughtful? Generous? Friendly? Ready to meet the next fellow half way? What can you do especially well that you could use, not to boast about, but to get other people interested in you? That is, you are a good dancer? Girl's like boys who dance well. Could you make a school team in some sport? Girls—and boys, too—admire the hockey or basketball player, the football or baseball man. Pick out something that would interest you and then make yourself an expert at it. If you actually become someone that others instinctively admire, you won't have to pretend or invent.

Another thing: Study the popular boys and see if you can pick out the qualities in them that account for their popularity. That might give you some suggestions about what you could do to help bring your own standing up to par.

And I think it would be an excellent idea if you went to some and laid your problems before him older person you know and admire Isn't there some teacher in your school you'd feel you could confide in? Don't be ashamed to tell someone you're troubled and perplexed. We all need advice on our problems, and the smart person is the one who goes to somebody who might be able to help and asks for it frankly.

Good luck to you. And write me again, if you feel like it. You're not by any means the only boy from whom I get letters.

SCAR TISSUE

Remember that old operation? Remember how the deep wound slowly healed? But, even after healing, there was left a calloused welt as tough as hard wood. Scar tissue—the doctor told you.

You do not need a bodily wound to leave scar tissue. Old, bitter wounds of fear and hate leave scars as well. Old, cherished prejudices and superstitions. Even too closely cherished joys that long are past may leave scar tissue on your spirit. Scar tissue through which no clean hope can penetrate.

Maybe you think that's not important as you enter the new year.

Maybe you think the old, old hurts will not bind you down as they did in 1946. So perhaps you think you need not worry about them. . .you can still go on with that mental scar tissue that's been hardening in your mind and soul.

You can't.

Scar tissues of memory are as vicious and as hard as any which a knife has left upon your flesh.

The new year lies ahead with all its fresh new starts. . .its chances to find new joys, new hope, new courage and new love. But if you drag the deepening callous of old memories. . .if you choose to wall yourself from life by either fear or hate or pleasure or remorse which started in the days so long ago, this next year holds no growths in days ahead.

The flesh beneath old, hardened tissue does not grow. The mind and soul that live in yesterday cannot go on. They form a barrier tougher than tooled steel against new life.

If you would wake and hope and have the bravery to grasp the treasure which lies ahead, you must release your grip on all the hardened dreams and blunders and sorrows in the past.

Release your grip on all your vain regrets. Release your grip on all old, gnawing fears. Release your grip on bubble dreams that broke. Release your grip on too long cherished joys lest you become a helpless, clinging child who holds mother's apron or your father's hand.

Release your grip and dare to live today!

Let the old year take care of its old scars. Go on with a new spirit to this year's new dawns. New growth can only happen if you put old scars away.

Cumberland Yank Talks From Reich

A Cumberland soldier serving with the Army of Occupation in Germany telephoned his parents from Bremerhaven yesterday morning at 9:45 a. m. He is T-5 William L. Combs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Combs, of 507 Eastern avenue.

The trans-Atlantic call had originally been scheduled for Christmas Day but getting it through then was impossible. Besides his parents the soldier talked with his brothers and sisters. In the army for a year and a half he has been in Germany a year. He is a former Fort Hill High School student and carried The Times papers at one time.

His grandfather, the late John S. Combs, was a printer for The Times many years ago.

November Traffic Toll Is Three Dead, 13 Injured

The Maryland Traffic Safety Commission reported yesterday that three persons were killed and 13 injured in 13 investigated Allegany county traffic accidents in November.

In the whole state during November there were 1,448 accidents with 40 killed and 714 injured. Baltimore City reported 831 accidents with seven killed and 423 injured, and the state, county and municipal police departments reported 617 accidents with 33 persons killed and 291 injured.

The state experienced a 13 per cent reduction in traffic fatalities during November when compared with the figures for the same month a year ago. Baltimore City experienced a 63 per cent reduction in fatalities, while the counties showed a 22 per cent increase. The year's total for fatalities is 381 as compared to 385 for the same period last year—a reduction of 1 per cent—this reduction in face of a national increase in traffic accident deaths of 25 per cent.

Stock Market Greets New Year With Notable Lack Of Enthusiasm

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — The stock market today greeted the new year with a notable lack of enthusiasm and an irregularly lower trend in dealings that were among the slowest of the past six months.

The proceedings were sluggish from the start. The first hour's aggregate of 110,000 shares was a low since July 5 for this period. Early gains of fractions to three points or so were reduced and losses of as much predominated at the close. Transfers for the full session amounted to 750,000 shares compared with 1,820,000 Tuesday and were the smallest for a full stretch since August 20.

In the casualty division were Schenley, off 4⅝ points at 50⅝; du Pont 2⅜ at 187⅞, Johns-Manville 2⅝ at 134, Chrysler two at 89½, Southern Railway 1⅝ at 48⅜, Western Union "A" 1½ at 19 and United States Steel 1¼ at 70½.

Others on the offside were Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, United States Rubber, Sears Roebuck, North American, Electric Power and Light, American Can, American Distilling, Distillors Corporation, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific and Standard Oil of California, the last-named following an anti-trust suit filed against this company.

Thermoid was the first stock to appear on the New Year's ticker tape, up three eighth at 12⅜. It ended up one eighth at 12⅛ on a day's total of 200 shares. Eastman Kodak added 2½ at 227, Douglas Aircraft 2⅝ at 74, Fajardo Sugar 1⅝ at 26⅝ and Goodrich 1½ at 65½. Ahead were Bethlehem, Woolworth, Montgomery Ward, American Telephone, Santa Fe, Great Northern, J. C. Penney, Cudahy Packing (on a pleasing earnings summary), Reynolds Tobacco "B" and Chesapeake and Ohio.

Lower in the Curb were American Cyanamid, American Republics, Cities Service, Electric Bond and Share and Fansteel. Advancers were Standard Brewing and Marion Power Shovel. Turnover here was 230,000 shares versus 620,000 in the preceding session.

Prices lines were thoroughly tangled in a sleepy bond market.

Sales dropped to $2,700,000 from $6,310,000 on Tuesday for the smallest total for a full session since July 5 last year.

United States governments held steady in the over-the-counter market, with the Victory Loan 2½s of December '67-'72 up 1-32 at 102 29-32 bid. The same issue sold in the exchange at 102 30-32, a decline of 2-32 from the previous sale.

Slaughter House Destroyed By Fire

By KATHERINE FISHER

MOOREFIELD, Jan. 2—The eleventh of a series of unexplained fires in unoccupied buildings during the past two months occurred late Wednesday evening when the slaughter house belonging to Tom Hawse back of the Post Office was destroyed by fire.

The old frame structure had twice previously been on fire but the blaze was quenched before serious damage occurred. The structure was completely destroyed this time before the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company could extinguish the blaze. An investigation is being made to determine the cause of the fire.

The Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company responded to an alarm Saturday at the J. Natwick and Company plant. A grass fire endangered the plant and lumber and was quickly extinguished by the firemen.

4 Persons Escape Injury As Trucks Crash On Bridge

Cumberland And Keyser Men Driving Vehicles Which Collide

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Jan. 2—Justin E. Reel, 559 Chestnut street, Keyser, owner and driver of a one and a half ton 1933 truck and Earl John Shrewbridge, Route 2, Williams road, Cumberland, driver of a heavy oil or gasoline truck owned by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, Baltimore, figured in a head-on collision at the McCoole bridge, 12:30, New Years Day.

Shrewbridge was traveling toward Keyser on Route 220, heavily loaded; as he approached the Keyser terminal of the bridge he observed the other truck approaching, and thought the driver was pulling to the right to stop, the bridge being rather narrow for two heavy vehicles to pass. Reel said he did not see the approaching oil truck until too late to avoid a crash.

The oil truck being higher and in a somewhat higher position it caught the impact of the lighter truck against the grill and above its bumper. Though the two trucks are said to have been traveling at a low rate of speed, the load of the Reel truck, mine props, lurched forward driving the rear of the cab toward the panel board.

Lyle Jenkins, James Jenkins and Anne Sugars who were riding with Reel were pinned between the panel board and back of the cap. Reel managed to free himself and he with Shrewbridge extricated the trio from the wreckage.

Officer "Abe" Dawson of the Keyser police force, arrived at the accident and made a report of same. Dawson said none of the occupants of the truck was injured other than one received a slight cut on the lip and another a small bump on the head. None required medical attention. He stated the Reel truck was damaged to the extent of about $300. The oil truck was damaged only slightly. So far as Dawson knew no complaints have been filed.

Garrett Citizens Discuss Better Roads And Schools With Solons

Would Support Program Involving Sales Tax To Raise The Funds

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Md., Jan. 2—Interest in better schools and roads and support for any program involving a sales tax to raise money for these two projects, and to eventually lower real estate taxes, were the result of a meeting of citizens with the newly elected legislators.

Fifty or more taxpayers appeared before the legislators in the Orphans' Court room to express their opinions about proposed legislation. F. D. Bittle, Merle Frantz and Prentice DeBerry, representing teachers and parent-teacher groups, asked for support of the school program that will be presented to the legislature by the State Board of Education, while F. E. Rathbun spoke in behalf of the schools of the county.

Dr. E. E. Sollars, in addition to supporting schools, also made known his ardent support of better roads, a hospital for Oakland, and a sales tax. Mr. DeBerry pointed out that in response to a letter sent out to parents 70 percent had been returned with approval of the proposed school program.

Mayor A. G. Hesen, Oakland, conferred with the legislators about setting up a police court, licensing business places and setting a definite sum which Oakland would receive from the county as its share of the gasoline tax.

Dan Hershberger, Grantsville, urged legislation that would pay farmers for destruction of crops by deer. Frederick Thayer spoke in the interest of proper legislation for patrolling Deep Creek Lake as did also Arden May and C. M. Railey.

Others were there to urge better roads and to support legislation to better conditions in mental hospitals. Lawrence Fraley, newly elected senator, said the entire delegation favored a countywide school building program to adequately take care of the county's needs.

The legislators left Oakland Wednesday morning for the opening of the regular session. They had a causes at 4 o'clock followed by a dinner at 6 o'clock. Delegates are George E. Coddington, Ronald E. McIntire and Jasper C. Myers.

Back Church Project

Three service organizations of Oakland are sponsoring a go to church project through January. They are the Oakland Rotary club, the Oakland-Mt. Lake Lions club and the Business and Professional Women's club.

Committee members declared the purpose was not just to attend church during January but to make that month a starting point for regular attendance in their own churches during the entire year, and to urge others to make church attendance and participation in church attendance and participation in church activities a project of their own.

The structure was completely destroyed this time before the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company could extinguish the blaze. An investigation is being made to determine the cause of the fire.

The Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company responded to an alarm Saturday at the J. Natwick and Company plant. A grass fire endangered the plant and lumber and was quickly extinguished by the firemen.

Jack H. Smouse To Represent Fla., In Air Age Activities

Jack H. Smouse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Smouse, Route 3, Cumberland, has accepted membership in and agreed to be Florida's representative for Air Age Activities, according to word received here.

He will serve on the Research Project with 39 other well-known educators in industrial arts and related fields. The project is being extended in its practical educational implications by the Institute of Air Age Activities.

The Research Project has been under development on the campus of Texas A and M College under the direction of Professor C. H. Groneman.

Smouse, who is Industrial Arts teacher in the Stuart High School, Stuart, Fla., is one of the first industrial arts teachers in country to introduce aviation in his teaching curriculum. The school, to back his plans, has purchased a surplus army plane and installed it at the school where it is being used for ground instructional purposes by the visual educational aeronautics class.

This type of instruction follows the plan Smouse collaborating with others published entitled, "Aviation Education Grades 7-8-9 for Industrial Arts."

A graduate of Fort Hill High School, class of 1940, Smouse taught pre-flight air courses at the Naval Training School at Perdew University before being called for nine months naval duty. After his discharge he accepted the teaching position in Florida and is now in his second year there. Under the G. I. bill he began work for his Master's degree at Penn State, and returning for the third summer this year, he will complete his work and receive his degree.

Union Seeks 15 Cent Boost At Coney Mill

Joseph J. Barley, business manager of Local 1874, Textile Worker's Union of America, reported last night that the union will open negotiations with the General Textile Mills for a 15 cent hourly increase for members of the sub-local employed at the Lonaconing branch of the company.

The wage talks will open Monday in New York City with Barley and James A. Dundon, regional TWUA director, representing the local.

Barley said he has been informed that a new unit recently installed at the Lonaconing factory is now in operation.

Radcliffe and Thompson both said this morning that there seems to be an idea in some quarters that "we are anxious to stay here."

"All we can say to that is—just let the commissioners relieve us of our bonds and we will walk out of here, say "Thank God", and be glad to be out of it. It was always our belief that the board should feel obligated to assist and aid the collector on his duties, since the county won't be able to accomplish much unless the money comes in."

Radcliffe also stated that remarks made by at least one member of the board indicated that "they were really after Thompson."

"All I can say to that is that Thompson is my assistant and he is also my friend," Radcliffe said. "And when we go out of here we go out together."

The collector also highly praised Thompson for his efficiency and called attention to the fact that county collections at present are "in the best shape in history."

Interest was expressed today as to whether pressure tactics might not necessitate Radcliffe to employ drastic tactics in bringing in outstanding taxation before his term of office expires. The collector's office had no comment to make on this angle of the proposition, but indicated that the public will be fully acquainted with every move made by the office between now and April 1.

Kight Named Head Of Rapplier Club

George Byron Kight was elected president of the Rapplier Club for the coming year, at the club's 14th annual dinner meeting New Year's Night at Keegan's Restaurant on North Mechanic street.

The club consists of members of the LaSalle graduating class of 1933. "Rapplier" is a French word meaning "to remember." Leo H. Ley, Jr., was chairman and toastmaster at the meeting. It was decided to put the Rapplier Club Athlete Award at LaSalle High School on a permanent basis and to plan for an elaborate 15th anniversary celebration next year.

Since a number of LaSalle graduating classes have followed the pattern of the Rapplier Club in holding annual reunions, they may be invited to participate in the 1948 celebration, Kight said.

In an impressive ritual, the club's sombre black wine bottle, made in the figure of a man drinking a toast, was unveiled. On the back of the bottle are inscribed the names of William F. Coleman and John M. Graney, the only two members of the club who have died.

Thomas G. Kirk, Washington, D. C., and Harold J. Fleming, Charleston, W. Va., came here for the affair. A telegraphed greeting was received from Lawrence A. "Trip" Trozzo, former LaSalle athlete, who is stationed with the Army in Germany.

expressed surprise that they had been recovered and returned to the Legion home. He continued to withhold any comment.

Entrance to the Legion home was gained through a coal chute and then by removing an inner metal door from its hinges, it was reported. Lt. Van said after the machines were taken from the home they were hidden under a nearby porch until Glass obtained an automobile. Then the machines were loaded into the car and taken into West Virginia where they were broken open.

Taken From Hiding Place

The lieutenant added that the Jacksons got $115 as their share of the loot, that Adams got $80 and Glass between $175 and $200. Adams, officers said, used his money to buy clothing, but Glass, they said, placed his in a bag and hid it under the Wiley Ford bridge. When he went to get the money, police added, it was gone.

The News was informed by a reliable source that extraordinary precautions are now being taken to prevent another theft. Last October machines valued at $3,000 were carried away.

Machines, it was said, have been placed in steel safes, each large enough to hold two machines. The safes can be closed and locked when the machines are not in use.

Following a meeting of members of the House Committee of the Legion last night, The News was informed the Legion will "take the rap" for maintaining slot machines in order to prosecute the men who stole them.

street, but Logue told him there was nothing in it.

Split Three Ways

After leaving the store, Schemminger and Logue rejoined "Slim," Scheminger said, and drove to the McMullen Highway where they split the money three ways, Schemminger getting $47 and Logue and "Slim" $48 each after having purchased two fifths of liquor and two pints of wine.

On December 19 Schemminger said he and Logue met again at McCoole and drank some beer and wine and that Logue wanted him to go along to Meyersdale to rob the bank there.

Schemminger said he refused to go to Meyersdale and also "refused to sanction" robbery of a place "above Frostburg."

After refusing to accompany Logue to Grantsville, Schemminger said he drove Logue to Westernport.

"We went up on Main street in Westernport and passed some little place and Logue said 'That looks good,' but I kept on driving and told him that I had to go to the mines," Schemminger said.

"On going to the mines we passed Howard Kerns' store. As we passed Kerns' store he said that was a good looking store to him. Then he asked me to turn around and go back to the old church. He told me to wait there which I did. He got out of the car and went back up the street in the direction of Kerns' store. I waited there about 15 minutes. When he got out of the car he had a gun and a blackjack in his possession.

Got No Money

Schemminger, who declared he got none of the money, said he did not know what Logue had when he returned from the store, but he continued:

"When he got in he said 'Let's go.' We drove down past the Police Station where some officer held his hand out but we continued on down towards McCoole. Before we got to Harry Reeves's place on the McCoole Highway Logue told me to slow down, which I did, and he jumped out of the car. We knew that they were following us."

Schemminger and Logue were arrested by Westernport officers within a few minutes after the latter jumped from the machine and have been held in the county jail since that time.

were treated in Memorial Hospital for minor injuries.

City police said the car owned by Oliver G. Rank, 126 Bedford street, and driven by Leland D. Jackson, 110 Paca street, crashed against the vehicle operated by Herbert Tallman, 20 Potomac street, Ridgeley, who was making a left turn when the mishap occurred.

Occupants of cars driven by Lloyd Morris, 113 Race street, and John Twigg, Valley Road, escaped injury Wednesday night in a collision at Pennsylvania avenue and First street, police reported.

Boys Injured Coasting

Six-year-old George Neely, son of Robert Neely, was injured about the head and nose Wednesday afternoon when his sled was struck by the automobile of Milton Bernstein, Washington street, on Smallwood street. He was admitted to Allegany Hospital where X-rays were taken to determine the extent of his injuries.

In another sled riding accident, Charles Baker, 10, 643 Henderson avenue, was cut about the face and head Wednesday night. Attaches were told the boy, son of John Baker, was hit by a sled. X-rays were taken.

Mrs. Fay O'Brien, 30, Mechanic street, was admitted to Allegany Hospital Wednesday morning after she suffered a back injury in a fall down a flight of stairs. Her condition is good.

Union Predicts Early End To Work Stoppage

William S. Deaton, Baltimore, business agent for the AFL Operating Engineers union, reported last night that a strike which began yesterday at the Air Reduction Sales Company, Offutt street, is expected to be settled today.

Deaton said the minor misunderstanding which led to the work stoppage was of a "local nature" and that he expects the matter to be settled in a few minutes when a representative of the company's New York office arrives here today. Members of Local 453, Teamsters Union, and Local 27-A, Operating Engineers, represent the workers.

Man Free On Bond Is Arrested Again

A Mt. Savage man, who recently completed a six-months sentence in the Maryland House of Correction, and was free on bond for action of the grand jury, was arrested again last night on a theft charge.

Joseph Edgar Dorsey, who waived a preliminary hearing, on charges of breaking and entering the barber shop of Tubby McKenzie, Mt. Savage, is being held for questioning in connection with the recent theft of a woman's wrist watch.

Police said Dorsey sold the watch at a Mechanic street pawn shop and yesterday was identified as the man by the proprietor. Police, who didn't identify the woman whose watch was stolen, said Dorsey will be questioned today.

According to court attaches, Dorsey was sentenced to the House of Correction May 29, this year, when convicted on a charge of stealing $24 from Mrs. John Fishel. He served his sentence and was given time off for good behavior, officials said.

After his release he was again arrested for the breaking and entering at the barber shop for which he is now on bond.

Scout Heads To Meet

The meeting scheduled for 6:30 p. m. at the Central Y.M.C.A. will include a dinner and a discussion of scouting. Thompson said there would be "no dry speeches" but a general forum type program.

First 1947 Fires Are Minor, Firemen Say

City firemen reported yesterday that damage from fires over the New Year's holiday was slight and that the minor blazes were soon brought under control.

The first call of 1947 was made by West Side Fire Company which was summoned to the home of Richard D Robertson, 311 Schley street, Wednesday at 3:18 p. m. when an ironing-board cabinet caught fire. The blaze, which firemen said apparently was caused by an overheated iron, damaged the cabinet and set a floor partition afire.

Central Fire Company was called to South Mechanic street yesterday at 8:30 a. m. when a car bearing West Virginia license plates and owned by Oscar James caught fire. Damage caused by the short circuit was slight, firemen said.

Vote On Channeling Funds Not Taken By State Body

Charles Z. Heskett, a member of the State Aviation Commission, said yesterday that the group has not formally gone on record as favor-favor channeling through the State ing passage by the General Assembly of an act which would channel federal airport funds through the commission instead of direct to the communities.

Heskett made his statement when shown a story in a Baltimore newspaper that indicated the commission favored such action on the part of the General Assembly, which convenes today.

The city attorney said he would Commission if that group is provided with the necessary money to match federal funds so that the communities would receive increased benefits. Without this provision, Heskett said he sees "no sense in snarling up" the present relationship between the cities and the federal government.

Heskett said it is his understanding that Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, commission chairman, feels the same way.

In an impressive ritual, the club's sombre black wine bottle, made in the figure of a man drinking a toast, was unveiled. On the back of the bottle are inscribed the names of William F. Coleman and John M. Graney, the only two members of the club who have died.

Thomas G. Kirk, Washington, D. C., and Harold J. Fleming, Charleston, W. Va., came here for the affair. A telegraphed greeting was received from Lawrence A. "Trip" Trozzo, former LaSalle athlete, who is stationed with the Army in Germany.

Others in attendance were John Berkard, Gilbert Becker, Paul Morgan, George F. Garlitz, James Garlitz, Hugh Mullaney, Karl Mewshaw, Marcus Naughton, Raymond O'Rourke, James B. Reinhart, Paul G. Stakem, John A. Turano, Charles Winebrenner, Howard T. Carolan, Ralph C. Bowen and John Loibel.

expressed surprise that they had been recovered and returned to the Legion home. He continued to withhold any comment.

Entrance to the Legion home was gained through a coal chute and then by removing an inner metal door from its hinges, it was reported. Lt. Van said after the machines were taken from the home they were hidden under a nearby porch until Glass obtained an automobile. Then the machines were loaded into the car and taken into West Virginia where they were broken open.

Taken From Hiding Place

The lieutenant added that the Jacksons got $115 as their share of the loot, that Adams got $80 and Glass between $175 and $200. Adams, officers said, used his money to buy clothing, but Glass, they said, placed his in a bag and hid it under the Wiley Ford bridge. When he went to get the money, police added, it was gone.

The News was informed by a reliable source that extraordinary precautions are now being taken to prevent another theft. Last October machines valued at $3,000 were carried away.

Machines, it was said, have been placed in steel safes, each large enough to hold two machines. The safes can be closed and locked when the machines are not in use.

Following a meeting of members of the House Committee of the Legion last night, The News was informed the Legion will "take the rap" for maintaining slot machines in order to prosecute the men who stole them.

street, but Logue told him there was nothing in it.

Split Three Ways

After leaving the store, Schemminger and Logue rejoined "Slim," Scheminger said, and drove to the McMullen Highway where they split the money three ways, Schemminger getting $47 and Logue and "Slim" $48 each after having purchased two fifths of liquor and two pints of wine.

On December 19 Schemminger said he and Logue met again at McCoole and drank some beer and wine and that Logue wanted him to go along to Meyersdale to rob the bank there.

Schemminger said he refused to go to Meyersdale and also "refused to sanction" robbery of a place "above Frostburg."

After refusing to accompany Logue to Grantsville, Schemminger said he drove Logue to Westernport.

"We went up on Main street in Westernport and passed some little place and Logue said 'That looks good,' but I kept on driving and told him that I had to go to the mines," Schemminger said.

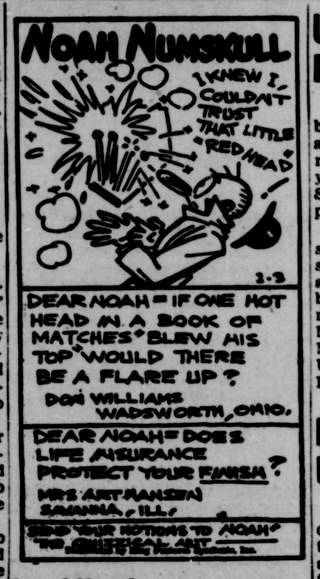
"On going to the mines we passed Howard Kerns' store. As we passed Kerns' store he said that was a good looking store to him. Then he asked me to turn around and go back to the old church. He told me to wait there which I did. He got out of the car and went back up the street in the direction of Kerns' store. I waited there about 15 minutes. When he got out of the car he had a gun and a blackjack in his possession.

Got No Money

Schemminger, who declared he got none of the money, said he did not know what Logue had when he returned from the store, but he continued:

"When he got in he said 'Let's go.' We drove down past the Police Station where some officer held his hand out but we continued on down towards McCoole. Before we got to Harry Reeves's place on the McCoole Highway Logue told me to slow down, which I did, and he jumped out of the car. We knew that they were following us."

Schemminger and Logue were arrested by Westernport officers within a few minutes after the latter jumped from the machine and have been held in the county jail since that time.



Local Youth

were treated in Memorial Hospital for minor injuries.

City police said the car owned by Oliver G. Rank, 126 Bedford street, and driven by Leland D. Jackson, 110 Paca street, crashed against the vehicle operated by Herbert Tallman, 20 Potomac street, Ridgeley, who was making a left turn when the mishap occurred.

Occupants of cars driven by Lloyd Morris, 113 Race street, and John Twigg, Valley Road, escaped injury Wednesday night in a collision at Pennsylvania avenue and First street, police reported.

Boys Injured Coasting

Six-year-old George Neely, son of Robert Neely, was injured about the head and nose Wednesday afternoon when his sled was struck by the automobile of Milton Bernstein, Washington street, on Smallwood street. He was admitted to Allegany Hospital where X-rays were taken to determine the extent of his injuries.

In another sled riding accident, Charles Baker, 10, 643 Henderson avenue, was cut about the face and head Wednesday night. Attaches were told the boy, son of John Baker, was hit by a sled. X-rays were taken.

Mrs. Fay O'Brien, 30, Mechanic street, was admitted to Allegany Hospital Wednesday morning after she suffered a back injury in a fall down a flight of stairs. Her condition is good.

Union Predicts Early End To Work Stoppage

William S. Deaton, Baltimore, business agent for the AFL Operating Engineers union, reported last night that a strike which began yesterday at the Air Reduction Sales Company, Offutt street, is expected to be settled today.

Deaton said the minor misunderstanding which led to the work stoppage was of a "local nature" and that he expects the matter to be settled in a few minutes when a representative of the company's New York office arrives here today. Members of Local 453, Teamsters Union, and Local 27-A, Operating Engineers, represent the workers.

Man Free On Bond Is Arrested Again

A Mt. Savage man, who recently completed a six-months sentence in the Maryland House of Correction, and was free on bond for action of the grand jury, was arrested again last night on a theft charge.

Joseph Edgar Dorsey, who waived a preliminary hearing, on charges of breaking and entering the barber shop of Tubby McKenzie, Mt. Savage, is being held for questioning in connection with the recent theft of a woman's wrist watch.

Police said Dorsey sold the watch at a Mechanic street pawn shop and yesterday was identified as the man by the proprietor. Police, who didn't identify the woman whose watch was stolen, said Dorsey will be questioned today.

According to court attaches, Dorsey was sentenced to the House of Correction May 29, this year, when convicted on a charge of stealing $24 from Mrs. John Fishel. He served his sentence and was given time off for good behavior, officials said.

After his release he was again arrested for the breaking and entering at the barber shop for which he is now on bond.

Scout Heads To Meet

Neighborhood commissioners and troop committee chairmen of Potomac Council Boy Scouts of America will meet Thursday to elect district officers and discuss plans for 1947, M. G. Thompson, district chairman, said.

The meeting scheduled for 6:30 p. m. at the Central Y.M.C.A. will include a dinner and a discussion of scouting. Thompson said there would be "no dry speeches" but a general forum type program.

First 1947 Fires Are Minor, Firemen Say

City firemen reported yesterday that damage from fires over the New Year's holiday was slight and that the minor blazes were soon brought under control.

The first call of 1947 was made by West Side Fire Company which was summoned to the home of Richard D Robertson, 311 Schley street, Wednesday at 3:18 p. m. when an ironing-board cabinet caught fire. The blaze, which firemen said apparently was caused by an overheated iron, damaged the cabinet and set a floor partition afire.

Central Fire Company was called to South Mechanic street yesterday at 8:30 a. m. when a car bearing West Virginia license plates and owned by Oscar James caught fire. Damage caused by the short circuit was slight, firemen said.

Vote On Channeling Funds Not Taken By State Body

Charles Z. Heskett, a member of the State Aviation Commission, said yesterday that the group has not formally gone on record as favor-favor channeling through the State ing passage by the General Assembly of an act which would channel federal airport funds through the commission instead of direct to the communities.

Heskett made his statement when shown a story in a Baltimore newspaper that indicated the commission favored such action on the part of the General Assembly, which convenes today.

The city attorney said he would Commission if that group is provided with the necessary money to match federal funds so that the communities would receive increased benefits. Without this provision, Heskett said he sees "no sense in snarling up" the present relationship between the cities and the federal government.

Heskett said it is his understanding that Maj. Gen. Philip Hayes, commission chairman, feels the same way.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

Hollywood, Jan. 2.—Happy new ear—and rosy resolutions to you ne and all.

In the past years, I've always ade it my habit to suggest a few good resolutions for the movie stars. But this year I'm making my own — to be kept or broken as all good resolves are meant to be:

Estelle Taylor

First, I'm going to quit picking on Frankie, Sinatra that is, because I think he's a mixed up boy right now and I'm not going to sass him no matter how many snippy telegrams and clippings he sends me.

I'm going to keep on being "that ay" about Gregory Peck because e's just as charming and attractive off the screen as his shadow is.

I'm not going to fall for another Lana Turner romance until she and whoever it is, are knocking on the minister's door.

Whenever the occasion arises I shall continue to champion Ingrid Bergman whom I have always found charming and cooperative.

I'm going to stop picking on Sonny Tufts about his weight because he's so doggone sweet about it.

I'm going to continue waving my plumed hats in the air over the fine product Hollywood is turning out—our best pictures in many, many years are showing now.

But I shall continue to get out the ax over disgraceful lawsuits, and divorce battles that should never be aired in public.

And last, but far from least, I'm going to try to be as good a girl as I expect our movie stars to be.

The new year starts very auspiciously for Estelle Taylor, who leaves Hollywood for Broadway the middle of January. Estelle has been given the lead in "Sheila" which opens the first of March. In it she ends by becoming a drunken grandmother—how far back are the lady drunks going?

I think Estelle was the most surprised of anyone when Jack Dempsey joined Hannah Williams and his two daughters at the Dempsey home. Estelle was with the two children constantly when they were here last summer and they were crazy about her.

She has always been sentimental about the Dempsey house 'cause that's where she and Jack lived when they were married.

Sarah Bernhardts are popping from all directions.

Last week I told you that Curt Bernhardt (no relation) was going to interview Sarah Churchill about playing the Divine Sarah in his version of the life of the immortal stage star.

Now I get a wire that Charles Rogers is negotiating with Tallulah Bankhead to play the title role in "The Divine Sarah"—yep, based on the life story of Bernhardt by Basil Woon. Charlie has owned this story for 10 years.

Well, let the boys fight it out. Say, Tallulah would make a wonderful screen Bernhardt — now wouldn't she?

Chatter in Hollywood: Never say that Eileen Herrick, the famous "Juliet" whose pappy locked her in a closet when she wanted to marry George (Romeo) Lowther—hasn't a sense of humor.

After all hellzapopped when she wanted to marry George—now both families, particularly her's, are peeved because she is divorcing him.

Eileen told me her mother said, "I hope the rumors that you and George are breaking up aren't true —I think it is a big mistake!"

Well, she's a big girl now and they can't lock her in a closet again, but she's sure standing in the family "corner." As Eileen says, "you can't win." Incidentally, her latest escort is Spencer Martin, brother of Stuart Martin who just married Angela Greene.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Parties, parties, parties —wedding, weddings, weddings, at the beginning of this 1947 new year. . . .One of the nicest parties was the one Atwater Kent hosted in honor of Jerome Courtland, the boy who had such a bad accident in Japan a few months ago. Shirley Temple and Mona Freeman, both his co-stars, helped him cut the cake. . . .Harry Crocker was best man at the wedding of Val Valentino, now known as Paul Valentine, RKO actor, and Lili St. Cyr. They were married in Mexico. . .Announcement has been made that James Eddy, son of Don Eddy, and Arline Jost, both in RKO publicity, have been married since November 20 . . .Jimmy Ritz gave a birthday party for Tony Martin at the El Rancho Vegas over the weekend. . . Among the people reported at the Flamingo opening, also at Las Vegas, were Lon McCallister and Alene Roberts. She's a cute girl and will be going places, I know, after "The Red House" is released. . . The Artur Rubenstein-Chopin concert brought a lot of our movie people out. It was a benefit for Poland. Katharine Hepburn, Doris Kenyon, the Peter Rathvons and many others were there. After the concert Doris Kenyon gave a party in honor of Rubenstein. . . Kay Francis leaves for New York January 3, completely well from her operation. She'll go back into "State Of The Union" about the 20th of the month. She says she hasn't felt as well in years. . . .The Louis B. Mayer party was wonderful. More about that later—also about Mitchell Leisen's soiree, and S. P. Eagle's breakfast party. Everybody had a good time. . . .Alfred Hitchcock, who was so amusing on my show, is bringing Alfred D. Burt, head jailer of London's Old Bailey, to Hollywood to supervise scenes in "The Paradine Case." Burt arrives here Friday. That's all today.

KATE SMITH says: "A heart-stirring picture that thrilled me as no movie ever has."

U. S. More Friendly With Russia Now Than Three Months Ago

Poll Shows Citizens Think Soviets Will Cooperate In World Affairs

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., January 2 — A more friendly attitude is developing in this country toward Russia.

It is not a sweeping change. A substantial body of citizens still believe that Russia will not cooperate with us in world affairs. But as compared to the situation nine months ago, or three months ago, there is a much more favorable ratio of sentiment concerning our relations with the Soviets. This may represent a response to more friendly Russian moves in the closing days of the United Nations meetings last month.

The latest study of public attitudes was conducted on the following question:

"Do you think Russia will cooperate with us in world affairs?"

The same question was asked in March, May and October of 1946. The trend follows:

	Yes	No	No opin.
March	35%	52%	13%
May	45	38	17
October	32	53	15
TODAY	43	40	17

American attitudes toward Russia have varied sharply in the last four years. The pendulum has swung back and forth rapidly between friendliness and unfriendliness, depending on Russian actions.

Climbing slowly from 1942, confidence in Russia's willingness to cooperate with the United States rose to a high point in March, 1945, when American and Russian armies were sweeping Europe.

Three months later there was a decline in the warmth of American feelings toward Russia. It coincided with Russian demands made during the United Nations Charter conference in San Francisco.

Then when Russia came into the war against Japan confidence in Moscow's intentions concerning us rose again.

In view of the gyrations of opinion in the past, it should be borne in mind that the latest poll results reflect the situation only as of late December, and may prove no guide to what sentiment will be like a month from now or two months from now. There will be a meeting in Moscow in March to deal with the German settlement. The progress of these negotiations will have a material effect on public attitude.

In general, the group in America which shows greatest faith in Russia's intentions are people who have had some college training. Those who have had only grade school education or no school seem the most suspicious of Russia.

The vote by education level follows:

	Yes	No	No opin.
College	60%	33%	7%
High School	49	40	11
Grade or no school	35	42	23

Jett Qualifies For Stock Work

John B. Jett, 25, Park Heights, has qualified as a registered representative of the New York Stock Exchange and is only the second person in Cumberland to achieve the rating.

Jett, an employe of Stein Brothers and Boyce, stock brokers, qualified after taking a year's correspondence course of the New York Institute of Finance, which is operated by the exchange. By becoming a registered representative, Jett is eligible to deal in any type of security.

The only other registered representative in Cumberland is Ralph G. Smeltz, manager of the local Stein Brothers and Boyce office in the Liberty Trust Building. The registered system has been in effect about seven years and Smeltz qualified at the start. Smeltz said Jett is one of the youngest men to qualify in the tri-state area.

Jett began working for Stein Brothers and Boyce in May 1940 and in August 1942 entered the Army. He returned to civilian life in October 1945.

In the Army Air Forces, Jett was in the China-Burma-India area for a year and participated in 35 bombings missions in a B-29 as a crew member with the rank of first lieutenant. He was an electronics expert. In addition, Jett, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude T. Jett, Park Heights, made two dozen flights over the "Hump."

U. S. More Friendly With Russia Now Than Three Months Ago

Poll Shows Citizens Think Soviets Will Cooperate In World Affairs

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., January 2 — A more friendly attitude is developing in this country toward Russia.

It is not a sweeping change. A substantial body of citizens still believe that Russia will not cooperate with us in world affairs. But as compared to the situation nine months ago, or three months ago, there is a much more favorable ratio of sentiment concerning our relations with the Soviets. This may represent a response to more friendly Russian moves in the closing days of the United Nations meetings last month.

The latest study of public attitudes was conducted on the following question:

"Do you think Russia will cooperate with us in world affairs?"

The same question was asked in March, May and October of 1946. The trend follows:

	Yes	No	No opin.
March	35%	52%	13%
May	45	38	17
October	32	53	15
TODAY	43	40	17

American attitudes toward Russia have varied sharply in the last four years. The pendulum has swung back and forth rapidly between friendliness and unfriendliness, depending on Russian actions.

Climbing slowly from 1942, confidence in Russia's willingness to cooperate with the United States rose to a high point in March, 1945, when American and Russian armies were sweeping Europe.

Three months later there was a decline in the warmth of American feelings toward Russia. It coincided with Russian demands made during the United Nations Charter conference in San Francisco.

Then when Russia came into the war against Japan confidence in Moscow's intentions concerning us rose again.

In view of the gyrations of opinion in the past, it should be borne in mind that the latest poll results reflect the situation only as of late December, and may prove no guide to what sentiment will be like a month from now or two months from now. There will be a meeting in Moscow in March to deal with the German settlement. The progress of these negotiations will have a material effect on public attitude.

Maryland Gets $4,121,265 From Racing

State Commission Reports $317,881 From Half Milers

Revenue From Four Mile Tracks In 1946 Was $3,799,977

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 2 (AP)—Maryland collected $4,121,265.14 in race track revenues during 1946, the State Racing Commission report to Governor Herbert R. O'Conor showed today.

Of this total, $3,799,977 came from the four mile tracks—Bowie, Havre De Grace, Laurel and Pimlico—and $317,881 from the half-mile racing plants. A total of $3,406 was derived from license and registration fees of jockeys, trainers and owners.

The report showed collections were made as follows from the mile tracks:

Daily license fee of $6,000—$600,000; two per cent tax on betting, $2,031,677.12; breakage, $734,223.10, and the 15 per cent net revenues levy, $434,077.32.

In addition, the commission collected $75,000 from the Pimlico Race Track for payment to Baltimore County.

From the half-mile tracks, the commission collected $289,078.08 from the two per cent tax on betting over $500,000 and $28,803.52 from the five per cent tax on net revenue, besides $2,500 from the daily license fee payable to the counties in which the tracks are situated.

The report also reaffirmed the commission's support of pre-race biological tests to detect stimulation.

The commissioners noted that the improvement fund collected from the setting aside of one-half of one per cent of the mutuel handle at the major tracks now stands at $1,380,002.

The tracks may draw from the fund to make improvements to their facilities.

The report expressed "concern" over the enlargement of racing programs in neighboring states and referring to "modern and spacious plants" constructed recently outside Maryland, said "the effects of these improved facilities already has been made evident when operating dates conflicted" with those in Maryland.

The commission said that some of the tracks would be required to make improvements as soon as building materials were available.

The report was signed by George P. Mahoney, commission chairman, and members Frank Small, Jr., and H. Courtenay Jenifer.

PARIS' TRIAL SET FOR NEXT MONDAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — The trial of Alvin J. Paris, charged with attempting to "fix" the New York Giants-Chicago Bears championship football game Dec. 15, was postponed today until Monday after important witnesses were prevented from arriving by bad weather.

General Sessions Judge Saul S. Streit granted the defense request for the postponement after John Mc Kim Minton, one of Paris' attorneys, had explained the absence of several important witnesse .

The trial originally was set for Dec. 24, nine days after Paris' arrest, but Judge Streit granted an eight-day delay after defense counsel had sought a month's postponement. The defendant's attorneys also were unsuccessful in efforts to have him released on bail.

Paris, a 28-year-old novelty concern salesman, is charged with offering bribes to Frank Filchock and Merle Hapes, Giant backfield stars, to "lay down" in the championship game, which was won by the Bears.

Texans Seek Football Series With Gobblers

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 2 (AP) — Virginia Tech has been invited by the Texas School of Mines to open football relations either in 1948 or 1949 with a home-and-home series to start either in Blacksburg, Va., or El Paso, Texas, the Richmond Times Dispatch said tonight.

The invitation, the paper said, was extended by Athletic Director Jack Curtice, of the Texas School of Mines, an affiliate of the University of Texas, to Coach Jimmy Kitts and staff of the travelling VPI team after the Sun Bowl game New Year's Day, which VPI lost, 6-18, to the University of Cincinnati.

At Blacksburg, Athletic Director W. L. (Monk) Younger said he would await the return of VPI officials and coaches and confer with them before making a final decision.

Talent Hunt Card To Open New Year At Garden Tonight

12,000 Fistic Fans Are Expected To Witness Three 10-Rounders

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Fresh talent has been as scarce lately as electric lights in a well, so Promoter Mike Jacobs starts the new year off in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night with a talent hunt he hopes will uncover new stock to keep the customers coming — and paying.

Now, this is not amateur night mind you. All hands in this card, headed by three ten-rounders, expect to get a night's pay. And Mike's cash-counters are looking for a crowd of 12,000 to chip in to a gate of $50,000 or so.

But Mike is an old hand at building up budding beak-busters from these "all-star" cards. In the past he's come up from these bargain-counter clout parties with such swatters as Tami Mauriello, a money-maker among the heavyweights, and Billy Soose, who went on to win the top in this kind of a scramble.

This time, Mike is tossing Julio Jiminez, a moustachioed Mexican who's becoming quite a favorite with the Garden gallery society, in against Roman Alvarez, a Brooklyn lightweight; Johnny Colan, a Long Island light-heavy who's been taking on the heavyweights here lately, against John Thomas, a stocky Florida flailer, and Bee Bee Washington, a Washington middleweight ranked well up among the 160-pounders this year, against Joe Curcio, a southpaw out of Newark, N. J.

Each of these matches was put on once before in recent months, in Mike's minor league farm, the St. Nicholas Arena, and wound up with such fancy fireworks that Jacobs has rounded them all under one roof and brought them into the big time—at the usual increase in prices. The last time, Alvarez outpointed Jiminez for Julio's only defeat in nine starts since he headed from south of the border; Thomas took home such a disputed decision over Colan in a photo finish that a return go was a natural, and Washington and Southpaw Joe went ten rounds to a draw. The Alvarez-Jiminez and Curcio-Washington waltzes are just about evenup in the betting, and Thomas is 5 to 8 to do it again to Long Island Johnny.

Mike, himself, won't be on hand, of course. He's still in a hospital, slowly pulling out of the critical illness that struck him several weeks ago.

In the preliminary game the Petersburg Pepsi Colas defeated the Circleville Independents, 3 3to 16. Owens led the point getters with an even dozen tallies. Petersburg held a 16-8 advantage at the halfway mark. Lineups:

Lonaconing continued to stay out in front in the race for the first half championship of the Interstate Basketball League by defeating the Cumberland Amvets last night in the second game of a twin bill on SS. Peter and Paul court by the score of 40 to 31.

It was a close game throughout but the cagers representing James P. Love Post, American Legion, had the best of the argument and made it two in a row over the local aggregation, which dropped a decision at Lonaconing earlier in the season.

Lonaconing led at the close of each period, the scores bein 7-3, 16-15 and 25-20.

Three Are Banished

Thirty-eight personal fouls were called on the teams—20 on 'Coney and 18 on the Amvets—and three players, namely, Dundas Orr and Johnny Muster, of the visiting team, and Walter "Pooch" Orndorff, of the locals, were ejected on five personal fouls.

High point honors were shared by Paul Oberhaus, who made his debut with the Amvets, and Orndorff, both of whom racked up 13 tallies. Oberhaus' collection included six fielders while Orndorff excelled at the charity line where he hooped 7 out of 9 throys. Bob Johnson, Dundas Orr and Gus Frizzell with 9, 8 and 7 points led the 'Coney offensive. Dean, Coney sub, tossed three timely fielders in the last half of the battle.

Mt. Savage Spills Caseys

Will Test Creighton

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 2 (AP) —Creighton University's basketball team hit the skids this week, spoiling the chances for a clash of two unbeaten teams here tomorrow, but H. C. (Twenty) Lantz isn't complaining.

Lantz, who has just taken over as acting manager at Marshall, succeeding Graduate Manager Jackie McKown, who resigned, predicted a sell-out crowd of 4,000 for the contest.

Marshall's nine victories in a row without defeat this season, including the Big Green's winning of the mid-west collegiate tournament at Terre Haute, Ind., last week has given the ticket business tremendous impetus. Coach Cam Henderson's quintet has a record string of 31 games in a row without defeat on the home floor.

PEEVED—Nat Holman, above, veteran coach of the City College of New York basketball team, has declared that his school never again will play Wyoming as long as Ev Shelton is coach of the team. Holman's blast followed a game between the two schools in New York at which Shelton allegedly let loose a shower of shouts singling out the racial background of several CCNY players. Shelton denied he had cast aspersions on the racial background of the City College players but admitted he had mentioned the names of the races. City College won the game, 57 to 48.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the plaintiff A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant.

The bill states that they were married on the 17th day of March, 1942, and that the Defendant abandoned and deserted the Plaintiff on the 15th day of May, 1945, and has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months last past prior to the bringing of this suit and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation, and that the Plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for more than one year prior to the bringing of this action, and the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and the Plaintiff asks for an Order of Publication against the Defendant and general relief.

It is thereupon this 18th. day of December, 1946, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, sitting in equity, ordered that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper to be published in Allegany County once in each of four successive weeks on or before the 19th. day of January, 1947, giving notice to said absent Defendant of the object and substance of this bill and warning him to appear in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 4th. day of February, 1947, to show cause, if any he might have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

CCNY Announces Break With Wyoming School

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—City College of New York today decided to break off relations with Wyoming University as long as Everett Shelton is coach of basketball.

A crisp declaration of policy, announced by the seven-man faculty athletic committee read:

"Resolved that the faculty athletic committee in view of evidence presented to it of action by Everett Shelton, coach of Wyoming University's basketball, during a game between Wyoming and City College of New York at Madison Square Garden on the evening of Dec. 28, 1945 feels compelled to refrain from scheduling athletic contests with any team with which Everett Shelton is associated."

RACING COMMISSION REAFFIRMS FAITH IN BIOLOGICAL TESTS

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 2 (AP) — The annual report of the Maryland State Racing Commission disclosed today that of 4,168 biological pre-race tests for evidences of stimulation taken during the Laurel, Pimlico and Bowie meetings last fall, only two showed positive results.

The report traced the use of the receiving barn, pre-race tests and mobile laboratory in Maryland last year.

The commission reaffirmed its faith in the biological "mouse tail" test, a source of considerable contention among horsemen, and described it as "the most effective protection yet devised for the wagering public and racing in general."

Answering arguments that the biological pre-race test was unreliable in that a horse might be disqualified by a positive result obtained through other sources than direct administration of drugs, the report declared:

"At the Laurel, Pimlico and Bowie meetings, 4,168 pre-race tests were taken. Of this number, only two showed a positive specimen from the biological test and were scratched. These two positive results were verified by the chemical test. So, therefore, no horses were disqualified because of elements advanced by those opposed to a pre-race test."

Maryland Gets $4,121,265 From Racing

Revenue From Four Mile Tracks In 1946 Was $3,799,977

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 2 (AP)—Maryland collected $4,121,265.14 in race track revenues during 1946, the State Racing Commission report to Governor Herbert R. O'Conor showed today.

Of this total, $3,799,977 came from the four mile tracks—Bowie, Havre De Grace, Laurel and Pimlico—and $317,881 from the half-mile racing plants. A total of $3,406 was derived from license and registration fees of jockeys, trainers and owners.

The report showed collections were made as follows from the mile tracks:

Daily license fee of $6,000—$600,000; two per cent tax on betting, $2,031,677.12; breakage, $734,223.10, and the 15 per cent net revenues levy, $434,077.32.

In addition, the commission collected $75,000 from the Pimlico Race Track for payment to Baltimore County.

From the half-mile tracks, the commission collected $289,078.08 from the two per cent tax on betting over $500,000 and $28,803.52 from the five per cent tax on net revenue, besides $2,500 from the daily license fee payable to the counties in which the tracks are situated.

The report also reaffirmed the commission's support of pre-race biological tests to detect stimulation.

The commissioners noted that the improvement fund collected from the setting aside of one-half of one per cent of the mutuel handle at the major tracks now stands at $1,380,002.

The tracks may draw from the fund to make improvements to their facilities.

The report expressed "concern" over the enlargement of racing programs in neighboring states and referring to "modern and spacious plants" constructed recently outside Maryland, said "the effects of these improved facilities already has been made evident when operating dates conflicted" with those in Maryland.

The commission said that some of the tracks would be required to make improvements as soon as building materials were available.

PARIS' TRIAL SET FOR NEXT MONDAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — The trial of Alvin J. Paris, charged with attempting to "fix" the New York Giants-Chicago Bears championship football game Dec. 15, was postponed today until Monday after important witnesses were prevented from arriving by bad weather.

General Sessions Judge Saul S. Streit granted the defense request for the postponement after John Mc Kim Minton, one of Paris' attorneys, had explained the absence of several important witnesses.

The trial originally was set for Dec. 24, nine days after Paris' arrest, but Judge Streit granted an eight-day delay after defense counsel had sought a month's postponement. The defendant's attorneys also were unsuccessful in efforts to have him released on bail.

Paris, a 28-year-old novelty concern salesman, is charged with offering bribes to Frank Filchock and Merle Hapes, Giant backfield stars, to "lay down" in the championship game, which was won by the Bears.

Texans Seek Football Series With Gobblers

RICHMOND, Va., Jan. 2 (AP) — Virginia Tech has been invited by the Texas School of Mines to open football relations either in 1948 or 1949 with a home-and-home series to start either in Blacksburg, Va., or El Paso, Texas, the Richmond Times Dispatch said tonight.

The invitation, the paper said, was extended by Athletic Director Jack Curtice, of the Texas School of Mines, an affiliate of the University of Texas, to Coach Jimmy Kitts and staff of the travelling VPI team after the Sun Bowl game New Year's Day, which VPI lost, 6-18, to the University of Cincinnati.

At Blacksburg, Athletic Director W. L. (Monk) Younger said he would await the return of VPI officials and coaches and confer with them before making a final decision.

Talent Hunt Card To Open New Year At Garden Tonight

12,000 Fistic Fans Are Expected To Witness Three 10-Rounders

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK, Jan. 2. (AP)—Fresh talent has been as scarce lately as electric lights in a well, so Promoter Mike Jacobs starts the new year off in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night with a talent hunt he hopes will uncover new stock to keep the customers coming — and paying.

Now, this is not amateur night mind you. All hands in this card, headed by three ten-rounders, expect to get a night's pay. And Mike's cash-counters are looking for a crowd of 12,000 to chip in to a gate of $50,000 or so.

But Mike is an old hand at building up budding beak-busters from these "all-star" cards. In the past he's come up from these bargain-counter clout parties with such swatters as Tami Mauriello, a money-maker among the heavyweights, and Billy Soose, who went on to win the top in this kind of a scramble.

This time, Mike is tossing Julio Jiminez, a moustachioed Mexican who's becoming quite a favorite with the Garden gallery society, in against Roman Alvarez, a Brooklyn lightweight; Johnny Colan, a Long Island light-heavy who's been taking on the heavyweights here lately, against John Thomas, a stocky Florida flailer, and Bee Bee Washington, a Washington middleweight ranked well up among the 160-pounders this year, against Joe Curcio, a southpaw out of Newark, N. J.

Each of these matches was put on once before in recent months, in Mike's minor league farm, the St. Nicholas Arena, and wound up with such fancy fireworks that Jacobs has rounded them all under one roof and brought them into the big time—at the usual increase in prices. The last time, Alvarez outpointed Jiminez for Julio's only defeat in nine starts since he headed from south of the border; Thomas took home such a disputed decision over Colan in a photo finish that a return go was a natural, and Washington and Southpaw Joe went ten rounds to a draw. The Alvarez-Jiminez and Curcio-Washington waltzes are just about evenup in the betting, and Thomas is 5 to 8 to do it again to Long Island Johnny.

Mike, himself, won't be on hand, of course. He's still in a hospital, slowly pulling out of the critical illness that struck him several weeks ago.

PETERSBURG HIGH TOPS CIRCLEVILLE

PETERSBURG, W. Va., Jan. 2 — Petersburg High School's Vikings defeated Circleville High School in a Potomac Valley Conference game here by the score of 38 to 27.

In the preliminary game the Petersburg Pepsi Colas defeated the Circleville Independents, 3 3to 16. Owens led the point getters with an even dozen tallies. Petersburg held a 16-8 advantage at the halfway mark. Lineups:

(At SS. Peter-Paul Gym)

Lonaconing continued to stay out in front in the race for the first half championship of the Interstate Basketball League by defeating the Cumberland Amvets last night in the second game of a twin bill on SS. Peter and Paul court by the score of 40 to 31.

It was a close game throughout but the cagers representing James P. Love Post, American Legion, had the best of the argument and made it two in a row over the local aggregation, which dropped a decision at Lonaconing earlier in the season.

Lonaconing led at the close of each period, the scores bein 7-3, 16-15 and 25-20.

Three Are Banished

Thirty-eight personal fouls were called on the teams—20 on 'Coney and 18 on the Amvets—and three players, namely, Dundas Orr and Johnny Muster, of the visiting team, and Walter "Pooch" Orndorff, of the locals, were ejected on five personal fouls.

High point honors were shared by Paul Oberhaus, who made his debut with the Amvets, and Orndorff, both of whom racked up 13 tallies. Oberhaus' collection included six fielders while Orndorff excelled at the charity line where he hooped 7 out of 9 throys. Bob Johnson, Dundas Orr and Gus Frizzell with 9, 8 and 7 points led the 'Coney offensive. Dean, Coney sub, tossed three timely fielders in the last half of the battle.

Mt. Savage Spills Caseys

Will Test Creighton

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Jan. 2 (AP) —Creighton University's basketball team hit the skids this week, spoiling the chances for a clash of two unbeaten teams here tomorrow, but H. C. (Twenty) Lantz isn't complaining.

Lantz, who has just taken over as acting manager at Marshall, succeeding Graduate Manager Jackie McKown, who resigned, predicted a sell-out crowd of 4,000 for the contest.

Marshall's nine victories in a row without defeat this season, including the Big Green's winning of the mid-west collegiate tournament at Terre Haute, Ind., last week has given the ticket business tremendous impetus. Coach Cam Henderson's quintet has a record string of 31 games in a row without defeat on the home floor.

PEEVED—Nat Holman, above, veteran coach of the City College of New York basketball team, has declared that his school never again will play Wyoming as long as Ev Shelton is coach of the team. Holman's blast followed a game between the two schools in New York at which Shelton allegedly let loose a shower of shouts singling out the racial background of several CCNY players. Shelton denied he had cast aspersions on the racial background of the City College players but admitted he had mentioned the names of the races. City College won the game, 57 to 48.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Maxine Vandevender vs. Paul E. Vandevender, No. 19787 Equity, in the Circuit Court for Allegany County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the plaintiff A VINCULO MATRIMONII from the Defendant.

The bill states that they were married on the 17th day of March, 1942, and that the Defendant abandoned and deserted the Plaintiff on the 15th day of May, 1945, and has declared his intention to live with her no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for more than eighteen months last past prior to the bringing of this suit and is deliberate and final and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation, and that the Plaintiff has been a resident of the State of Maryland for more than one year prior to the bringing of this action, and the Defendant is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, and the Plaintiff asks for an Order of Publication against the Defendant and general relief.

It is thereupon this 18th. day of December, 1946, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, sitting in equity, ordered that the plaintiff, by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper to be published in Allegany County once in each of four successive weeks on or before the 19th. day of January, 1947, giving notice to said absent Defendant of the object and substance of this bill and warning him to appear in person, or by solicitor, on or before the 4th. day of February, 1947, to show cause, if any he might have, why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

CCNY Announces Break With Wyoming School

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP)—City College of New York today decided to break off relations with Wyoming University as long as Everett Shelton is coach of basketball.

A crisp declaration of policy, announced by the seven-man faculty athletic committee read:

RACING COMMISSION REAFFIRMS FAITH IN BIOLOGICAL TESTS

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 2 (AP) — The annual report of the Maryland State Racing Commission disclosed today that of 4,168 biological pre-race tests for evidences of stimulation taken during the Laurel, Pimlico and Bowie meetings last fall, only two showed positive results.

The report traced the use of the receiving barn, pre-race tests and mobile laboratory in Maryland last year.

The commission reaffirmed its faith in the biological "mouse tail" test, a source of considerable contention among horsemen, and described it as "the most effective protection yet devised for the wagering public and racing in general."

Answering arguments that the biological pre-race test was unreliable in that a horse might be disqualified by a positive result obtained through other sources than direct administration of drugs, the report declared:

"At the Laurel, Pimlico and Bowie meetings, 4,168 pre-race tests were taken. Of this number, only two showed a positive specimen from the biological test and were scratched. These two positive results were verified by the chemical test. So, therefore, no horses were disqualified because of elements advanced by those opposed to a pre-race test."

Frankie Crosetti Is Player-Coach

Yanks' Infield Veteran Rewarded For Long, Faithful Service

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — Baldish Frankie Crosetti, who has been playing the infield for the New York Yankees since the Babe Ruth era, was rewarded for long and faithful service today by an appointment as player-coach under Manager Bucky Harris.

Joining Charley Dressen, a former Brooklyn Dodger, and holdover Johnny Schulte on the Yankee brain trust under Harris, the San Francisco born Italian indicated he planned to continue part time playing duty.

Although he played only 28 games last season, he was the regular shortstop during 1945, the last wartime season, and had played the position for the Yanks from 1932 through 1940 when Phil Rizzuto graduated to the big league from Kansas City.

The 36-year-old veteran of 15 previous big league seasons will report at St. Petersburg, Feb. 20 when the first squad of pitchers and catchers is due to start work at Miller Huggins Field. Infielders and outfielders will join the others, Feb. 28.

While this squad is drilling in Florida, another 30-man unit will be training in Puerto Rico, starting in mid-February. They will play a series of exhibitions in Venezuela and Havana before opening their St. Petersburg game schedule, March 12.

Kellett Has Gripe

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2 (AP) — Basketball Coach Don Kellett of the University of Pennsylvania said today that cage rules could stand a going over.

Hogan Is Favored In $10,000 Open

Los Angeles Event Gets Under Way Today With $2,000 As Top Prize

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2. (AP)—Money-winning Ben Hogan holds the dubious honor of the golfer to beat when the 21st annual $10,000 Los Angeles Open gets underway tomorrow over the long Riviera County Club course.

First money this year is $2,000, and Hogan, who earned approximately $42,000 to lead the professionals of the nation last year, was generally picked to pocket the cash.

As usual, however, the field is tough, and includes Sam Snead, the 1945 Los Angeles winner, National Open Champion Lloyd Mangrum, Jimmy Demaret, Chick Harbert, Herman Barron and other familiar tournament names.

AHS Invades Keyser

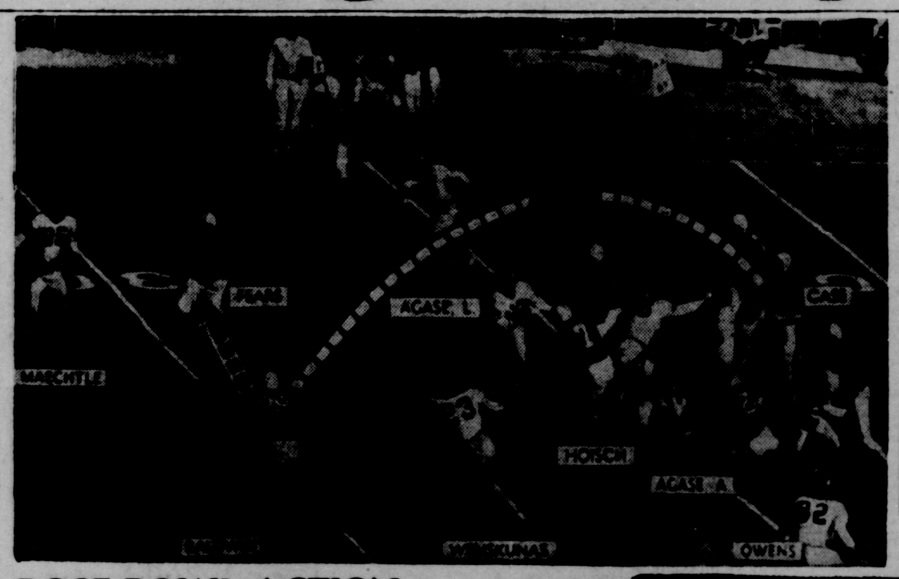
Halted by the Alumni, 35-34, in an extra period in New Year's Day, Allegany High School's floormen will be striving to get back into the win column tonight when they tangle with Coach Fred Clark's unbeaten Keyser High School quint in a game billed for 8 o'clock in Keyser.

Allegany had won two games from Somerset prior to the one-point setback at the hands of the Alumni. Keyser has racked up four successive victories over Bruce, Fort Ashby, the College Alumni and High School Alumni.

Two Potomac Valley Conference games are on tap for tonight, Petersburg High's Vikings being slated to play at Mathias while Moorefield High's Yellow Jackets will battle Franklin High on the latter's floor.

Romney Meets Alumni

Coach Dick McElwee's Romney High Pioneers will launch their campaign tonight by playing the Alumni. Parsons High undefeated in four starts, faces a worthy foe in the Kingwood Stags on the latter's floor; Terra Alta is scheduled to invade Thomas to play Emil Suder's quint, and Bruce Fisher's Bedford High Bisons will test Tyrone in a return game on the latter's floor. Bedford holds a 38-23 decision over Tyrone.



ROSE BOWL ACTION—This forward-lateral pass from Quarterback Ernie Case (No. 9 at right) to Burr Baldwin (38), UCLA's All-America end, who then lateraled to the Bruins' other end, Tom Fears (55, upper left), was good for 28 yards against Illinois in the Rose Bowl Game at Pasadena, Calif. The ball is in the air, just over the line of scrimmage. The underrated Illinois eleven stunned the crowd of 92,000 by smothering the Bruins, 45-14.

Frankie Crosetti Is Player-Coach

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Jan. 2 (AP) — Baldish Frankie Crosetti, who has been playing the infield for the New York Yankees since the Babe Ruth era, was rewarded for long and faithful service today by an appointment as player-coach under Manager Bucky Harris.

Joining Charley Dressen, a former Brooklyn Dodger, and holdover Johnny Schulte on the Yankee brain trust under Harris, the San Francisco born Italian indicated he planned to continue part time playing duty.

Although he played only 28 games last season, he was the regular shortstop during 1945, the last wartime season, and had played the position for the Yanks from 1932 through 1940 when Phil Rizzuto graduated to the big league from Kansas City.

The 36-year-old veteran of 15 previous big league seasons will report at St. Petersburg, Feb. 20 when the first squad of pitchers and catchers is due to start work at Miller Huggins Field. Infielders and outfielders will join the others, Feb. 28.

While this squad is drilling in Florida, another 30-man unit will be training in Puerto Rico, starting in mid-February. They will play a series of exhibitions in Venezuela and Havana before opening their St. Petersburg game schedule, March 12.

Kellett Has Gripe

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 2 (AP) — Basketball Coach Don Kellett of the University of Pennsylvania said today that cage rules could stand a going over.

"When a player inadvertently touches the basket but doesn't actually interfere with the ball going in, a field goal shouldn't be awarded," declared Kellett. "I'd leave it to the judgment of the referee."

Will Not Air Odds

DES MOINES, Jan. 2 (AP)—Jon Hackett, director of athletics for Radio Station KRNT here, said today the station no longer would mention betting odds or point odds on any sporting event.

Hackett said the move was taken in an attempt to reduce the amount of wagering on sports events.

Hogan Is Favored In $10,000 Open

Los Angeles Event Gets Under Way Today With $2,000 As Top Prize

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2 (AP)—Money-winning Ben Hogan holds the dubious honor of the golfer to beat when the 21st annual $10,000 Los Angeles Open gets underway tomorrow over the long Riviera County Club course.

First money this year is $2,000, and Hogan, who earned approximately $42,000 to lead the professionals of the nation last year, was generally picked to pocket the cash.

As usual, however, the field is tough, and includes Sam Snead, the 1945 Los Angeles winner, National Open Champion Lloyd Mangrum, Jimmy Demaret, Chick Harbert, Herman Barron and other familiar tournament names.

In Memoriam

In memory of Mrs. Ella May Myers, who died one year ago today, January 3, 1946.

One year ago today God called welcome home,
Dear wife and mother your suffering has ended,
Beautiful memories are all that is left
Of the one we loved and shall never forget.
Though you are gone you are not forgotten
By the ones who loved you best,
Oh how we miss you mother dear
No tongue can tell, but we hope to meet you
Some day in your Heavenly Home to dwell.

Sadly missed by HUSBAND & CHILDREN.

Opening Of New Congress To Be On Networks

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Opening of the new congress, the 80th. goes out via all networks on Friday. The broadcast is scheduled for 12:30 p. m., to continue 45 minutes or so, except 1 p. m. on CBS.

In addition to the broadcast, there will be a telecast for the first time of congress. It will be a "pool" arrangement with all operating stations in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, for a total of five, joining to make it possible via all of available network facilities. Incidentally this will be the first time, too, for all three New York telecasters to join in a single telecast, joining up their pickup apparatus into a common unit.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, Republican leader, has been scheduled for an NBC half-hour talk at 10:30 p. m. in connection with the opening. Bill Stern's 15-minute at 10:30 has been cancelled for the broadcast.

Unless there is some more of that last-minute changining, a box fight is going on ABC at 10 as supplied by the lightweights, Julio Mininez and Roman Alvarez.

Raymond Gram Swing does the last of his current ABC series at 7:15, he to return in February with a once a week-er instead of more frequent broadcasts.

MBS, in keeping with its ever-changing program lists, has put in Vera Holly and the D'Arcy quintet in place of Monica Lewis at 8:15. Also in the kiddies period it has eliminated the Seahound in favor of Adventure Parade, dramatic readings of childhood classic. The time si 4:30 for the east and 5:30 for the midwest.

WIFE PRESERVERS

To store celery so as to keep it fresh and crisp, wash it thoroughly and pack in a tightly covered jar in the refrigerator.

Bing Crosby again is top among film stars at the boxoffice. One guy who can "boo-boo-boo" his fans and make 'em like it.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Now Talk Fast

The American people are certainly geniuses at reducing language to its most basic elements. I don't know who started it all but I suspect the hard-boiled school of detective fiction had a good deal to do with it. In the movies, it has progressed to the point where it can't go much farther unless we take up sign language. The other night a columnist, fellow by the name of Robert Ruark, who works for what the late Damon Runyon used to refer to as the evening bladders, emerged from a gangster movie, complaining bitterly that he couldn't understand a damn thing that was going on.

John Crosby

"Unload him," he said, quoting directly from the movie. "Take it easy. Water over the dam. In the pantry. Five o'clock. Forget it." He ordered a scotch and soda in plain English and then resumed his complaint. "I guess I haven't seen enough movies lately. It seems to me they used to be easier to understand. You used to know who was in love with who because they kissed each other. Sometimes they even came right out with it and said so. 'I Love you.' Just like that.

"Now the guy and the girl just give each other these sidelong glances and you don't know what they're thinking. The things they say to each other don't seem to have any predicates. Lots of times the first indication I have that a guy is falling for a girl is when he socks her in the jaw.

He took a long drink from his scotch and soda. "Now you take this movie here. I didn't know who was against who. That girl, for instance. She was an eyeful all right, but what did she want, anyhow? What did she stand for—virtue or the other thing? It was easier in the old days when Pola Negri was around. You knew she was up to no good and the guy had better be careful or she'd get him in trouble.

"But those people tonight, I couldn't figure out what they're after. It doesn't stand to reason that a man would brush off a beautiful blue-eyed babe that way unless he had a reason. People just don't act logical in the movies any more. Everybody is motivated by these psychological inner compulsions but they never tell me what they are. Undertand I don't say I don't like it. I just don't understand it. Bartender, another scotch and soda."

Well, I've been brooding about Mr. Ruark's complaint and I've worked out, at least to my own satisfaction, what the trouble is. Hollywood, I think, is just going through a period of creative adolescence. It's a painful period, like all adolescence, but it won't last forever. The writers out there have just discovered that people are a lot more complicated than they'd imagined. In trying to hold the mirror up to nature, they're making everyone so cryptic they don't seem to make any sense. All light and shadow, as it were, and no substance.

The movies aren't the only ones, either. The cryptic phrase, the oblique meaning, the Never-Say-What-You-Mean-Unless-It's Unavoidable is also quite fashionable in radio plays, particularly in whodunits. Opening Of New Congress To Be On Networks

NEW YORK, Jan. 2—Opening of the new congress, the 80th. goes out via all networks on Friday. The broadcast is scheduled for 12:30 p. m., to continue 45 minutes or so, except 1 p. m. on CBS.

In addition to the broadcast, there will be a telecast for the first time of congress. It will be a "pool" arrangement with all operating stations in New York, Philadelphia and Washington, for a total of five, joining to make it possible via all of available network facilities. Incidentally this will be the first time, too, for all three New York telecasters to join in a single telecast, joining up their pickup apparatus into a common unit.

Sen. Robert A. Taft, Republican leader, has been scheduled for an NBC half-hour talk at 10:30 p. m. in connection with the opening. Bill Stern's 15-minute at 10:30 has been cancelled for the broadcast.

Unless there is some more of that last-minute changining, a box fight is going on ABC at 10 as supplied by the lightweights, Julio Mininez and Roman Alvarez.

Raymond Gram Swing does the last of his current ABC series at 7:15, he to return in February with a once a week-er instead of more frequent broadcasts.

MBS, in keeping with its ever-changing program lists, has put in Vera Holly and the D'Arcy quintet in place of Monica Lewis at 8:15. Also in the kiddies period it has eliminated the Seahound in favor of Adventure Parade, dramatic readings of childhood classic. The time si 4:30 for the east and 5:30 for the midwest.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

Now Talk Fast

The American people are certainly geniuses at reducing language to its most basic elements. I don't know who started it all but I suspect the hard-boiled school of detective fiction had a good deal to do with it. In the movies, it has progressed to the point where it can't go much farther unless we take up sign language. The other night a columnist, fellow by the name of Robert Ruark, who works for what the late Damon Runyon used to refer to as the evening bladders, emerged from a gangster movie, complaining bitterly that he couldn't understand a damn thing that was going on.

John Crosby

"Unload him," he said, quoting directly from the movie. "Take it easy. Water over the dam. In the pantry. Five o'clock. Forget it." He ordered a scotch and soda in plain English and then resumed his complaint. "I guess I haven't seen enough movies lately. It seems to me they used to be easier to understand. You used to know who was in love with who because they kissed each other. Sometimes they even came right out with it and said so. 'I Love you.' Just like that.

"Now the guy and the girl just give each other these sidelong glances and you don't know what they're thinking. The things they say to each other don't seem to have any predicates. Lots of times the first indication I have that a guy is falling for a girl is when he socks her in the jaw.

He took a long drink from his scotch and soda. "Now you take this movie here. I didn't know who was against who. That girl, for instance. She was an eyeful all right, but what did she want, anyhow? What did she stand for—virtue or the other thing? It was easier in the old days when Pola Negri was around. You knew she was up to no good and the guy had better be careful or she'd get him in trouble.

"But those people tonight, I couldn't figure out what they're after. It doesn't stand to reason that a man would brush off a beautiful blue-eyed babe that way unless he had a reason. People just don't act logical in the movies any more. Everybody is motivated by these psychological inner compulsions but they never tell me what they are. Undertand I don't say I don't like it. I just don't understand it. Bartender, another scotch and soda."

Well, I've been brooding about Mr. Ruark's complaint and I've worked out, at least to my own satisfaction, what the trouble is. Hollywood, I think, is just going through a period of creative adolescence. It's a painful period, like all adolescence, but it won't last forever. The writers out there have just discovered that people are a lot more complicated than they'd imagined. In trying to hold the mirror up to nature, they're making everyone so cryptic they don't seem to make any sense. All light and shadow, as it were, and no substance.

The movies aren't the only ones, either. The cryptic phrase, the oblique meaning, the Never-Say-What-You-Mean-Unless-It's Unavoidable is also quite fashionable in radio plays, particularly in whodunits. The other night for instance, I tuned in my old friend, Nick Charles, of "The Thin Man" and his beautiful wife, Nora, and I should like to present below, not a literal, but an impressionist version of the dialogue. If the fashion of the moment is to be cryptic, for heaven's sake let's be cryptic. If any of you can figure out who killed who in this play, send your answers and three box-tops to Dashiell Hammett in Hollywood, who more than anyone else is responsible for this crazy kind of talk.

Police Say 4 Men Admit Theft Of Slot Machines

Damaged Devices Found In West Va.; Legion Liquor Licensee Arrested On Gaming Charge

Four young men held in the City Jail have admitted they stole seven slot machines from the home of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, Tuesday morning, according to Lt. James E. Van and Detective Edwin Lilya, who said the machines, all badly damaged, were found yesterday morning in a ravine about three miles from Fort Ashby, W. Va.

Admission of the theft and recovery of the machines was followed yesterday afternoon by the arrest of Joseph Pradiska, liquor licensee at the Legion home, on a gaming charge.

Pradiska, taken into custody at 4:15 p. m. by Detective Lilya and Sgt. R. R. Johnston, posted bond of $100 on a hearing in Police Court this morning on the charge of maintaining slot machines.

Police identified the four young men who admitted stealing the machines Tuesday morning as Harry C. Jackson, his brother, Andrew Jackson, both of Necessity street; Virgil P. Glass, 1016 Gay street, and William Adams, Jr., Fort Ashby. They are to be questioned today in the office of the State's Attorney, Detective Lilya said.

Found Box Of Quarters

The Jacksons were arrested Tuesday morning after Carl T. Lowery, a brother-in-law, with whom they resided, informed police he found a metal box containing $115 in quarters buried in the coal pile. He told officers the two men arrived home about 7 a. m. after being out all night, and said they acted suspicious, police said.

On the morning of their arrest the Jacksons refused to talk, Lt. Van said, but made statements that night, saying there were four persons involved.

The officers were informed, however, that the fourth man's red-haired wife was an obstetrical patient in a local hospital, and Lt. Van said hospital records disclosed Adams's name and address.

Glass was arrested at a North Mechanic street restaurant at 1:12 a. m. yesterday by Officers P. M. Crabtree and C. C. Roby. Adams was taken into custody at his home at 9:30 a. m. yesterday by Lt. Van and Officer Crabtree.

Earlier yesterday morning, Lt. Van accompanied several members of Fort Cumberland Legion Post to the spot where they found the damaged machines, estimated at being worth in the neighborhood of $3,000. Police said the young men informed them where the machines could be found.

Lt. Van said the machines were found in a ravine along a dirt road three miles from Route 28 at the Fort Ashby bridge.

One Machine Not Opened

All of the machines were badly broken up and money they had contained was taken from six of them, according to Lt. Van and Detective Lilya. They added that the coin box in the seventh—a 10 cent machine—was not opened. Money was taken from one 50 cent machine, two quarter machines, one dime machine and two nickel machines.

The damaged machines were returned to the American Legion home here, Lt. Van said.

Police Investigate Series Of Robberies

The theft of a fur coat, valued at $75 and a wrist watch, was reported to police last night by two different persons.

Police said Mrs. Earnest Wartzack, 216 South Smallwood street, reported a fur coat stolen from the living room between 4 and 6 o'clock New Year's morning. She said she came home from a dance about 4 o'clock and laid the coat over a chair in the living room, before going upstairs.

The coat described as a full length, brown fur, was taken by someone who walked into the living room, police said. The door was open.

An employe of the bowling alley, said he could identify the youth who stood near the alley pit talking to the pin boy. When he laid a watch down before setting the pins up, the youth grabbed it and ran out the door, the employe said.

Police also are investigating a theft in the jewelry department of the L. Bernstein Furniture Company at 9 North Centre street, sometime Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

Detective Edwin R. Lilya said the store was probably entered through a window in the rear which had not been locked. The theft occurred prior to 3 a. m. Wednesday, Detective Lilya said, since there were no prints in the snow outside the window.

No estimate was made of the amount of jewelry taken, but police said they believe a large number of watches, rings and bracelets were carried away.

Times-News Holds Annual Party

The annual New Year's Day party of the Times-News paper held in the Times Alleganian Company building Wednesday afternon was attended by between 300 and 400 persons.

Employes and their guests were entertained by the Music Mixers, currently playing at the Cadillac Cocktail Lounge, during the party.

A roast pig luncheon that included dressing, mashed potatoes and other trimmings was served throughout the five hours of the party.

Demurrer Denied In Action To Have Divorce Set Aside

Mrs. Elizabeth Riley Asks Court To Declare Her Widow And Legal Heir

A demurrer in a suit filed by Mrs. Elizabeth Riley, Baltimore, who has asked the court to declare a divorce granted her late husband null and void was overruled today by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson.

Mrs. Riley asked the court to set aside a divorce granted William Riley, late of Cumberland, on the grounds that it was obtained by "fraud and deceit" and declare her a legal heir to his estate, valued at $20,000.

The demurrer, filed by William A. Gunter, counsel for the heirs mentioned in the last will and testament of Riley, declared that the divorce was granted in Mineral County, W. Va., and therefore any action to have it set aside must be taken in that county.

In their decision, the judges ruled that while the burden of proof rests, with Mrs. Riley, there can be no question that "under a proper showing of facts a foreign judgment (one granted out of this county) may be declared invalid" here.

The decision states "we have involved the right of a resident of Maryland to share in the estate of a deceased resident, which is being administered under the laws of Maryland. Therefore no good reason exists for requiring her to go to some other jurisdiction merely because her deceased husband selected it as setus for his divorce suit."

In her bill of complaint, Mrs. Riley, declared that her husband obtained the divorce in Mineral County April 21, 1936, after they had been married since August 21, 1908, but declared that she was never informed of the decree, and never was given an opportunity to protest.

The bill further states that Riley was not a resident of West Virginia, and therefore the decree is not legal. She also stated that Riley knew her address in Baltimore, and could "easily have informed her of the action."

Mrs. Riley said her husband deserted her in 1922 and moved to Cumberland where he lived until his death. She asks the court to declare her the widow of Riley and thus grant her the right to share in the $20,000 estate.

According to the bill, Riley listed his two sons, Albert W. Riley, and William T. Wiley, Jr., a brother, John H. Riley, and Guy D. O'Hara, as heir in his last will and testament.

Local Man Is Held For Carrying Gun

George Dever, 115 Federal street, who police said pulled a .32 caliber pistol on Officer James A. Brown, was arrested last night at 11:45 o'clock and is being held for carrying concealed weapons and drunkenness.

Officer Brown said he was informed Dever was in Y. W. King's Tavern, corner of Virginia and Laing avenues, and went in to get him, since police were searching for a man believed to be armed.

Brown said when he entered the tavern, Dever grabbed for the pistol, which he was carrying in his trousers belt. He aimed the gun at the officer and pulled the trigger, police said. Brown explained that there were only four shells in the five cylinder pistol, which accounts for the gun not going off.

When he was brought to police headquarters, Dever was suffering from a deep laceration on his forehead, which he received when he fell against a booth, Officer said.

Police said they have received several reports that a man who was carrying a pistol was hanging around the South End.

Dever will be given a hearing this morning in Police Court.

County Board Must Approve All Purchases

County personnel authorized to purchase supplies and equipment must submit purchase orders to the Board of County Commissioners, effective January 1, Board Clerk James Stevenson said yesterday.

The new forms are numbered and show what the purchaser plans to buy, who from, the amount and the cost. The forms will be made in triplicate.

After the board approves the proposed purchase and the form is signed by one county commissioner, Stevenson explained.

The move was interpreted as being part of a plan to put the county on a more business-like basis with all purchases being scrutinized and approved by the central authority.

Officials of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, said last night that the first of two meetings held to determine what action might be taken concerning the deadlock in wage negotiations at the Celanese plant was "well attended" but declined to disclose action taken until after this morning's meeting.

William Boyd Coleman, union president, said the union hall was "packed to the street" last night.

NEW YEAR'S BABY—The seven pound, seven ounce baby girl lying in the arms of her mother, Mrs. Russell Coakley, 525 Eastern avenue, was the first baby born in this city in 1947, making her appearance in Allegany Hospital Wednesday at 1:35 a. m. Mrs. Coakley, the former Miss Mildred Evans, was admitted to the hospital Wednesday at 12:45 a. m., 50 minutes before the baby was born. Her husband is a Baltimore and Ohio pipefitter. The Coakley's have not fully decided upon a name for the baby but Mrs. Coakley said last night that the baby may be named Pauline. Mrs. Coakley has one other child, Robert, 9, by a former marriage. The honor of being the parents of the second child of the new year went to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waltman Ellerslie, when a daughter was born to the couple at 1:45 a. m. Tax Collector Ignores Order To Move Office

Radcliffe Declares He Will Keep Office In Court House

Lucian C. Radcliffe, much harrased county tax collector, locked the door to his office in the Court House yesterday and informed all interested persons "I'm staying right here."

If the newly elected county Commissioners can see fit to have $150,000 bond which Radcliffe is under, removed he "will gladly comply" with a formal notice received from them to quit his office, he declared.

Radcliffe's statement that he is staying in his present quarters was issued after verbal attempts were made to move the tax collecting office, along with money and books, into the basement of the court house where the Board of Election supervisors meet.

Three reasons were given by the tax collector, why the basement office would be unsuitable for his work. First, he explained, the tax records would be endangered, since there are no safes or other convenient place to store them. Second, the basement isn't properly heated and three, the quarters would not be suitable for woman employes of the tax office.

Collections are in very good shape, Radcliffe asserted, with only $50,000 yet to be collected on the 1946 taxes. Taxes for 1944 and 1945 are now all collected and the books will be cleared today, he said.

Radcliffe admitted his office has much to do between now and April 1, and expressed the opinion that the commissioners should show a more cooperative attitude since it is to their interest to have the taxes collected.

Between now and April, Radcliffe plans to collect the $50,000 in outstanding taxes and also has 12,000 automobile registrations to take care of, in addition to the routine work of clearing approximately 25 deeds a day against old taxation, and other routine office work. All deeds have to be cleared with the collector's office before they can be recorded.

Ready To Cooperate

"I would like to state that I have no ill feeling whatsoever against the new collector and am willing to cooperate with him in any way possible, "Radcliffe said. My assistant, Alban C. Thompson, invited the new collector to come here at any time and we will be willing to assist him in any way possible. However, it is my responsibility to see to it that taxes are collected until April 1, and I intend to stay on the job and take care of my work."

Radcliffe said that to move his records to any other location considered unsafe not only means that he would incur financial risk personally, but also would endanger tax money paid by Allegany county citizens.

William A. Strother, of Cumberland, the new tax collector, has not as yet put in an appearance, Radcliffe said yesterday—adding again that he is willing to assist and advise him in any way possible.

Members Absent

No members of the Board of County Commissioners were present in the Court House this morning, and Clerk James Stevenson said he had not been given any additional instructions in regard to the vacate order of the board.

Radcliffe said he has been advised it is his duty to remain in the quarters specifically provided by law for the tax collector during his term of office.

"I intend to do that," Radcliffe said, "and I will not leave until the court orders me to do so."

Road Conditions Reported Better

Although road conditions were reported improved last night, State Police were continuing to advise the use of chains, and the highway east of Hancock was said to be a solid sheet of ice.

The State Roads Commission office said that comparatively high temperatures in Garrett county, where the mercury reached the low 50's yesterday afternoon, helped to melt the slush and clear roads. State highways in Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties were reported "95 per cent bare" late last night.

Two trucks remained out during the night, checking state highways after the area's second heavy snowfall of the winter on New Year's Day. The snow reached a depth of five inches in some parts of Allegany county, with the fall here being more than three and a half inches. Buses and passenger trains were reported running on schedule.

Thirteen trucks in Allegany and 10 in Garrett county worked on state roads throughout the day yesterday, with 21 trucks and one tractor engaged in clearing four inches of snow in Washington county and six inches in Frederick county.

Six trucks of the Street Department were busy cindering Cumberland streets yesterday, and the grader remained out last night. Crews were clearing packed snow from streets in the business section.

The temperature at Deal, Pa., was 36 late last night, with three inches of snow and cloudy weather. At Thomas, W. Va., the weather was cloudy but there was no snow. In Cumberland the mercury stood at 34 degrees, and it was cloudy.

Occasional rain and milder weather was forecast for today.

Auto Dealers Plan Ways To Curb Black Market

Plans are being formulated by approximately a dozen local firms affiliated with the Cumberland branch of the National Automobile Trade Association to deliver new cars only to persons they believe will not resell them for profit.

Any concerted program decided upon will be taken up after the group's next meeting early this month, according to Frederick W. Eller, president of the Cumberland branch of the NATA.

Eller said he is inclined to believe that there has been less black marketing of machines in Cumberland than in many other localities, and that when such black marketing exists it has been in connection with some of the higher-priced automobiles.

Local Youth Is Fatally Injured In Car Collision

Services For Charles Grant Hauger Will Be Held Tomorrow

Funeral services for Charles Grant Hauger, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward N. Hauger, 112 North Cedar street, who was fatally injured in a head-on automobile collision at the foot of Red Hill on Route 40 Wednesday about 3:25 a. m., will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the George Funeral Home.

Rev. Louis H. Ewald, rector of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, will officiate and will be assisted by Rev. Arthur L. Hunter, pastor of Grace Methodist Church. Interment will be in Hillcrest Cemetery.

Hauger, who was home from Fork Union, Va., Military Academy, died Wednesday at 7:20 p. m. in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, of head and internal injuries after failing to regain consciousness.

The two-car crash also caused critical injuries to a Valley road youth riding in the Hauger car while one of the occupants of the other vehicle was admitted and another treated in Miners Hospital.

Is Critically Hurt

Hauger's cousin, Charles Fannon Webreck, 19, Valley road, remained in a critical condition in Allegany Hospital where he was admitted suffering from internal injuries and a possible fracture of the skull. His condition was slightly improved last night and attaches said he is conscious at times.

Trooper William McElfish, who investigated, said both youths were riding in a coupe headed toward this city which collided with a westbound sedan operated by James O. Plummer, 30 Hill street, Frostburg.

Plummer's wife, Mrs. Eva May Plummer, 19, was treated in Allegany for lacerations on the upper left leg and abrasions of the right hand and Mrs. Annie Elizabeth Ryan, Eckhart, riding with them, was admitted to Miners Hospital with a fractured knee and cuts about the face and body. Her condition was not considered serious yesterday.

State police said both Hauger and Webreck were thrown clear of the vehicle as the left side of the car in which they were riding struck the front of Plummer's car and was turned completely around.

Hauger was a senior at the Virginia military school and was expected to become a lieutenant upon his graduation in June.

No Charges Placed

Trooper McElfish reported after conferring with Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney, that no charges have been placed against Plummer and that Webreck will be questioned when he regains consciousness.

The Hauger youth's father, a well known local jeweler, told Trooper McElfish he was certain that his son was driving when the accident occurred. State police said the highway was covered with snow and that neither vehicle had chains.

Young Hauger was a member of Holy Cross Episcopal Church and of the DeMolay.

Training Course For Foodhandlers Is Scheduled Here Next Week

Classes Will Be Held In City Hall Auditorium January 7-10

Plans are being made by the Cumberland Health Department to hold a second training course in restaurant sanitation for all food handlers, owners and managers of eating places in Cumberland, and county communities, next week in the City Hall auditorium.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, announced at a meeting yesterday afternoon with representatives of the city, Chamber of Commerce, Board of Education and Memorial Hospital that the course will be given in a series of two and three classes.

Schedule Listed

Tuesday and Wednesday, January 7 and 8, 7:30 to 9:30 p. m., for owners and managers. Thursday January 9, 3 to 4:30 p. m. and 7:30 to 9 p. m., for employers, employes and all food handlers. Friday, January 10, 19:30 a. m. to noon and 2:30 to 4 p. m., for employers, employes, cafeteria workers and all food handlers.

The classes will be open to operators, managers and employes of restaurants, tearooms, industrial cafeterias, bars, cocktail lounges, soda fountains and school lunchrooms.

This will be the second training course for food handlers since an ordinance was passed in February, 1945, regulating eating and drinking establishments in Cumberland. The first, held the following October, was attended by 186 persons, and Dowling estimated that the course next week will be attended by over 300 persons.

Stating that one of the chief promlebs is inefficient help, Dowling estimated that since the first training course was held for food handlers, there has been an average turnover of three times in restaurant workers in the city, necessitating another course.

He stated that out of 200 eating places recently inspected in Cumberland, only 18 could be granted "Grade A" placards under the terms of the 1945 ordinance.

Pledge Co-operation

Mayor Thomas S. Post and H. W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, said that they are willing to extend all assistance necessary to making the training course a success.

Although the course is primarily for Cumberland food handlers, owners and employes of eating places anywhere in the county are invited to attend, Dowling said. He added that the program will also be open to student nurses from both Allegany and Memorial Hospitals.

The first class will consist of a study of bacteria and their importance to the food handler. Microscopic slides of bacteria will be shown and discussions on spreading and controlling of diseases will be given.

The second class will deal with the proper methods of dishwashing and the danger of faulty methods, as well as insect and rodent control.

The third class will be devoted to discussions of the proper way of storing and serving food as well as the personal hygiene of employes.

Films To Be Shown

Films provided by the United States Public Health Service will be shown. The list of lecturers will be announced later, Dowling said.

William P. Cooper, director of the county school lunch program, who attended the meeting with Mrs. Glady M. Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias for county schools, said he will ask all school cafeteria employes to attend the training course. Cafeteria workers at the Kelly and Celanese plants will also be asked to participate.

Others attending the meeting at the Health Department office were Miss Irene M. Toth, chief dietitian at Memorial Hospital, and her assistant, Mrs. Ruby Adams; Dr. Winter R. Frantz, assistant city and county health officer; and William R. E. King, restaurant inspector for the Health Department here.

Rubber Workers To Call Strike Fund Referendum

Members of Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, last night went along with a recommendation of the union's executive board for a referendum vote on a special 50 cent monthly assessment for a strike and defense fund, A. E. Johnson, president, reported.

Johnson said the date for the referendum will be decided later.

The union will enter negotiation with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company this afternoon on a wage increase. The meeting will open actual wage talks but union officials said the union formally presented a request for a 26 cent hourly increase in November and asked that the boost, in line with the "Big Four" demands, would be retroactive to November 1, 1946.

Ex-Convict Admits Being Implicated In Two Holdups

Schemminger Says He Aided Logue In Norris And Kern Robberies

Completely changing his previous statements in which he had denied any connection in armed robberies of the Lloyd Norris grocery, 400 Pennsylvania avenue, this city, and the Howard Kerns grocery, Westernport, last month, Albert Schemminger, 39-year-old McCoole ex-convict, admitted in the State's Attorney's office yesterday afternoon that he was involved with Robert Logue, 42, Short Gap, W. Va., in both crimes.

Schemminger, who previously declared Logue crazy when the latter implicated him in the robberies, yesterday implicated a third party, identified only as "Slim," a resident of Meyersdale, Pa., in the Norris burglary.

Both Logue and Schemminger are being held in the county jail under bond of $5,000 for grand jury action in connection with the two armed holdups.

Met In Pool Room

Schemminger told County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle yesterday afternoon that he met Logue in a pool room in Keyser, W. Va., on Saturday, December 14, the day after the latter had been released from Moundsville, W. Va., penitentiary. Schemminger also had been a prisoner at Moundsville but was released last April.

"He stopped at the pinball machine and turned around and looked right at me. We recognized each other," Schemminger said. "I asked him when he got out and he said 'yesterday'. . . He asked me if I knew of anything we could get easy. I told him 'No, I haven't been looking for anything.' He told me he got $2 off Pat Rankin (Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney of Mineral County, W. Va.) and that he needed some more money. I told him that I didn't know where he could get it. He said, 'Let's go to Cumberland.'"

Schemminger said he tried to discourage Logue from driving to Cumberland and said he did not want to "get in any more trouble."

He added, however, that they left the place and that a "tall fellow named 'Slim' followed us out." All three of them got into an automobile, "Slim" driving, and came to Cumberland, stopping at a Baltimore street restaurant here for a cup of coffee, Schemminger said.

Had Glass Of Beer

Leaving the restaurant, they drove to Virginia avenue and stopped near Fourth street, according to the statement. Schemminger said he and Logue got out of the car, had a glass of beer and then walked along the street.

When they came to Norris's store Logue said "This is the one," Schemminger stated. He added that they returned to the car and had "Slim" drive it to within half a block of the grocery where Schemminger and Logue got out.

After the pair entered the store they waited a few minutes while a "couple" of customers were waited on, Schemminger said, and then "Logue walked over to the counter and said something to Mr. Norris and then put the gun on him. At that time I pulled out the blackjack which I had in my possession."

Schemminger said Norris handed him his money on Logue's demand and added that he went behind the counter and took other money from a cigar box used as a cash box. He said he did not bother with the change. After Logue asked for Norris's billfold the latter handed it to Schemminger, he said, and he extracted $5 from it and dropped on the floor.

Schemminger said he started to look through the pocketbook of a customer, Mrs. James Newlin, Fifth

Two Children Hurt In Sled Mishaps

A 10-year-old local girl was admitted and another treated in Memorial Hospital yesterday for injuries suffered when they collided with parked cars while sled riding yesterday. A Hyndman, Pa., youth was admitted and a Springfield, W. Va., woman treated in the same hospital for injuries suffered in automobile accidents yesterday.

The girl, Virginia Rice, daughter of Capt. and Mrs. Melvin Rice, 443 Goethe street, was admitted to Memorial at 3 p. m. for treatment of a fracture of the left leg above the knee. Her condition was reported satisfactory.

The girl's mother said Virginia was injured when the sled she was riding on Goethe street struck a bare spot, went out of control and struck a car parked on the wrong side of the street at 12:30 p. m.

The accident may delay plans for the family to visit the girl's father, who is serving in Munich, Germany, with the army transportation corps. Capt. Rice entered service with old Company G. Mrs. Rice, with Virginia and her two sisters, planned to go to Germany in March.

Richard Gilpin, 10-year-old son of Howard Gilpin, B. and O. worker, 100 East First street, was treated in the same hospital yesterday at 2:20 p. m. for a fracture of the right wrist. Attaches were told he was injured when he ran against a parked car while sledding on Oak street.

Burdett Brown, 7, 634 Baker street, was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday at 9:30 a. m. after he ran a splinter into his left foot. Attaches said he was able to leave the hospital after the object was cut out.

Police Say 4 Men Admit Theft Of Slot Machines

Damaged Devices Found In West Va.; Legion Liquor Licensee Arrested On Gaming Charge

Four young men held in the City Jail have admitted they stole seven slot machines from the home of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, Tuesday morning, according to Lt. James E. Van and Detective Edwin Lilya, who said the machines, all badly damaged, were found yesterday morning in a ravine about three miles from Fort Ashby, W. Va.

Admission of the theft and recovery of the machines was followed yesterday afternoon by the arrest of Joseph Fradiska, liquor licensee at the Legion home, on a gaming charge.

Fradiska, taken into custody at 4:15 p. m. by Detective Lilya and Sgt. R. R. Johnston, posted bond of $100 on a hearing in Police Court this morning on the charge of maintaining slot machines.

Police identified the four young men who admitted stealing the machines Tuesday morning as Harry C. Jackson, his brother, Andrew Jackson, both of Necessity street; Virgil P. Glass, 1016 Gay street, and William Adams, Jr., Fort Ashby. They are to be questioned today in the office of the State's Attorney, Detective Lilya said.

Found Box Of Quarters

The Jacksons were arrested Tuesday morning after Carl T. Lowery, a brother-in-law, with whom they resided, informed police he found a metal box containing $115 in quarters buried in the coal pile. He told officers the two men arrived home about 7 a. m. after being out all night, and said they acted suspicious, police said.

On the morning of their arrest the Jacksons refused to talk, Lt. Van said, but made statements that night, saying there were four persons involved.

One of the Jacksons named Glass as being implicated, Lt. Van and Detective Lilya said, but was unable to give the name of the fourth man.

The officers were informed, however, that the fourth man's red-haired wife was an obstetrical patient in a local hospital, and Lt. Van said hospital records disclosed Adams's name and address.

Glass was arrested at a North Mechanic street restaurant at 1:12 a. m. yesterday by Officers P. M. Crabtree and C. C. Roby. Adams was taken into custody at his home at 9:30 a. m. yesterday by Lt. Van and Officer Crabtree.

Earlier yesterday morning, Lt. Van accompanied several members of Fort Cumberland Legion Post to the spot where they found the damaged machines, estimated at being worth in the neighborhood of $3,000. Police said the young men informed them where the machines could be found.

Lt. Van said the machines were found in a ravine along a dirt road three miles from Route 28 at the Fort Ashby bridge.

One Machine Not Opened

All of the machines were badly broken up and money they had contained was taken from six of them, according to Lt. Van and Detective Lilya. They added that the coin box in the seventh—a 10 cent machine—was not opened. Money was taken from one 50 cent machine, two quarter machines, one dime machine and two nickel machines.

The damaged machines were returned to the American Legion home here, Lt. Van said.

Police Investigate Series Of Robberies

The theft of a fur coat, valued at $75 and a wrist watch, was reported to police last night by two different persons.

Police said Mrs. Earnest Wartzack, 216 South Smallwood street, reported a fur coat stolen from the living room between 4 and 6 o'clock New Year's morning. She said she came home from a dance about 4 o'clock and laid the coat over a chair in the living room, before going upstairs.

The coat described as a full length, brown fur, was taken by someone who walked into the living room, police said. The door was open.

A pin boy at the Savoy bowling alley reported a wrist watch stolen by a youth who he was talking with last night about 7 o'clock.

An employe of the bowling alley, said he could identify the youth who stood near the alley pit talking to the pin boy. When he laid a watch down before setting the pins up, the youth grabbed it and ran out the door, the employe said.

Police also are investigating a theft in the jewelry department of the L. Bernstein Furniture Company at 9 North Centre street, sometime Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

Detective Edwin R. Lilya said the store was probably entered through a window in the rear which had not been locked. The theft occurred prior to 3 a. m. Wednesday, Detective Lilya said, since there were no prints in the snow outside the window.

No estimate was made of the amount of jewelry taken, but police said they believe a large number of watches, rings and bracelets were carried away.

Demurrer Denied In Action To Have Divorce Set Aside

Mrs. Elizabeth Riley Asks Court To Declare Her Widow And Legal Heir

A demurrer in a suit filed by Mrs. Elizabeth Riley, Baltimore, who has asked the court to declare a divorce granted her late husband null and void was overruled today by Chief Judge William A. Huster and Associate Judge George Henderson.

Mrs. Riley asked the court to set aside a divorce granted William Riley, late of Cumberland, on the grounds that it was obtained by "fraud and deceit" and declare her a legal heir to his estate, valued at $20,000.

The demurrer, filed by William A. Gunter, counsel for the heirs mentioned in the last will and testament of Riley, declared that the divorce was granted in Mineral County, W. Va., and therefore any action to have it set aside must be taken in that county.

In their decision, the judges ruled that while the burden of proof rests, with Mrs. Riley, there can be no question that "under a proper showing of facts a foreign judgment (one granted out of this county) may be declared invalid" here.

The decision states "we have involved the right of a resident of Maryland to share in the estate of a deceased resident, which is being administered under the laws of Maryland. Therefore no good reason exists for requiring her to go to some other jurisdiction merely because her deceased husband selected it as setus for his divorce suit."

In her bill of complaint, Mrs. Riley, declared that her husband obtained the divorce in Mineral County April 21, 1936, after they had been married since August 21, 1908, but declared that she was never informed of the decree, and never was given an opportunity to protest.

The bill further states that Riley was not a resident of West Virginia, and therefore the decree is not legal. She also stated that Riley knew her address in Baltimore, and could "easily have informed her of the action."

Mrs. Riley said her husband deserted her in 1922 and moved to Cumberland where he lived until his death. She asks the court to declare her the widow of Riley and thus grant her the right to share in the $20,000 estate.

According to the bill, Riley listed his two sons, Albert W. Riley, and William T. Wiley, Jr., a brother, John H. Riley, and Guy D. O'Hara, as heir in his last will and testament.

All are defendants in the action.

Local Man Is Held For Carrying Gun

George Dever, 115 Federal street, who police said pulled a .22 caliber pistol on Officer James A. Brown, was arrested last night at 11:45 o'clock and is being held for carrying concealed weapons and drunkenness.

Officer Brown said he was informed Dever was in Y. W. King's Tavern, corner of Virginia and Laing avenues, and went in to get him, since police were searching for a man believed to be armed.

Brown said when he entered the tavern, Dever grabbed for the pistol, which he was carrying in his trousers belt. He aimed the gun at the officer and pulled the trigger, police said. Brown explained that there were only four shells in the five cylinder pistol, which accounts for the gun not going off.

When he was brought to police headquarters, Dever was suffering from a deep laceration on his forehead, which he received when he fell against a booth, Officer said.

Police said they have received several reports that a man who was carrying a pistol was hanging around the South End.

Dever will be given a hearing this morning in Police Court.

County Board Must Approve All Purchases

County personnel authorized to purchase supplies and equipment must submit purchase orders to the Board of County Commissioners, effective January 1, Board Clerk James Stevenson said yesterday.

The new forms are numbered and show what the purchaser plans to buy, who from, the amount and the cost. The forms will be made in triplicate.

After the board approves the proposed purchase and the form is signed by one county commissioner, Stevenson explained.

The move was interpreted as being part of a plan to put the county on a more business-like basis with all purchases being scrutinized and approved by the central authority.

Textile Workers Pack Strike Action Meeting

Officials of Local 1674, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, said last night that the first of two meetings held to determine what action might be taken concerning the deadlock in wage negotiations at the Celanese plant was "well attended" but declined to disclose action taken until after this morning's meeting.

William Boyd Coleman, union president, said the union hall was "packed to the street" last night.

NEW YEAR'S BABY—The seven pound, seven ounce baby girl lying in the arms of her mother, Mrs. Russell Coakley, 535 Eastern avenue, was the first baby born in this city in 1947, making her appearance in Allegany Hospital Wednesday at 1:35 a. m. Mrs. Coakley, the former Miss Mildred Evans, was admitted to the hospital Wednesday at 12:45 a. m., 50 minutes before the baby was born. Her husband is a Baltimore and Ohio pipefitter. The Coakley's have not fully decided upon a name for the baby but Mrs. Coakley said last night that the baby may be named Pauline. Mrs. Coakley has one other child, Robert, 9, by a former marriage. The honor of being the parents of the second child of the new year went to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waltman Ellerslie, when a daughter was born to the couple at 1:45 a. m. The first boy of the year was born in the same hospital Wednesday at noon to Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Nee, Bedford Valley, Pa.

Tax Collector Ignores Order To Move Office

Radcliffe Declares He Will Keep Office In Court House

Lucian C. Radcliffe, much harrased county tax collector, locked the door to his office in the Court House yesterday and informed all interested persons "I'm staying right here."

If the newly elected county Commissioners can see fit to have $150,000 bond which Radcliffe is under, removed he "will gladly comply" with a formal notice received from them to quit his office, he declared.

Radcliffe's statement that he is staying in his present quarters was issued after verbal attempts were made to move the tax collecting office, along with money and books, into the basement of the court house where the Board of Election supervisors meet.

Three reasons were given by the tax collector, why the basement office would be unsuitable for his work. First, he explained, the tax records would be endangered, since there are no safes or other convenient place to store them. Second, the basement isn't properly heated and three, the quarters would not be suitable for woman employes of the tax office.

Collections are in very good shape, Radcliffe asserted, with only $50,000 yet to be collected on the 1946 taxes. Taxes for 1944 and 1945 are now all collected and the books will be cleared today, he said.

Radcliffe admitted his office has much to do between now and April 1, and expressed the opinion that the commissioners should show a more cooperative attitude since it is to their interest to have the taxes collected.

Between now and April, Radcliffe plans to collect the $50,000 in outstanding taxes and also has 12,000 automobile registrations to take care of, in addition to the routine work of clearing approximately 25 deeds a day against old taxation, and other routine office work. All deeds have to be cleared with the collector's office before they can be recorded.

Ready To Cooperate

"I would like to state that I have no ill feeling whatsoever against the new collector and am willing to cooperate with him in any way possible, "Radcliffe said. My assistant, Alban C. Thompson, invited the new collector to come here at any time and we will be willing to assist him in any way possible. However, it is my responsibility to see to it that taxes are collected until April 1, and I intend to stay on the job and take care of my work."

Radcliffe said that to move his records to any other location considered unsafe not only means that he would incur financial risk personally, but also would endanger tax money paid by Allegany county citizens.

William A. Strother, of Cumberland, the new tax collector, has not as yet put in an appearance, Radcliffe said yesterday—adding again that he is willing to assist and advise him in any way possible.

Members Absent

No members of the Board of County Commissioners were present in the Court House this morning, and Clerk James Stevenson said he had not been given any additional instructions in regard to the vacate order of the board.

Radcliffe said he has been advised it is his duty to remain in the quarters specifically provided by law for the tax collector during his term of office.

"I intend to do that," Radcliffe said, "and I will not leave until the court orders me to do so."

Road Conditions Reported Better

Although road conditions were reported improved last night, State Police were continuing to advise the use of chains, and the highway east of Hancock was said to be a solid sheet of ice.

The State Roads Commission office said that comparatively high temperatures in Garrett county, where the mercury reached the low 50's yesterday afternoon, helped to melt the slush and clear roads. State highways in Allegany, Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties were reported "95 per cent bare" late last night.

Two trucks remained out during the night, checking state highways after the area's second heavy snowfall of the winter on New Year's Day. The snow reached a depth of five inches in some parts of Allegany county, with the fall here being more than three and a half inches. Buses and passenger trains were reported running on schedule.

Thirteen trucks in Allegany and 10 in Garrett county worked on state roads throughout the day yesterday, with 21 trucks and one tractor engaged in clearing four inches of snow in Washington county and six inches in Frederick county.

Six trucks of the Street Department were busy cindering Cumberland streets yesterday, and the grader remained out last night. Crews were clearing packed snow from streets in the business section.

The temperature at Deal, Pa., was 36 late last night, with three inches of snow and cloudy weather. At Thomas, W. Va., the weather was cloudy but there was no snow. In Cumberland the mercury stood at 34 degrees, and it was cloudy.

Occasional rain and milder weather was forecast for today.

Auto Dealers Plan Ways To Curb Black Market

Plans are being formulated by approximately a dozen local firms affiliated with the Cumberland branch of the National Automobile Trade Association to deliver new cars only to persons they believe will not resell them for profit.

The move is part of a national drive by reputable automobile agencies throughout the nation to curb a black market in 1946 cars.

Any concerted program decided upon will be taken up after the group's next meeting early this month, according to Frederick W. Eiler, president of the Cumberland branch of the NATA.

Eiler said he is inclined to believe that there has been less black marketing of machines in Cumberland than in many other localities, and that when such black marketing exists it has been in connection with some of the higher-priced automobiles.

Local Youth Is Fatally Injured In Car Collision

Services For Charles Grant Hauger Will Be Held Tomorrow

Funeral services for Charles Grant Hauger, 18-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ward N. Hauger, 112 North Cedar street, who was fatally injured in a head-on automobile collision at the foot of Red Hill on Route 40 Wednesday about 3:25 a. m., will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the George Funeral Home.

Rev. Louis H. Ewald, rector of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, will officiate and will be assisted by Rev. Arthur L. Hunter, pastor of Grace Methodist Church. Interment will be in Hillcrest Cemetery.

Hauger, who was home from Fork Union, Va., Military Academy, died Wednesday at 7:20 p. m. in Miners Hospital, Frostburg, of head and internal injuries after failing to regain consciousness.

The two-car crash also caused critical injuries to a Valley road youth riding in the Hauger car while one of the occupants of the other vehicle was admitted and another treated in Miners Hospital.

Is Critically Hurt

Hauger's cousin, Charles Fannon Webreck, 19, Valley road, remained in a critical condition in Allegany Hospital where he was admitted suffering from internal injuries and a possible fracture of the skull. His condition was slightly improved last night and attaches said he is conscious at times.

Trooper William McElfish, who investigated, said both youths were riding in a coupe headed toward this city which collided with a westbound sedan operated by James O. Plummer, 30 Hill street, Frostburg.

Plummer's wife, Mrs. Eva May Plummer, 19, was treated in Allegany for lacerations on the upper left leg and abrasions of the right hand and Mrs. Annie Elizabeth Ryan, Eckhart, riding with them, was admitted to Miners Hospital with a fractured knee and cuts about the face and body. Her condition was not considered serious yesterday.

State police said both Hauger and Webreck were thrown clear of the vehicle as the left side of the car in which they were riding struck the front of Plummer's car and was turned completely around.

The youths, state police said, attended a dance here with Hauger's parents before driving to another dance at the Clary Club to greet friends.

Hauger was a senior at the Virginia military school and was expected to become a lieutenant upon his graduation in June.

No Charges Placed

Trooper McElfish reported after conferring with Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney, that no charges have been placed against Plummer and that Webreck will be questioned when he regains consciousness.

The Hauger youth's father, a well known local jeweler, told Trooper McElfish he was certain that his son was driving when the accident occurred. State police said the highway was covered with snow and that neither vehicle had chains.

Young Hauger was a member of Holy Cross Episcopal Church and of the DeMolay.

Training Course For Foodhandlers Is Scheduled Here Next Week

Classes Will Be Held In City Hall Auditorium January 7-10

Plans are being made by the Cumberland Health Department to hold a second training course in restaurant sanitation for all food handlers, owners and managers of eating places in Cumberlapd, and county communities, next week in the City Hall auditorium.

J. Byron Dowling, state sanitarian, announced at a meeting yesterday afternoon with representatives of the city, Chamber of Commerce, Board of Education and Memorial Hospital that the course will be given in a series of two and three classes.

Schedule Listed

Tuesday and Wednesday, January 7 and 8, 7:30 to 9:30 p. m., for owners and managers. Thursday January 9, 3 to 4:30 p. m. and 7:30 to 9 p. m., for employers, employes and all food handlers. Friday, January 10, 19:30 a. m. to noon and 2:30 to 4 p. m., for employers, employes, cafeteria workers and all food handlers.

The classes will be open to operators, managers and employes of restaurants, tearooms, industrial cafeterias, bars, cocktail lounges, soda fountains and school lunchrooms.

This will be the second training course for food handlers since an ordinance was passed in February, 1945, regulating eating and drinking establishments in Cumberland. The first, held the following October, was attended by 186 persons, and Dowling estimated that the course next week will be attended by over 300 persons.

Stating that one of the chief promlebs is inefficient help, Dowling estimated that since the first training course was held for food handlers, there has been an average turnover of three times in restaurant workers in the city, necessitating another course.

He stated that out of 200 eating places recently inspected in Cumberland, only 18 could be granted "Grade A" placards under the terms of the 1945 ordinance.

Pledge Co-operation

Mayor Thomas S. Post and H. W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, said that they are willing to extend all assistance necessary to making the training course a success.

Although the course is primarily for Cumberland food handlers, owners and employes of eating places anywhere in the county are invited to attend, Dowling said. He added that the program will also be open to student nurses from both Allegany and Memorial Hospitals.

The first class will consist of a study of bacteria and their importance to the food handler. Microscopic alides of bacteria will be shown and discussions on spreading and controlling of diseases will be given.

The second class will deal with the proper methods of dishwashing and the danger of faulty methods, as well as insect and rodent control.

The third class will be devoted to discussions of the proper way of storing and serving food as well as the personal hygiene of employes.

Films To Be Shown

Films provided by the United States Public Health Service will be shown. The list of lecturers will be announced later, Dowling said.

William P. Cooper, director of the county school lunch program, who attended the meeting with Mrs. Glady M. Eaton, supervisor of cafeterias for county schools, said he will ask all school cafeteria employes to attend the training course. Cafeteria workers at the Kelly and Celanese plants will also be asked to participate.

Others attending the meeting at the Health Department office were Miss Irene M. Toth, chief dietitian at Memorial Hospital, and her assistant, Mrs. Ruby Adams; Dr. Winter R. Frantz, assistant city and county health officer; and William R. E. King, restaurant inspector for the Health Department here.

Johnson said the date for the referendum will be decided later.

The union will enter negotiation with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company this afternoon on a wage increase. The meeting will open actual wage talks but union officials said the union formally presented a request for a 26 cent hourly increase in November and asked that the boost, in line with the "Big Four" demands, would be retroactive to November 1, 1946.

Ex-Convict Admits Being Implicated In Two Holdups

Schemminger Says He Aided Logue In Norris And Kern Robberies

Completely changing his previous statements in which he had denied any connection in armed robberies of the Lloyd Norris grocery, 400 Pennsylvania avenue, this city, and the Howard Kerns grocery, Westernport, last month, Albert Schemminger, 39-year-old McCoole ex-convict, admitted in the State's Attorney's office yesterday afternoon that he was involved with Robert Logue, 42, Short Gap, W. Va., in both crimes.

Schemminger, who previously declared Logue crazy when the latter implicated him in the robberies, yesterday implicated a third party, identified only as "Slim," a resident of Meyersdale, Pa., in the Norris burglary.

Both Logue and Schemminger are being held in the county jail under bond of $5,000 for grand jury action in connection with the two armed holdups.

Met In Pool Room

Schemminger told County Investigator Terrence J. Boyle yesterday afternoon that he met Logue in a pool room in Keyser, W. Va., on Saturday, December 14, the day after the latter had been released from Moundsville, W. Va., penitentiary. Schemminger also had been a prisoner at Moundsville but was released last April.

"He stopped at the pinball machine and turned around and looked right at me. We recognized each other," Schemminger said. "I asked him when he got out and he said 'yesterday'. . . He asked me if I knew of anything we could get easy. I told him 'No, I haven't been looking for anything.' He told me he got $2 off Pat Rankin (Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney of Mineral County, W. Va.) and that he needed some more money. I told him that I didn't know where he could get it. He said, 'Let's go to Cumberland.'"

Schemminger said he tried to discourage Logue from driving to Cumberland and said he did not want to "get in any more trouble."

He added, however, that they left the place and that a "tall fellow named 'Slim' followed us out." All three of them got into an automobile, "Slim" driving, and came to Cumberland, stopping at a Baltimore street restaurant here for a cup of coffee, Schemminger said.

Had Glass Of Beer

Leaving the restaurant, they drove to Virginia avenue and stopped near Fourth street, according to the statement. Schemminger said he and Logue got out of the car, had a glass of beer and then walked along the street.

When they came to Norris's store Logue said "This is the one," Schemminger stated. He added that they returned to the car and had "Slim" drive it to within half a block of the grocery where Schemminger and Logue got out.

After the pair entered the store they waited a few minutes while a "couple" of customers were waited on, Schemminger said, and then "Logue walked over to the counter and said something to Mr. Norris and then put the gun on him. At that time I pulled out the blackjack which I had in my possession."

Schemminger said Norris handed him his money on Logue's demand and added that he went behind the counter and took other money from a cigar box used as a cash box. He said he did not bother with the change. After Logue asked for Norris's billfold the latter handed it to Schemminger, he said, and he extracted $5 from it and dropped on the floor.

Schemminger said he started to look through the pocketbook of a customer, Mrs. James Newlin, Fifth

The girl's mother said Virginia was injured when the sled she was riding on Goethe street struck a bare spot, went out of control and struck a car parked on the wrong side of the street at 12:30 p. m.

The accident may delay plans for the family to visit the girl's father, who is serving in Munich, Germany, with the army transportation corps. Capt. Rice entered service with old Company G. Mrs. Rice, with Virginia and her two sisters, planned to go to Germany in March.
